Bomber Crashes In Village

SAIGON (AP)—A U.S. marine jet fighter-bomber, heavily loaded with bombs and fuel, crashed into a Vietnamese village shortly after takeoff from Da Nang airport today. At least 26 villagers were killed.

The pilot, identified as Lieut. Walter J. Doherty, 22, of Gold Hill, Ore., miraculously escaped serious injury. His parachute failed to open after he ejected, but the fall of his ejection seat was broken by a tree.

A spokesman said the plane was carrying two 1,000-pound bombs. One exploded as did 20-millimetre ammunition.

The crashing plane levelled a number of small Vietnamese homes. Others were set afire.

Cong Guerrillas Attack Near Saigon Airport

SAIGON (AP)—A Viet Cong guerrilla squad staged a half-hour attack with mortars and recoilless rifles tonight on a U.S. motor vehicle pool about a mile from Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport. A U.S. spokesman said they killed one South Vietnamese and wounded six others. He said he knew of no American casualties.

About 20 shells were lobbed at the installation. By the light of flares, vehicle-mounted U.S. military policemen shot back with machine-guns.

Material damage from the shelling was officially reported to be light.

The airport itself, which handles both military and civilian traffic, was the target of a Viet Cong bombardment four months ago. Seven U.S. soldiers and a South Vietnamese were killed in that raid.

●

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy pilots reported a surface-to-air missile fired at flight of A-4 Skyhawks Tuesday missed its target, reversed itself and exploded in a populated area east of Haiphong.

A spokesman for the U.S. military command said the pilots reported fires were observed after the missile detonated.

●

TOKYO (Reuters)—The North Viet Nam news agency said today 200 civilians were killed or wounded when two U.S. jets bombed and strafed the South Vietnamese hamlet of Cau Nhiem Aug. 9.

The agency said the raid could not have been a mistake since the hamlet was clearly marked on maps and was only seven miles from the big town of Can Tho.

ONE ARRESTED

Lawyers Quit U.S. Hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The lawyer who brought suit against the house committee on un-American activities was hauled out of the committee hearing room and arrested today, provoking a mass walkout by seven other attorneys.

PREMIER SMALLWOOD
. . . 6th in '66

The eviction of Atty. Arthur Kinoy on orders of acting committee chairman Joe Pool, D-Tex., highlighted another explosive day of hearings on legislation aimed at organizations which have protested the Viet Nam war.

The episode occurred as Kinoy and Pool got into a shouting match over the rights of one of his clients.

Kinoy, a principal attorney in the suit seeking to have the committee declared unconstitutional, was taken in a patrol wagon to a nearby precinct house and charged with disorderly conduct. He indicated he would decline to post collateral and go to trial on the issue.

'MANHANDLED'

His colleagues charged he had been manhandled by the U.S. marshals who evicted him, and declared the arrest was an insult to the American bar.

William Kunstler, who serves as an American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) attorney with Kinoy, declared: "Never anywhere in 18 years of experience have I ever seen a lawyer treated this way."

When Pool refused to back down on his action against Kinoy, Kunstler led a walkout of the attorneys. Two subpoenaed witnesses, Allen Krebs and Walter D. Teague III, who were represented by Kinoy, also stalked out.

Then nine spectators began shouting "end the war" from the rear of the huge hearing room and were taken out by police. Six others had been arrested prior to Kinoy's clash with Pool.

POOL RESISTS

Pool told one of the attorneys, Jeremiah Gutman: "I'm not going to stand here and let a bunch of lawyers take over this hearing and that is what you are trying to do."

Beverly Axelrod, who is also an ACLU lawyer, charged that Kinoy had been "choked and manhandled" while being dragged from the hearing room.

Pool defended the action.

"I listened to his objections patiently," the congressman said. "But he continued to object even after I had told him to sit down and so I ordered him to leave the hearing room. When he resisted, I asked that he be removed."

Smallwood Calls Vote Sept. 8

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (CP) — Premier Joseph Smallwood announced today a provincial election will be held Thursday, Sept. 8.

Mr. Smallwood's announcement at a news conference ended weeks of speculation that an election would be held this year.

It is the sixth provincial election since Newfoundland entered Confederation in 1949.

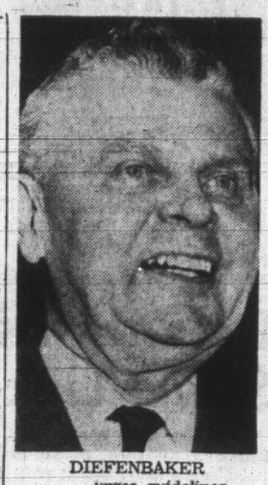

House standing after the Nov. 19, 1962, election: Liberals, 34; Progressive Conservatives, 7; Independent, 1—total—42.

Russ Planes Have Missiles

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union can fire long-range nuclear missiles from airplanes, a deputy commander of the Soviet air forces said today.

He said this means Soviet bombers can sit back beyond the limits of any enemy's anti-aircraft defence zone and fire accurately a missile from a distance of many hundreds of miles.

Air Marshal V. A. Agaltsov, a specialist in long-range aviation, made the claim in an interview with the news agency Tass.

'Wage Explosion' Blamed on Gov't

OTTAWA (UPI) — Parliament should be reconvened immediately and the government should bring down a national transportation policy as soon as possible to head off Canada's impending railway strike, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said today.

Diefenbaker said at a press conference the government's action in giving large pay increases to Quebec dockworkers and employees on the St. Lawrence seaway had created a "wage explosion" in Canada.

If the same policy is carried over to the railways, it would result in "the most galloping inflation this country has ever known."

Diefenbaker blamed Prime Minister Pearson in particular and the government in general for the threatened rail strike which would have disastrous consequences on the national economy.

'DON'T WAIT'

He said "some recommendations" of the MacPherson report on railways should be implemented as soon as possible and warned the government against waiting until the strike was underway before taking action.

Diefenbaker said consumer prices were rising every week, that the rate of increase had never been equalled and that there was no end to spiraling costs in sight.

"The major reason is that 11 per cent sales tax on building materials," the Tory leader said.

He also blamed high interest rates which he said were affecting productivity.

Diefenbaker called on Pearson to issue a set of guidelines for the Canadian people — "a call to arms," he called it. He said the prime minister should tell Canadians temporary advantages in the economy would cause serious economic problems in the future.

Avert Strike, Firms Urge

VANCOUVER (CP) — A foundation speaking for 25 influential British Columbia companies urged Prime Minister Pearson Tuesday night to recall Parliament immediately and enact legislation to head off a threatened railway strike.

The foundation membership includes such companies as British Columbia Telephone, the Aluminum Company of Canada, MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., Cominco Ltd., and other large companies.

Cabinet Meets, Rail Chiefs Standing By

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson today took personal charge of the government's railway strike crisis, calling a special cabinet committee to map plans for the impending emergency.

President Donald Gordon of the CNR and President Ian Sinclair of the CPR were called to the capital from Montreal but did not attend the cabinet committee session that began at 11:15 a.m.

Informants said the railway presidents were asked to stand by for cabinet-level consultations later in the day, probably with Mr. Pearson himself.

A full meeting of the cabinet began at 2:30 p.m.

The committee meeting was attended by Labor Minister Nicholson, Transport Minister Pickersgill, Health Minister MacEachen and Immigration Minister Marchand among others.

Several senior government officials were called in, among them George Haythorne, deputy labor minister, Bernard Wilson, the government's top labor relations expert, and R. B. Bryce, deputy finance minister.

Reports that some non-operating railway workers have threatened to stage an unauthorized walkout one minute after midnight tonight gave an air of emergency to the cabinet discussions.

A country-wide walkout by almost 120,000 railway workers is expected within the next three weeks.

If an unauthorized walkout can be averted, the unions plan to set a common strike date and the guessing is that it will be either Aug. 29 or Sept. 6, or some time between those two dates.

Local Threatens Wildcat Walkout

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One local of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers union voted Tuesday night to go on strike against Canadian National Railway while five others rejected a conciliation board's wage recommendation.

The 200 members of Windsor, Ont. Local 185, mostly ticket sellers and freight handlers, voted to go on strike at one minute after midnight Wednesday.

Mr. Justice J. C. A. Cameron of the Ontario Supreme Court recommended a 40-cent hourly increase over two years in the dispute between the nation's railways and their non-operating employees.

The CBRT's 21,000 members across Canada represent one-fifth of the workers involved in the dispute.

The union's Local 126 in Belleville, Ont., Local 8 in Saint John, N.B., and Locals 6, 288 and 292 in Moncton voted to reject Mr. Justice Cameron's proposal.

Election Drums To Beat Louder

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

The Sept. 12 election campaign began throbbing today as the main party engines warmed up for a flying start tonight.

New Democratic Party leader Robert Strachan and Liberal party leader Ray Perrault were to kick off their campaigns at nominating conventions tonight in Vancouver.

Premier Bennett, just back from some unofficial but vigorous campaigning in the Kootenays, revealed his plans for making his formal campaign opening Thursday night in Campbell River.

It will be followed by a ribbon-cutting ceremony and the start of a whistlestop tour of the Peace River country next week on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

But while the other party machines roared into activity a total silence from the Progressive Conservative party has begun catching considerable attention.

Expectations mounted that a formal gathering of the party-s 18-man board of governors scheduled for Saturday in Vancouver will decide not to name a single standard-bearer in this election because the party is heavily involved in internal reorganization.

UP FOR GRABS

Mr. Perrault said that the 11 per cent of the 1963 election vote captured by the Conservatives now will be up for grabs by the other parties.

B.C. Conservative Association president Stuart Fleming told the Times from his Vernon home that the Saturday meeting will decide whether or not the party does contest any seat but he would not hint what the decision will be.

"There will be a positive statement of our decision on Saturday after the meeting. I have already made up my mind about a tentative recommendation but it is based on incomplete information which should be complete by the meeting and I cannot say any more than that."

Exactly half-way to nomination day, Aug. 29, there are 78 candidates declared in the running for the 55 seats of the enlarged legislature — 38 NDP, 20 Social Credit, 17 Liberals, two Communists and two others.

Many of the Vancouver entries have produced major surprises but the biggest question at the moment is whether This Hour Has Seven Days' co-host Laurie LaPierre will stand in one of the lower mainland ridings as a Liberal or NDP candidate.

"I have no comment to make at present about the rumors," Mr. Perrault replied this morning when asked by the Times if Mr. LaPierre would be a Liberal candidate.

"He is interested in running here but I believe it is in the federal not provincial field," said Maynard Wollard, as NDP campaign officer. "But the indications are that if he does run it would be for us rather than for the Liberals as the eastern press has speculated."

(Mr. LaPierre, who addressed an NDP meeting in Vancouver

PULLED THROUGH BARS TOT KILLED BY LIONS

RENNES (Reuters)—A 19-month-old girl was dragged into a cage and killed by three lions Tuesday night as she was visiting a zoo near this French city with her parents.

The girl, Catherine Menon, wandered away from her parents and young brother and sister as they were paying the entrance fee to the park.

She wriggled through a barrier surrounding the lions' cage. One of the lions lashed out with its paw through the bars, dragged the girl into the cage and seized her in its mouth.

A keeper managed to free the girl but she died shortly after.

South Africa Hikes Taxes, Boosts Arms

CAPE TOWN (Reuters)— South Africa's Finance Minister Eben Donges announced today a five-per-cent increase in income tax on individuals and higher duties on liquor, cigarettes, cars and luxury goods.

Introducing his budget in the House of Assembly, the minister also announced a five-per-cent surcharge on gold and diamond mining company taxation.

Donges said 255,900,000 rand ($383,200,000) had been allocated for defence — 26,500,000 rand ($41,100,000) above the main estimates for last year.

Donges reported an upsurge in confidence by international capital in South Africa.

'Big Three' Chosen From Hundreds

Three final winners in the Times Photo Contest have been decided.

Drawn from the hundreds of photo entries that flooded the Times office during the six-week contest, they were among first-place winners in the weekly competitions.

The grand prize nets each of the winners a chance at the trip for two around the world and $50,000 in other travel and cash awards in the National Newspaper Snapshot Contest.

Winners are:

Barry G. du Temple, whose photo of an elderly turbanned Muslim holding his grandchild was chosen best in People of the World category by Times judges Bill Halkett, staff photographer, and Audrey St. D. Johnson, drama critic.

Mr. du Temple of 814 Ardmore Drive, Sidney, took the photo in the small village of Sanderskote, outside Lahore, Pakistan, where he was spending two years teaching and studying on a Commonwealth Scholarship.

He is a former teacher at Lansdowne Junior High. The photo appeared in last Thursday's Times.

Gerald W. Bowden of Lake Oswego, Ore, snapped the winning photo in the World in Which We Live category. A former Times carrier boy, Mr. Bowden caught his two young sons, Andrew, four, and David, two, on film as they came eye to eye with a sparrow feeding in their yard.

The photo was entered in the Times contest by their grandfather, Jerry Bowden of Victoria, who thought the photo was good enough to win a prize. It appeared in the Times of Wednesday, Aug. 10.

Maurice Bombezin, of 1310 Prillaman Avenue, took grand prize in the Animals of the World category with his snap of a dog, Kiki and a Siamese cat, Patty, in a head-on encounter on a ladder.

Mr. Bombezin, a woodworker, entered his photos frequently in the contest. He keeps his camera with him almost everywhere, and credits this for the number of unusual shots he gets.

Three of his photos won firsts in the contest, and three more received honorable mention. Mr. Bombezin's winning photo appeared in the Times of Wednesday, July 27.

Builders Hail Settlements In Okanagan

The carpenters union broke ranks Tuesday and contractors who have declared a lockout against them clapped their hands.

The negotiating committee of the Provincial Council of Carpenters, however, issued a statement repudiating agreements reached in the Okanagan Valley.

Five interior locals of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters defied the negotiating committee and settled with contractors on a two-year agreement with no change in the 40-hour work week and an hourly raise of 50 cents on the present $3.49.

Shorter hours is the key issue in the lockout, with the carpenters wanting 37½ hours and the contractors wanting to keep 40 hours.

The chairman of the Construction Industry Joint Negotiating Committee, R. K. Gervin, welcomed the move by interior carpenters.

"It's a refreshing thing in these times of labor-management conflict to hear that carpenters in these areas have shown such a sense of responsibility to the general public, themselves and their families," he said.

FAIR CONTRACT

"The president of the union's Kamloops local, Harry Embleton, said the carpenters accepted the contract because they thought it was fair.

"There's no real desire among carpenters up here for a 37½-hour work week," he said.

He also said coast officials of the union, including provincial president Arnold Smith of Nanaimo, tried to persuade carpenters not to approve the new agreement.

The Provincial Council of Carpenters, representing 29 locals, issued a statement saying it "repudiated an agreement made by several small locals in the Okanagan Valley.

"This agreement can have no legal status where 29 local certification exists," it said.

One estimate is that about half the Okanagan carpenters work for companies where the certification is under the 29 locals and the other half for contractors certified under individual locals.

The council said carpenters are "more determined than ever" to negotiate a shorter work week. The Okanagan action would not affect the majority of carpenters in B.C.

It added that carpenters are standing by the agreements signed with 130 independent contractors covering more than 1,200 carpenters which provide for a 37½-hour work week next year plus a 40-cent raise.

Locally, contractor George Wheaton said the news is the best he has heard for days and "I'd be glad to have our carpenters settle on the same basis."

NO CHANGE

But John Schibli, president of the union's Victoria local, said the new moves won't change the position here.

"Our executive strongly condemns the action by these locals," he said.

A membership meeting of the Victoria union will be held Thursday night and the new moves reported to it.

Mr. Schibli also said the union expected to meet today with Saanich School Board, which is concerned over delays to several school projects caused by the lockout.

The lockout by contractors against carpenters began 13 days ago after the union struck several projects. To date, 208 of the 322 companies represented by the joint committee have given lockout notice.

Mexico Nabs Group, Guns

MEXICO CITY (Reuters) — Police arrested 33 men and women, headed by a Spanish-born journalist, and charged them over the weekend with "conspiracy on a national scale."

In an oficial press statement, police said they also had seized an arsenal, including nine rifles and machine-guns, three automatic pistols and a home-make bomb.

Heading the list of detained persons is Spanish-born Victor Rico Galan, 38, a contributor to the left-wing weekly magazine Siempre.

The group, which included five women, was alleged to have held meetings to plan subversive tactics and activities against Mexico's internal security.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuba's ambassador to Lebanon has defected and come to Miami for political asylum, a Cuban exile broadcast reported Tuesday. Defence Department Sewer Link Proposed

The Department of National Defence has been asked to assist in the long-standing problem of sewage disposal from the Colwood Launderette at 1910 Sooke Road.

The operators of the launderette and the landlords have asked permission to join the outlet from the launderette with the deparment's sewer system at Esquimalt.

"We are in the process of arranging a meeting with department officials to discuss the matter," Edwin A. Popham, counsel for the operators, said today.

The launderette was closed June 21 by a bailiff acting for the landlords. This followed the laying of a charge under the Pollution Control Act that the launderette was polluting the area with waste water.

The launderette re-opened July 23 when Magistrate William Ostler dismissed the charge.

INJUNCTION

The operators then secured an injunction in Supreme Court chambers restraining the landlords from again closing the premises.

Judge Montague Drake ruled that the landlords of the property, not the operators of the launderette, were responsible for drainage.

But Herbert Mason, one of the operators, said they were anxious to arrange for proper disposal of waste water from the launderette.

"We are co-operating with the landlords to try and find a solution," he said.

. . . ELECTION

last May, is scheduled to speak to University of Victoria students Sept. 23.)

SURPRISE CANDIDATES

Among the surprise candidates in Vancouver are Ald. Tom Alsbury, Murdo Fraser and Dr. Lawrence Ranta, all Socreds.

Mr. Alsbury ran unsuccessfully as a CCF candidate in the 1950s before breaking from the party and winning election as Mayor of Vancouver. He now is a Vancouver alderman and takes the place vacated by Health Minister Eric Martin as one of the Socred candidates in Vancouver-Burrard.

Mr. Frazer is the 74-year-old reeve of North Vancouver district and he will be opposed by another personality, Barry Clark, a radio commentator nominated by the Liverals.

Dr. Ranta, medical director of Vancouver General Hospital and a hopeful for the health minister portfolio, has been named as Attorney-General Robert Boner's running mate.

Industrial Development, Trade and Commerce Minister Ralph Loffmark, who won a seat last time as running mate with Bonner, has been switched from the Vancouver Point-Grey riding to Vancouver-South while Education Minister Leslie Peterson is moving from Vancouver-Centre to Vancouver-Little Mountain.

The Socred shifting of their cabinet ministers is believed to be a gamble aimed at scoring some new wins in the critical and expanded lower mainland representation in the new house.

The NDP also have picked some Vancouver personalities that are new in the provincial field—notably Ald. Robert Williams, Tom Berger, Dr. Ray Parkinson and Burnaby Coun. Mrs. Eileen Dailly—as part of their Lower Mainland slate.

Mr. Strachan was to reveal the first major planks of the party platform at a nominating meeting in Vancouver-Centre tonight.

Mr. Perrault was to make his kick-off speech at his own nomination for the Vancouver-Capilano seat.

Mr. Perrault also scheduled a Friday morning press conference in Victoria where he and Oak Bay Liberal candidate Alan Macfarlane will reveal more planks in the party's platform.

He told the Times that redistribution and the "11 per cent floating Conservative vote make this a new ball game.

"Surveys show that Liberals are the second choice of confirmed NDP, Socred and Conservative party members and that with the 20 per cent of the vote base we start off with, could produce some progress by our party in this election—that will be surprising," Mr. Perrault said.

"After all, Sept. 14—just two days after the election—will be the 50th anniversary of the biggest political upset in B.C. history when the Liberals, with no seats, entered the 1915 election and came out with 34 sitting members."

Premier Bennett said both the NDP and Liberal parties are involved in internal feuding and "we have advice that many of their people will support us.

"And I'm happy we're getting more Conservative votes this time — at least that the information that is coming to me from Conservatives who say they will vote Socred this time."

The premier said he was conducting a "non-partisan campaign" and seeking a "strong mandate" so that foreign investment capital will be reassured.

He said Canada's image abroad had been badly shaken by "chaos and instability in Ottawa and a Social Credit victory in B.C. would restore confidence and will be the answer to Barron's (a Wall Street newspaper that critcized the premier's methods.)

He said he will cut a ribbon Tueday to open the Sports Hall of Fame in Vancouver then board a special PGE coach for his trip north which will include major stops at Fort St. John Thursday, Dawson Creek Friday and Prince George Saturday.

SEEKING THIRD TERM

Oak Bay Grits Choose Macfarlane

Alan Macfarlane was nominated by Oak Bay Liberal Association Tuesday night to seek his third term in the legislature.

Picked by acclamation at a meeting in Oak Bay Municipal Hall, he appealed for support again by independent voters and those from other parties.

He said this support enabled him to speak for all residents of this area. "while government members often have been silent because of being tied to the party line."

The 42-year-old lawyer also had some wry criticism of his frequent targets, Premier Bennett and Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi.

"If you had told me six years ago that I would be called upon to run in three election campaigns in six years, I would have told you that my wife, my family, my partners and my friends would never stand the pace," he said.

SEE YOUR DOCTOR

"If you had told me six years ago that the premier would go out of his way to defeat me in 1963, threaten an election during a sitting of the legislature in 1966 because I wanted to finish a speech on behalf of my constituents, and spend money like it was going out of style in every election to capture this seat—I would have suggested that you see your doctor.

"Although all of those things have happened, the last six years have served to increase my enthusiasm rather than dampen it."

Mr. Macfarlane said good government flows from MLAs prepared to stand up and speak on every important issue rather than from silent backbenchers and opposition is needed because men in power do sometimes forget they are the servants and not the masters of the people.

ALAN MACFARLANE

"I had no hesitation in criticizing the waste involved in the purchase of the Lear Jet for the personal convenience of the minister of highways," he said.

'OTHER WAYS'

"There are other ways to get to the church on time."

Mr. Macfarlane said he would continue his battle for better government financing of hospitals, municipal needs, a new divided Patricia Bay Highway and use of B.C. ferry profits to reduce fares.

Mr. Macfarlane said the government should use its huge surpluses to purchase private hospitals and nursing homes and reduce custodial care costs.

"No one in this province should be faced with a hospital bill of up to $450 a month while there are surplus monies in our treasury," he said.

Super Submariner Takes Train

PARIS (CP) — Joseph Papp, the 33-year-old Montrealer who says he crossed the Atlantic in a pocket submarine he built himsif, took the train from the coastal port of Brest to Paris during the night, then dropped from view.

Given a safe - conduct by French police, he was supposed to report to the Canadian embassy here today to be issued identification papers.

But he had still not shown up by late morning, and an embassy spokesman said he had not taken advantage of a hotel room reserved for him by a "pifate" London radio station.

The embassy said it wasn't particularly concerned. The safe-conduct would be valid for another day or so and there is no real obligation on Papp to hurry in for documents, the spokesman said.

ARRANGE AIR TICKET

Arrangements have been made by Papp's wife in Montreal for Air Canada to issue him a plane ticket at its office here. But he had not reported to Air Canada either.

Papp was released from the psychiatric ward of the naval hospital in Brest after four days of examination. He was picked up in an inflatable rubber dinghy in the harbor at Brest, saying his home-made submarine sank after carrying him across the Atlantic from Sorel., Que., at an unprecedented speed.

However, police said they found a train ticket for the Paris-Brest line dated Aug. 11—a day when he should have been at sea—and reports from Montreal say he has been identified as having been a passenger on a KLM flight from Montreal to Amsterdam Aug. 10.

Rose Latulippe Opens —An Odor of Success

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP)—The Royal Winnipeg Ballet opened its world premiere of Rose Latulippe Tuesday night to critical acclaim for both music and performance.

Praise outweighed criticism for the musical score by Harry Freedman and the performers' execution of complicated gigues, reels and folk dances by choreographer Brian Macdonald.

Rose Latulippe, based on an old French-Canadian legend, is the Royal Winnipeg Ballet's contribution to Festival Canada, the performing arts' centennial celebrations.

Sydney Johnson of the Montreal Star said he is sure the first original full length Canadian ballet will be a huge success.

"One hardly needs . . . to be told that the choreographer has worked closely with his collaborating librettist, his composer, and his costume and set designer. Everything one sees seems to dovetail perfectly with what one hears at that precise second—even the breathtaking silences."

HAS RESERVATIONS

However, Mr. Johnson had some reservations.

"But I came away from this premiere feeling that Mr. Macdonald had created a French-Canadian Giselle instead of French-Canadian Rose Latulippe."

Gordon Jocelyn of the Montreal Gazette said Freedman's music "turns it into a legend the narrative projection of mankind's terrors and longings. . . . It was an impressive evening, one that will bear repetition."

Francean Campbell of the Vancouver Province says the ballet may not bring about any revolution in the world of dance "but it does come up big and important any way you look at it."

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

A high pressure area continues to bring warm sunny weather to the southern half of the province. DR. KING'S EFFIGY KICKED, TORN APART

CHICAGO (AP)—A group of white persons hanged Dr. Martin Luther King in effigy Tuesday night in an all-white neighborhood, then ripped the dummy to the ground and kicked it to pieces.

The incident occurred in the Jefferson Park neighborhood while 60 civil rights demonstrators picketed seven real estate offices in the same area.

King, chairman of the Sounthern Christian Leadership Conference, is conducting a drive in Chicago to provide open housing for all persons. He was not at the demonstration.

The civil rights group, whites and Negroes, picketed the real estate offices to taunts and occasional rocks from white hecklers. The demonstrators say the firms sell to white persons; but not to Negroes.

An estimated 800 white persons, mostly youths, roamed the streets but there were few incidents.

POLICE KILLINGS

Second Man Under Arrest

LONDON (CP)—John Duddy, 37-year-old Scotsman wanted in the killings of three London detectives, was arrested today.

With the capture of Duddy, only one of the three wanted in connection with the slayings is still at large.

The slain detectives, members of an undercover squad, were shot outside the walls of London't Wormwood Scrubs prison last Friday.

Duddy was arrested following an intensive manhunt in both London and Glasgow.

APPEAL TO PUBLIC

Harry Roberts, 30, is the other man sought. Police appealed for help from the public Tuesday after identifying the two men.

Police sources said Duddy would stay in Glasgow until an escort arrived from Scotland Yard.

Duddy was seized in a police raid on a house in Glasgow.

A spokesman for Glasgow police said Duddy offered no resistance.

The hunt for Roberts went on without letup.

Busy squad cars and dog patrols raced to check each each promising report. Raids took place in London, Bristol and Glasgow.

Ports and air terminals throughout Britain were being closely watched and a special squad of 60 crack marksmen was standing by at the police hunt headquarters in West London.

"We want everyone in Britain to turn detective and watch for these men," a police spokesman said Tuesday, warning that they were armed and dangerous and should not be approached.

ONE HELD

A third man, Londoner John Edward Witney, 36, Tuesday was ordered held in custody for a week on charges of murdering—with others—the three detectives gunned down Friday when they tried to question occupants of a car on a quiet West London street.

West Germans Keep Red Ban

BONN (Reuters) — West Germany, despite charges of intolerance, is determined not to ease its ban on the Communist party, imposed 10 years ago today.

Interior Minister Paul Luecke said Tuesday the party's goal of overthrowing the government or staging a revolution has not changed.

But the ban, he said, has eliminated the party as a factor in political life.

West German Firms Wooed By Thatcher

DUESSELDORF (Reuters) — Premier Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan said Tuesday he is out to attract new industry to his province in industrial talks in West Germany.

Thatcher arrived with his wife for a four-day working holiday in West Germany and said he plans talks today with a large industrial firm. An informed source said he would see representatives of the giant Volkswagen car firm.

"This firm is looking for an outlet for a central warehouse in Western Canada and we are anxious to get them," the premier said.

"I will also be meeting the Wintershall potash firm to talk over one or two problems." The firm has a $50,000 investment in Saskatchewan. He did not say what the problems were.

MiG Pilot Defects; Israel Gets Plane

TEL AVIV (CP)—An Iraqi pilot who defected to Israel Tuesday with a Russian-built MiG-21 jet said that as a Christian he suffered discrimination in Iraq and was passed up for promotion.

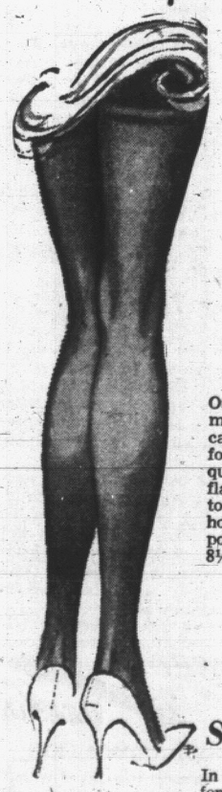

The pilot, whose name was not given, appeared before a press briefing Tuesday night in the blue flying suit of the Iraqi air force with the rank of captain.

In halting English, he readily answered questions and said he defected to Israel because it was the only country within range which he was certain would not hand him back to Iraq.

He said he was fatigued by his bombing missions against rebel Kurdish tribesmen in northern Iraq. For five years he operated from a base from which he flew bombing sorties against the Kurds, the 30-year-old pilot said.

A Western military attache at the press conference said he believed the MiG-21 the pilot brought over was the first of the type to be found intact in the Western world.

Law in Theory and Practice

A FEW DAYS AGO THE Liberal cabinet at Ottawa commuted a murderer's death sentence to life imprisonment. It was the twenty-first commutation by the government since 1963 and it continued a policy of negating the vote of Parliament which favored retention of the death penalty.

The cabinet's action in refusing to hang persons who have been sentenced to death by the courts is perfectly legal. It has full power under the law to commute such sentences. But the original concept of this power was that it would be used in special cases, for special reasons, which would constitute exceptions to the general observance of the courts' orders.

The current situation is anomalous inasmuch as parliament last spring affirmed its support of the death penalty. With the government consistently commuting every death sentence it is obvious that parliament and the cabinet are now at odds in their basic beliefs on the subject.

Most Canadians have come to abhor the death penalty as a punishment. They have done so on humane, religious or other grounds, and their belief is in conformity with the practice of many other countries today. Many persons add a qualification to the thesis by insisting that life imprisonment as an alternative be what the words imply — that dangerous murderers shall not ever be released into society, perhaps to repeat their crime against some innocent victim. Society must be protected against those who by reason of mental, emotional or immoral characteristics are a danger to it.

Canada should bring its statutes into line with the beliefs of the public—and with those of its federal government. A bill should be introduced abolishing capital punishment, stiffening the concept of life imprisonment as an alternative, and bringing our now standard practice into conformity with the intent of the law. At the moment we are saying one thing and doing another, even though there is legal provision for such a schizophrenic attitude.

A Pail of Gasoline

THE FORTHCOMING "WAR crimes trial" of President Johnson and his senior advisers, arranged by 94-year-old philosopher and peace movement leader Lord Russell, is causing considerable anguish in Washington, according to news reports. Lord Russell has rounded up a panel of "judges" with considerable standing in world intellectual circles, most of them with left-wing connections but none of them identifiable as Communists. He has also arranged for evidence and testimony from Vietnamese who have suffered as a result of American napalm bombings and other attacks.

All of this adds up to a potentially ferocious anti-American propaganda blast due to emanate from Paris in November and it is difficult to see how the United States government can counter it effectively. One possibility, of course, would be to put pressure on President de Gaulle to refuse to allow non-French participants entry into the country. But — aside from the fact that he is not warmly sympathetic to the American role in Viet Nam — it might be difficult for President de Gaulle to keep out of France people like former Mexican President Lazaro Cardenas; the American historian Mr. Isaac Deutscher; Brazilian economist Josue de Castro, winner of a Franklin Roosevelt Memorial Foundation award, and similar distinguished participants. The French press, preeminently anti-American concerning Viet Nam, would raise a terrible howl if it were tried.

Alternatively, the American government could attempt to keep its own nationals from attending, people like Negro leader Stokely Carmichael, Mr. Deutscher and others. But recent Supreme Court rulings on State Department passport controls would make this difficult.

There is one other alternative. Lord Russell has not provided in his "trial" for an advocate for the defence, a singular omission in any free court of law, and the United States might consider appointing a defender and demanding the right to produce defence witnesses. This, however, would have the drawback of giving the "trial" a semblance of official United States recognition.

Perhaps the best course would be to ignore the proceedings and hope that Lord Russell's fanatical anti-Americanism — he praised Premier Khruschev and condemned President Kennedy during the Cuban missiles crisis — will in the end be his undoing.

In any event it promises to be a nasty time not only for the United States but for the free world in general. Tempers may be inflamed and emotions aroused in a way that will not be conducive to a reasonable settlement of the Viet Nam war. The likely tendency will be to harden world opinion into two rigid camps of anti- and pro-American forces and to exacerbate an already dangerous situation.

A Sharp Lesson on Parks Behaviour

THIS YEAR, OFFICIALS OF the provincial parks branch report, there is less rowdyism in the parks than last, when the situation was better than the previous year. But there is still too much, and there will be until hoodlum activity and more serious misbehaviour are eliminated from the campsites.

Some of the improvement may be attributed to education—most of it in fact. The education, however, takes different forms. Some young people who were careless of the rights of others to innocent enjoyment have learned consideration. Some of them have learned the hard way—through sharp and impressive lessons read to them by magistrates in the vicinity of parks.

A report from Merritt provides an illustration of an unusual development on the part of campers. In that locality legitimate vacationers banded together and caught a pair of youths who were creating a serious disturbance. The pair were turned over to the police and, after trial and a sharp rebuke from the magistrate, were sentenced to 60 days each at Oakalla.

If the sentences seem severe, they were intended to be. They are also likely to be effective in their aim.

For the Retarded

THE AMOUNT IS MODEST, BUT the intent of the $34,000 federal grant to encourage an athletic program for retarded children in Canada as a centennial project merits general approval.

The fund allocated to the Canadian Association for Retarded Children through the office of the Secretary of State will be used to promote some proficiency in swimming, skating, races, jumps and hiking among an estimated 30,000 pupils attending special schools across the country.

A double purpose should be served. In the first instance the program can be expected to develop better physical co-ordination among some of the afflicted children and, through participation and varying successes, a happier, healthier outlook.

With so many other events being arranged for the general population, it is gratifying to know that the less fortunate minority is not being overlooked in Canada's celebration of its 100th birthday.

FROM SINGAPORE — By DENNIS BLOODWORTH

Mao Runs the Country But Who Runs Mao?

PEKING has taken another major step towards stamping China's millions into the single form of the "New Communist Man" by decreeing that each must in future be jack of all trades but a master of no thoughts, for these he will get exclusively from the works of Mao Tse-tung.

The Army is to be "one great school" in which the soldier will become a star student of politics and a pedlar of progressive culture, as well as a rifleman. It will take part increasingly in the work of the masses, will start growing food and setting up small and medium industries of its own, and will then trade with the State like some form of uniformed super commune.

At the same time the factories, farms and government commercial organizations will emulate the Army. The factory will be a super-factory, raising its own crops, developing its own sidelines. Its workers will be highly indoctrinated in revolutionary thinking and also intensively trained in the militia by the Army, so that they may fight as self-contained unit against both the bourgeois reactionary within and the imperialist aggressor without.

Blueprint and Witch-Hunt

This blueprint for converting China into a chain of all-purpose paramilitary cells was only widely publicized after the beginning of this month. It closely follows the long term program for purifying the Army and shaping it into the political spearhead of the revolution, and the early stages of the current great cultural witch-hunt for "anti-Mao bourgeois ogres", which has already brought dismissal and disgrace to so many senior Party officials and intellectuals.

These have been necessary preliminaries. For as a church depends on faith in the Word of God to save it from conversion into a bingo hall, so China's socialist structure depends on faith in the Thought of Mao to save it from reassembly as a "bourgeois hell". Enemies of the Thought must, therefore, be relentlessly uprooted to clear the site before the proletarian paradise can be thrown up.

If one word can sum up the Thought of Mao, it is "guerrilla." Mao Tse-tung organized a spectacularly successful Communist revolution in China by basing his uprising on the peasant millions. It was their decisive support that enabled his casteless call-me-comrade guerrilla armies to employ the maximum flexibility, initiative and boldness against a technically superior enemy, matching his cannon with their Communist conviction. Mao therefore believes in mobilization of the masses, in the might of indoctrinated man over machine, and in the bold and sudden coup.

Unremitting Class Struggle

This "mass line" means that Mao advocates unremitting class struggle; in the idiom of the gossip column, he loves peasants, workers, soldiers, thinks everyone should have their outlook, distrusts specialists, technical elites, upstage intellectuals, humanitarians who hold to the heresy that all men are equal and therefore that a successful shopkeeper may be as good as a night-soil shifter.

Under the leadership of bespectacled 58-year-old Marshal Lin Piao, who has been extolled as the greatest practical exponent of the Thought of Mao, the Army has become a heavily-indoctrinated political force, stripped of rank and insignia and imbued with the "guerrilla mentality."

Vigorous opposition from officers who wanted a modern technically-proficient service exclusively concerned with national defence, led to a "big struggle" against those who "sought to make Army policy a carbon copy of foreign practice", the Liberation Army Daily revealed a few days ago. Heading the list of those purged for this professionalism was General Lo Jui-ch'ing, Chief of General Staff, whose long-suspected dismissal was confirmed early in August.

Marker of Revolution

The Army has become the right marker of the revolution, on whom the whole nation is ordered to form up. "Learn from the People's Liberation Army" was the slogan of 1965. Just as the military had organized political departments, commissars and Party branches down to company level and encouraged hundreds of thousands of men to enter the Party last year, so, in civilian life, political instructors were attached even to the drilling teams in the oilfields of Taching, and to agricultural production brigades on the farms of Fukien province.

The object of this country-wide "socialist education" is to give every man a sense of collective determination and cooperative effort based on the belief that a million bare hands move mountains better than any brigade of bulldozers.

It was this doctrine that prompted Mao to organize all China into the People's Communes in 1958, and which has become sacred today. A great purge is sweeping away men like the "bourgeois devil" at the head of the Basketball Federation, who mouths the blasphemy that "championships can be won without studying the Thought of Mao."

Victims of Purge

It has removed Peng Chen from the Politburo and Lu Ting-yi, defaced Minister of Culture, from the Central Committee of the Party. It is prompted by an internal Party struggle in which the villains are those who try to "use the red flag to beat the red flag", Communists who nevertheless believe that technical skill or academic qualification, or specialized study are as important as the inspiring aphorisms of Mao.

In most universities and colleges, presidents, party secretaries or vice-presidents have been axed, and it appears that new criteria will be introduced whereby students will be judged by their class origins and political reliability rather than by their academic excellence. Education will follow a half-study, half-work system, which will take students and teachers down to factory and farm for purification in the spiritual sheep-dip of the "wisdom of the masses."

FROM LONDON — By ANGUS MAUDE, M.P.

A Written British Constitution?

Mr. Maude is a Conservative Member of the British Parliament

"THE spirit of the constitution had been broken," wrote de Tocqueville of the state of England 500 years ago, "but the forms remained: it was like the corpse of a free government."

In like case, a battered and mortified Parliament has just risen from what remains of the summer recess. It has proved powerless to prevent an obstinate administration from pursuing policies hell-bent for financial disaster, and from rushing through unpopular and dubious remedial measures by irregular means. The principles of collective bargaining, the validity of contracts, the right to strike and the free operation of the price mechanism have been overridden in peace-time by government fiat, backed by sharp practice and a large Labour majority in the Commons.

That a people generally gets the government it deserves is small comfort to a nation facing four more years of a discredited and increasingly authoritarian administration. Little as it can do to rid itself of its present rulers, it would do well to consider — and so would the politicians — how the events of the past few weeks can be prevented from recurring.

Britain has no written constitution, and Parliament can make or repeal any laws it likes. What has been done is therefore not "illegal"; it has not even transgressed the letter of the standing orders of either House of Parliament. It is constitutional convention — which is no more than a general understanding that certain unwritten rules will be observed — that has been breached. And this is the culmination of a long process by which, in the name of democracy, certain checks on arbitrary and irresponsible government have been eroded.

The prerogative of the sovereign to dissolve parliament and order elections without the advice and consent of the prime minister has long ago atrophied. That it was in most circumstances a dangerous power is obvious, and probably few people would wish it restored.

Independence Destroyed

A more subtle check was the independence formerly shown by at least a proportion of the members of the House of Commons. There was a time when no government, even with a large majority, could have forced the Prices and Incomes Bill through parliament by the means used in the last fortnight. It was universal suffrage, inevitably leading to the mass party and the political machine, that destroyed this independence. It is easy to berate MPs for cynicism and pusillanimity, but harder to devise a system that will work without party discipline.

By far the most important lost safeguard is the revising and delaying power of the House of Lords, deliberately destroyed by left-wing governments with the concurrence of the British people. The Liberals' Parliament Act of 1911 made two major changes. The first removed from the second chamber all power to amend or delay a "money bill" (defined solely by the certificate of the Commons' Speaker, who has just given one in respect of the Selective Employment Payments Bill). The second limited the Lords' power to delay other measures, or insist on substantial amendments, to three parliamentary sessions (two to three years).

Power Reduced

This last power was further reduced by a Labor government in 1949, to secure the nationalization of the steel industry. The Lord's delaying power was cut to two sessions, with a minimum (which can easily be made a maximum) of one year.

In fact, the results of this process have been even more far-reaching. Knowing that the Labor Party would welcome a chance to force the abolition of the second chamber, the Lords are now totally inhibited from using their powers in the public interest—even against unpopular measures. The Conservative leadership dare not force a showdown which would allow the Labor government to start a diversionary campaign with the slogan of "Peers versus People."

This is the price paid for retaining too long a hereditary second chamber which today cannot be logically or politically justified. Apart from modest additions of life peers, all attempts to reform its composition have failed. The Labour Party prefers to leave it in a state of virtual impotence rather than risk the emergence of a politically viable successor with real powers of delay and revision.

Intolerable

This is an intolerable situation. Every constitution that effectively ensures sound government provides some real check to measures which are hasty and ill-conceived, authoritarian or fundamentally unpopular. There must be some machinery for an appeal from "Demos drunk to Demos sober." The one absolute menace to freedom is completely unrestricted government, whether the tyrant be a fascist dictator or a parliamentary majority.

Elected parliaments do not guarantee freedom and justice.

It is fantastic, in a country that prides itself on mature government, that the crazy structure of the Selective Employment Tax cannot be amended and that steel should be renationalized against the general will. Conservatives and Liberals must see that this situation has to be remedied. They must say so now, openly and specifically; for the nearer the Tories get to office, the less willing will their leaders become to restrict their own future powers. This is a sacrifice that must, for the country's sake, be made.

Time for Thought

Even Labour supporters would do well to consider whether they may not one day need the protection of some constitutional checks on arbitrary government; for example, the technocrats and managers could in the future present the greatest threat of all to popular freedom.

It may be that it is too late and too difficult to attempt the conversion of the present House of Lords into a viable second chamber. In that case Britain will have to attempt instead the daunting task of creating a new written Constitution, providing entrenched safeguards against arbitrary abuse.

Looking Back

From The Times of August 17, 1906:

It was a great time the street railwaymen had yesterday at their second annual picnic. There was an extremely large attendance and Sidney was en fete for the occasion. The redoubtable Malcolm Blackstock turned up for the fat man's race but was beaten by a foot by the gaoler Handley. The contest among the ladies for throwing the baseball brought out a very good entry and Mrs. Kennedy can well be proud of her record of 135 feet. In baseball the Electrics went down to defeat before the combined forces from Oak Bay, 22 to 14.

Traffic Fines and Power

In a recent speech to a local service club, as reported in your newspaper, police chief Gregory demands more power to combat big crime. But people today feel too much the power of the police in small crime, namely, traffic offences. So people are in no mood to grant their police more power.

Any day at the local police station you may see a steady parade of citizens paying traffic fines. They have all felt the force of police power. This might not be so bad if people all felt they deserved what they got in traffic offences from the police. But many of them are paying their fines only because it is quicker and easier than going to court. They are doing so with a strong sense of police power used unjustly.

And to make matters worse, even if a citizen today charged with a traffic offence pleads not guilty and goes to trial, unused to the law and court procedure, he is fighting a losing battle. He cannot hope to match expert police witnesses and trained city prosecutor.

It is all a great pity. For the police do need more power today to fight big crime. The solution seems to be to get them out of the job of handling small crime, and this means mainly the vast numbers of petty offences committed in today's traffic conditions.

George Was There

Attendance of George Chatterton at the conferance on Viet Nam was not reported in your valued paper, and therefore Mr. Carr's remarks bracket Mr. Chatterton with Mr. Groos in his failure to attend.

Not only was he there, but he also spoke favorably of what he had learned at the conference. No doubt Mr. Chatterton's stock rose because of his participation. H. T. ALLEN, 2140 Kings.

Showdown Justified

The Globe and Mail

IN their determination to protect the people of South West Africa from the horrors of apartheid, 36 African states are fully justified in pressing for a showdown at the United Nations. The international community has a clear moral and legal responsibility for the welfare of the territory's 450,000 inhabitants, most of whom are black.

When the General Assembly meets in late September, the African bloc will ask it to assert its authority over South West Africa, contending that the UN has inherited the League of Nations' responsibility for the mandated region. This is a direct challenge to the ruling power, South Africa, which holds that the mandate lapsed with the demise of the League and that it is not accountable to anyone for its administration.

White South Africans were jubilant last month when the International Court of Justice refused to act on a complaint by Ethiopia and Liberia against South Africa's rule of the territory, on the narrow technical grounds that the two nations did not have sufficient direct legal interest in their claim.

Elsewhere, as Prime Minister Lester Pearson remarked recently, there was widespread anger and resentment and even charges that the World Court had shown itself to be a white man's tribunal, dispensing white man's law at the expense of black man's justice.

A Bewildered Young Man In Search of Truth

Beatles' Lennon Was Left 'Naked, Truthful, Bitten'

By LEROY F. AARONS
The Washington Post

John Lennon's remarks about Christianity, which reverberated around the world and led to mass public burnings of Beatle records, were the musings of an almost naively sincere young man going through a process of self-discovery.

Lennon, 26, left this impression in a candid 40-minute interview with The Washington Post between the afternoon and evening Beatles concert Saturday at Detroit's Olympia Stadium.

Still reeling from the shock of the violent reaction to his comments, Lennon spoke freely and at length about the events leading up to the now celebrated quote, his own newly-emerging philosophy and the impact of their meteoric careers on himself and the other Beatles.

Lennon revealed that his views on Jesus and Christianity, which he gave to a British reporter who was a close personal friend, were directly influenced by a book, "The Passover Plot" by Hugh J. Schonfield.

A premise of this study, Lennon said, is that Jesus' message had been garbled by his disciples and twisted for a variety of self-serving reasons by those who followed, to the point where it has lost validity for many in the modern age.

Concept Had Great Impact

This simple and not new concept had a great impact on Lennon, who was in the midst of reading extensively about religion and rethinking his own ideas on the subject.

He communicated this (or thought that he had) in the casual, intimate interview with reporter Maureen Cleave at Lennon's home.

When her article appeared in the London Evening Standard on March 4, 1966 (part of a series on the Beatles), Lennon was quoted as follows:

"Christianity will go. It will vanish and shrink. I needn't argue about that; I'm right and I will be proved right. We're more popular than Jesus now; I don't know which will go first — rock 'n' roll or Christianity. Jesus was all right but his disciples were thick and ordinary. It's them twisting it that ruins it for me."

Reprinted by Teen Magazine

The passage was part of a long, rambling profile. The Lennon interview and the articles on the other Beatles (which incidentally, had some even more potentially explosive quotes) were picked up and reprinted almost verbatim about three weeks ago by an American teen magazine "Datebook."

A Birmingham, Ala., disc jockey spotted the Lennon quote, announced he was banning Beatles' music from his station and called for public burnings of Beatles' records, photographs and concert tickets. The controversy spread world-wide. Other bannings followed and groups organibed album burning sessions, mostly in the United States. In Longview, Texas, 7,000 people gathered for a Beatles bonfire.

The adverse publicity, coupled with a slight decline in the Beatles' phenomenal popularity seemed to be having its effect on the current tour. There were about 2,000 empty seats at each of the two Detroit performances.

Sunday the Rev. Thurman H. Babbs, pastor of the New Haven Baptist Church in Cleveland, threatened to expel any member of his congregation who attended the concert.

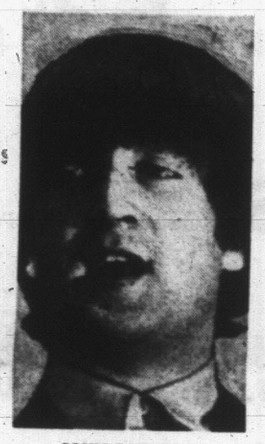

Not Glorifying The Beatles

In a self-humbling apology, at a press conference in Chicago, Lennon explained that he had been deploring the bowdlerizing of Christianity and not glorifying the Beatles. He might have used the example of television, he said, to emphasize that immediate, easy distractions were filling the vacuum left by the failure of the Christian ethic.

Lennon added: "I can't express myself very well, that's my trouble. I was just saying, in my illiterate way of speaking, what I gleaned from Schonfield's book.

"The main thing, though, is I did the article with a quite close friend who has been with us since we began and who had written some good articles in depth, you know, more than just what color corn flakes the Beatles eat for breakfast.

"I was talking to her in my own home," he said, "and we know each other so well that I was being even less expressive knowing that she would put it right. But when it was taken out of my house and into her business something happened to it. Then, the mere fact that it was in 'Datebook'—which as teen magazines go is really one of the best—changed its meaning that much more.

JOHN LENNON
. . . burning shocked

"Actually, if I'm going to blame anyone it's myself for not thinking what people a million miles away were going to say about it."

If he is prepared to eat humble pie about a mistaken impression, Lennon is by no means apologizing for having opinions. His ideas are taking new shape after a childhood of indifferent religious training, a period of cynical atheism and, over the last two year, what he calls "a reshuffling of all the things pushed into my head."

"I'm more of a Christian now than I ever was," he said. "I don't go along with organized religion and the way it has come about. I believe in God, but not as one thing, not as an old man in the sky. I believe that what people call God is something in all of us. I believe that what Jesus and Mohammed and Buddha and all the rest said was right. It's just that the translations have gone wrong.

'Clubs' Give Different Version

"Jesus says one thing and then all the clubs are formed for telling their versions and the whole thing gets twisted. It's like a game of having six people in a line and I whisper something to the guy next to me, maybe 'Love thy neighbor' or 'Everyone ought to be equal.' By the time it gets to the end of the line it's altogether something else. The things that have been said and done in the name of Christianity!"

If all this has an unsophisticated ring to it, it may be that it represents the first stirrings of a poorly-educated but intellectually hungry individual.

Lennon had what he calls a "weedy" education in his native Liverpool. He completed the British equivalent of 3½ years of high school and studied for five years in art school. But, he said, "I wasn't educated. I just gleaned a few things over the years. Nobody really tried to educate me and I never picked up much."

His religious training was "normal Church of England, Sunday school and Sunday church. But there was actually nothing going on in the church I went to. Nothing really touched us. The vicar was a fine man, always good for laughs. But I just think of all that as wasted."

By the time he reached 19, he had shed those early trappings for a smug atheism. "I shuffled it very well in those days. I was cynical about religion and never even considered about the goings on in Christianity."

Then came the phenomenal rise of the Beatles, and any tendency toward introspection was buried in the heady whirl of public adulation. It was only in the last two years, when the novelty began to tarnish, that Lennon and his co-Beatles started looking for something else.

Lennon likes to describe life as a Beatle as living in a "moving hothouse." Besides the artificiality and the constant exposure to the outside world, there is the element of forced growth.

"We've been mushroom grown, forced to grow up a bit quick, like having 30 to 40-year-old heads in 20-year-old bodies. We had to develop more sides, more attitudes. If you're a bus man, you usually have a bus man's attitude. But we had to sort of be more than four mop-heads up on a stage. We had to grow up or we'd have been swamped."

Growth Rarity In Pop World

The Beatles' growth, a rarity in the frenetic world of pop music is visible and measurable. It reveals itself in their recent music which is increasingly complex and experimental (for example, incorporating, of late, Indian instruments and techniques) and in the lyrics of Lennon and Paul McCartney which are beginning to probe layers of psychology and social consciousness.

It shows up, too, in their attitude toward their public, which has developed from a flip, comic egoism to an evolving sense of public responsibility (given a major thrust forward, no doubt, by the Christianity furor).

On a private level, the Beatles (notably John Paul and George Harrison) are reading voluminously, writing (John has two books to his credit — somewhat ingenuous but thoughtful works of poetry and short stories) and conversing with anyone willing to talk about something besides the color of corn flakes. Theirs is a search with complex roots — an amalgam perhaps of natural curiosity, compensation for easy success, and simply desire to map a future path for themselves.

Something Else He Must Do

Elsewhere in that controversial interview with Maureen Cleave, Lennon says, "You see there's something else I'm going to do, something I must do — only I don't know what it is. That's why I go round painting and taping and drawing and writing and that, because it may be one of them. All I know is, this isn't it for me."

Ironically, Lennon's statement on Christianity and his later apology are part of the same current. They are nothing so much as the surface bubblings of a deeper and more significant growing process.

His views on Jesus are more a groping than a finding. Moreover, he is convincing when he says that his decision to apologize was based partly on public relations necessity but more on an emerging committment to things outside himself.

"If I were at the same stage I was five years ago, I would have shouted that we'll never tour again and packed myself off and that would be the end of it. Lord knows, I don't need the money.'

"But the record burning. That was the real shock, the physical burning. I couldn't go away knowing that I created another little piece of hate in the world. Especially with something as uncomplicated as people listening to records and dancing and playing and enjoying what the Beatles are. Not when I could do something about it.

Can't Stand Irrational Hate

"If I said tomorrow I'm not going to play again, I still couldn't live in a place with somebody hating me for something irrational.

"But that's the trouble with being truthful. You try to apply truth talk, although you have to be false sometimes because the whole thing is false in a way, like a game. But you hope sometime that if you're truthful with somebody they'll stop all the plastic reaction and be truthful back and it'll be worth it. But everybody is playing the game and sometimes I'm left naked and truthful with everybody biting me. It's disappointing."

The Beatles: There's More to Life Than 'Yah, Yah, Yah'

THOUGHT OF MAO TSE-TUNG RULES, BUT DOES HE STILL WIELD POWER?

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Mao Tse-tung's "thinking" is in command in China today — but is Mao Tse-tung?

The answer may be no. China's Communists themselves nourish skepticism about Mao's health and position and speculate on the prospects of his departure from the scene.

This speculation is encouraged by:

1. A campaign to convince China and the outside world that Mao still functions as head man.

2. Strange differences in pictures of Mao released in Peking showing him alternately a sick old man and a younger, vigorous-looking leader.

3. An unexplained recall of an edition of the official party newspaper People's Daily reporting a Mao reappearance in Peking, and the subsequent deletion of the item from last Thursday's edition.

●

4. Extreme measures to demonstrate that the purge — it is called "the great cultural revolution" — is Mao's own brainchild and that Mao's "thinking" is the locomotive of the purge, and of everything else.

5. Incredible mass rallies, both to denounce those accused as "anti-party" and to whip up anti-American sentiment.

A report by the ruling Communist party central committee that Mao appeared before it in Peking for 12 days earlier this month and won complete vindication of his policies does not itself indicate he is in full control. On the contrary, it suggests that a struggle at the politburo level has been in progress for some time, reaching a peak which required a long-drawn-out session.

●

With all this, it is difficult to escape an impression that Mao no longer is in personal command, that his health is far from what the propaganda says it is.

It is not easy to draw hard conclusions from the appearance of Mao in photographs officially released by Peking. But some intelligence sources go so far as to suggest that Mao, 72, has a look-alike. They suggest a double stands in for him in public appearances such as parades, demonstrations and other functions requiring Politburo members to stand for hours, an arduous performance for any man of Mao's age.

Mao looks far younger and healthier in pictures released in May and July of this year than he did in photographs published a year ago. A picture published last October shows Mao looking 10 years younger than he looked last November.

Peking propaganda recently raised a hullaballoo about Mao swimming the Yangtse River. Its claims for his prowess and endurance went beyond bounds of credibility. Some analysts expressed conviction that pictures released in connection with the celebrated swim were faked.

Huge rallies in the last few months also raised suspicions. Obviously organized by the party, these turnouts of hundreds of thousands in city after city obviously interfered with production and the economy, just as mass turnouts of students to denounce "anti-party" elements must have interfered with the educational system.

But the rallies help deflect public attention at a time when it is possible that a struggle is in progress at the top of the power pinnacle.

Mao dropped from public view last November. The last released photograph of him then was of an aging, tired man. The next photographs — six months later — showed a younger-looking man apparently in vigorous health.

It is here that there is a curious coincidence in dates. Party propaganda has dated the current purge to November when it said a crackdown began to eliminate those who failed to abide by "Mao Tse-tung's thinking." By May, the purgers were in full cry and leaders in high places had been toppled. The purge is still going on.

Founders of B.C.

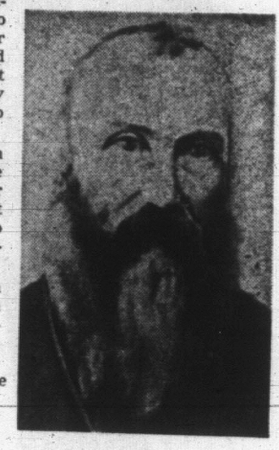

When the Catholic Archbishop of Oregon called to France for missionaries for the Pacific Norhtwest and New Caledonia, a student priest named Charles Pandosy was one of the first to answer.

He sailed form Le Havre in February, 1847, with three other students, a lay brother and a priest. It was the first step in a career that was to be important to British Columbia.

Charles John Felix Adolph Marie Pandosy was born in 1824 near Marseilles. He became a member of the Oblate Juniorat of Notre Dame de Lumieres. Oblate means one who offers himself.

The trip across the wintry Atlantic was a horror. Then came 1,300 miles by train to St. Louis and thousands of miles on horseback through a country of hostile Indians to Walla Walla on the Pacific side of the Rockies.

They were welcomed there at a Hudson's Bay Company post where Pandosy was assigned to build a mission on the Columbia River, and he was raised to full priesthood. Indian wars and unsettled conditions led to the closure of the mission and a decision to send Pandosy northward into New Caledonia. He made exploratory trips to Esquimalt and Kamloops and finally settled in 1839 on the Okanagan Lake where Kelowna now stands. With a small force of other priests he built a church and a school, working often barefoot and in rags.

Father Charle Pandosy

Both white and native children learned to read and write at his mission. The priests administered to all who needed them ranging as far as the present sites of Vernon and Keremeos. The mission's holdings prospered and became known as Priest's Ranch and the first Okanagan settlement grew around it.

Pandosy was a large powerfully built man with a booming voice, but overwork weakened him and he died in 1891 in the arms of an Indian chief: His grave has been lost to sight. But his reputation as a doctor, teacher, farmer and community leader lives on in the Okanagan and the Similkameen.

The Way to Self-Improvement ...If I Could Just Start Walking

By ART STOTT

Our copy of the adult education program from last weekend's newspaper is getting a little frayed. When she has time, Pat keeps leafing through it, having already made up her mind on the sewing course she wants but still conducting a furious debate with herself over shoe-recovering.

Stott

The main purpose of her continuing examination of the syllabus is, however, something else and quite apparent. In a subtle way she is trying to light the spark of self-improvement in the man who sits across from her at the breakfast table.

"Ballroom dancing here," she says. "Hmmm. What do you think of that?"

"Thirty years too late," I tell her.

"You're only as old as you feel," she replies.

"No," I answer. "I can't be that old. You trying to make Methuselah look like a kid?"

"There's a series on outboard motor maintenance. You interested?" she persists.

"Very," I answer. "Might look into that."

"And what about conversational French? Always, always you're talking about bilingualism. You're not even very good at pig-Latin now. And if you took this, Madame would be pleased. Or at least she might be able to follow you a bit the next time we see Paris."

★ ★ ★

"Madame" is Madame Le Prevost, who was our hostess four months ago at a splendid luncheor with magnificent Burgundy in her justly popular restaurant, "Ma Normandie," a hop-and-a-step from the Bourse in Paris. Madame returned the compliment; was our guest at home early this week.

With Gallic efficiency she recruited an interpreter when we visited her in Paris to talk about her small granddaughter, born in the Air Canada plane circling Vancouver's International Airport Christmas before last.

Her daughter, Yolande, looked after translation during their visit to our home. Still, I tried to talk French, attempting to persuade Pat that I have some linguistic talents. Pat doesn't "con" easily.

So I should take conversational French.

I have received glowing first-hand reports on the excellence of the course. One of my colleagues enrolled last season. He is a man of considerable perspicacity and stalwart in his belief in the Canadian idea. He is also a confirmed Westerner. At the conclusion of the lecture series, plus a little home study, he proved his English-Canadianism by remaining immovably unilingual.

With his example before me and Pat's encouragement, unquestionably I should register for conversational French.

"Mais," I said to Pat, bilingually, "there is un probleme."

"What is it—if I understand your statement?" she asked.

"L' automobile," I answered.

"You mean," she queried, "you want to take motor mechanics as well as conversational French?"

★ ★ ★

"No," I explained. "I mean when you're sailing off in the car to sewing, how am I going to get up to another school for conversational French?"

"Easy," she said. "Walk. And on the way home you can practise pronunciation en Francais. I've noticed you're talking more to yourself these days, and when you're in company, nobody's listening. Might as well find some profit in the exercise."

"There's another difficulty," I ventured. "I find it hard to develop the momentum to get under way. I'm like the millions of other Canadians who aren't retraining or self-improving. Maybe I need a preliminary course in 'readying' for conversational French."

"Nothing could be simpler," she assured me. "We'll just turn the cereal box with the Canadien version facing you at breakfast time. You can puzzle out the script while you're spooning up."

"That may be French," I told her, "but I don't think it's conversational."

"It's just as conversational as you are from the time you get up to the time you leave for the office," she answered.

I closed off the discussion: "Enough! Assez! Je suis fatigue."

Just the same, I'd like to be able to talk conversational French.

SEWER PROBLEM ATTACKED

End of Garbage Fees Proposed in Saanich

Saanich public works committee moved Tuesday night to remedy some of the garbage and sewage problems in the municipality.

Specifically, the committee tackled garbage collection and the formation of one sewer utility from the present six separate installations.

The committee recommended to council:

- Garbage collection costs be included in general taxes;
- Call two tenders for collection, one on a weekly basis for the whole year and another on a two-weekly basis but weekly for the four summer months;
- Attempt to have garbage collection carried out by contract rather than by the municipality;
- Leave it to engineer Neville Life and comptroller-treasurer John Tibe to draw up a tentative contract form for a five-year period;
- Create one sewer utility from the present six installations and approach the municipal affairs department for the necessary enabling legislation at the next session of the legislature.

At present, with the new weekly garbage collection in the summer months, Saanich residents pay $10 a year.

Mr. Tribe said this system of charging on a unit basis has become unsatisfactory and the cause of complaint. Recent construction of garden and apartment houses made it difficult to arrive at an equitable unit price.

He also said that weekly instead of twice-weekly collection didn't mean doubling the cost. Mr. Life said the accepted figure is 1.6 times the twice-weekly cost.

Committee members felt collection by private contractor would be cheaper than by the municipality because wages would be less.

'DOG'S BREAKFAST'

On the sewer utility, Reeve Hugh Curtis said it would mean a relatively small increase for many but a decrease for a number of residents paying an exhorbitant amount for maintenance.

He called the present six systems "a dog's breakfast and it is going to become more so."

Political ward systems had proved ineffective and so had similar sewer systems.

Wrapping all the systems into one would facilitate action on implementation of the recent Captial Region sewerage report, said several committee members.

NO VOTING

Mr. Tribe said if one sewer utility could be created "council could borrow money to extend the system without reference to the ratepayers but subject to the approval of the inspector of municipalities."

The sewerage report indicated future main trunk installations will require the transfer of some properties from one sewer area to another.

Under the present system, he doubted if this could be done.

The six sewer installations comprise four small treatment plants and two areas discharging into the sea.

The six separate areas serve 9,419 properties, or just over half the municipality.

SCHOLARSHIP OFFERED FOR MUSIC STUDENTS

Civic recognition of School of Music help for McPherson Playhouse has been arranged in the form of a yearly $250 scholarship.

To be called McPherson Memorial Scholarship, the award will go to a deserving student enabling him to study at the school.

The music school has put concert pianos at the disposal of the playhouse.

Esquimalt last year initiated a similar $250 scholarship.

Breath Test Forced Motorist Charges

A motorist charged with driving while intoxicated said in traffic court Tuesday that police forced him to take a breathalyzer test.

Edwin Pinchin, 715 Daisy, pleaded not guilty to the charge. Magistrate Byers reserved judgement on his case until Aug. 24.

The accused told the court he was taken to the police station May 17 after being stopped on Douglas.

"They took me to the room and said they wanted me to breathe into the machine," Pinchin said. "I said, 'Well I don't think so.'

'THAT WAS THAT'

"But they took me by the shoulders and that was that."

Police testified that Pinchin's breathalyzer reading of .34 per cent alcohol content in his blood stream was "an extremely high reading."

One officer told the court the accused crossed the double white line on Douglas Street once and partially three times before being stopped.

Censorship To End

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government announced today it will abolish press censorship Aug. 26. The date was chosen to coincide with the official start of the election campaign for members of a constitution-writing assembly. The elections will be held Sept. 11.

Effortless, Warm Singing Thrills Concert Audience

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Someone once said the smooth effortless production of a warm, full baritone voice was one of the finest sounds that can fall upon a human ear.

Tuesday night at McPherson Playhouse the truth of the statement was clearly evident.

Australian-Canadian Harry Mossfield was the singer whose vocal texture and production is at once so opulent and free that he creates a sense of the most profound pleasure.

A highlight of the National Association Teachers of Singing week-long workshop, the concert was open to the public and drew a good-size, responsive audience.

ELEGANCE, TASTE

Sharing the recital with Mr. Mossfield was Vancouver soprano Clare Stocker. Her voice is beautifully placed with a pure, round resonance and she uses it with elegance and taste.

It is particularly well suited to the poetic nuances of the idyllic Il Tramonto (Respighi) which was her only solo.

Of the two operatic excerpts in which she joined Mr. Mossfield, she was far more at home and altogether charming in the Magic Flute duets.

In the Traviata scena, there was insufficient dramatic urge and the quality was passionless.

Possibly the crown of the evening came in Mr. Mossfield's performance of Samuel Barber's Dover Beach, a greatly moving and musicianly interpretation of an exceptional work.

The Aron Copland early American set, full of robust humor, and the delightful Michael Head group gave further insight into Mr. Mossfield's interpretive gifts and the accomplished agility of his technique.

The singers were fortunate in the presence at the piano of Pearl Mossfield, an accomplished and sensitive artist, who provided a truly perfect partnership.

SERVICE INTEGRATION

Critics May Have Hearing

OTTAWA (CP)—Former senior officers of the armed forces may be given a chance this fall to air their views on planned unification of the three services before the Commons defence committee.

Defence Minister Hellyer said Tuesday in an interview he hopes to present unification legislation to Parliament this fall and that the legislation will almost certainly be sent to the committee for study.

"As far as I am concerned," he said, "the legislation will go to the committee and I am certain the government will support me in this."

At least five senior retired officers—three air marshals and two admirals — have publicly criticized unification policy. But Rear-Admiral William Landymore, has said publicly that he would like to testify before the committee.

Unless and until unification legislation is sent to the 24-member defence committee, there will be no opportunity for the committee to call witnesses on the subject this year.

Conservative Marcel Lambert, vice-chairman of the committee, said in an interview that the Liberal majority could still block calling Rear-Admiral Landymore and other possible witnesses.

He charged that Liberal members of the committee in June employed a "rigged procedure" to choke off any possible criticism of defence policy by the committee.

The MP for Edmonton West and a former Commons Speaker said there will not be the same spirit of inter-party co-operation within the defence committee after the "Liberals' fast footwork and railroad job" of June 29.

The transcript of the committee's June 29 meeting, the last before parliament adjourned, has just been published.

It shows that the six-member subcommittee had recommended the usual committee procedure: In camera meetings to discuss and draft a report to the Commons on the testimony heard. The three Liberal MPs on the subcommittee had agreed to this procedure.

However, Grant Deachman, Liberal MP for Vancouver Quadra, moved that the committee return the defence estimates to the Commons "without comment." The Conservatives objected vigorously but were voted down 7 to 4.

SEVEN MINUTES

Liberal David Groos, committee chairman, then announced that a further meeting would be held later that day to draft the brief "without comment" report to the Commons. Only two opposition MPs were present — 11 Liberals were on hand—and the meeting lasted seven minutes.

Mr. Lambert, who boycotted the seven-minute meeting, said the Liberals added insult to injury by asking him to present the report to the Commons. He refused.

He said the Liberal majority on the committee disregarded the subcommittee report, which they had helped to prepare, to prevent any possible critical comments by the committee, particularly on the question of morale in the armed forces.

Vets Plan To Fight Hellyer

TORONTO (CP) — A group of veterans led by a former air marshal Tuesday night made plans for a cross-Canada fight against Defence Minister Hellyer's scheme for armed forces integration.

Air Marshall W. A. Curtis, former chief of air staff, was honorary chairman at the gathering of 18 ex-servicemen who claim support from other groups of Canadian veterans.

A statement of objectives read at the meeting said the group, to be called the Tri-Service Identities Organization, aimed to "preserve the combat efficiencies of the navy, the army and the air force by demanding an immediate halt to any further steps toward the creation of a single military force."

Robert H. Hilborn of Toronto, a former lieutenant-colonel and commanding officer of the Toronto Scottish Regiment, was elected president.

Attending the meeting were R. C. G. Wilson, president of the Navy League of Canada, who said he represented 30,000 navy veterans, and R. G. Bundy, national president of the Naval Officers Association of Canada.

Directors elected include: Commodore Robert Hendry, Air Vice-Marshal L. E. Wray, Brig. Ian Johnson, Col. Edward Royce, Col. James Strathy, Brig. C. S. McKee and Lt. Cmdr. Gordon Ford.

Thomson Scores High Cost of Expo

MONTREAL (CP) — Lord Thomson of Fleet said Tuesday preparations for the 1967 world's fair, to be held in Montreal, look "very impressive" but the cost is "just not justified."

He said:

"If I were spending $38 million I'd build something that was still going to be there the following year."

Lord Thomson spoke at a press conference following a meeting with directors of the Royal Bank of Canada. The bank has headquarters in Montreal.

Lord Thomson, whose organizatioo owns many newspapers in Canada, Britain and elsewhere, praised Montreal's subway system, which is under construction and due for opening in October.

"I have seen the Toronto subway system, utilitarian and satisfactory. But the Montreal system is absolute luxury."

"The only question I have is — is it economical?"

Lord Thomson said the British and European reaction to advance Expo publicity is as neutral as what he called normal attitude there to all Canadian news.

"The Expo 67 publicity department has done a good job but, let's face it, British and continental interest in Canada is practically nil. . . ."

Gilbey's find merry mixed gin drinks in old English Inns

ENGLAND'S OLDEST INNS have been around long enough to learn that Gilbey's London Dry has a perfect balance for mixed drinks. You can count on it to give you a fresh, clean tasting drink. Just like the Gimlet that they mix in the Cat and Fiddle at Hinton Admiral, a village on the edge of the New Forest.

Cat and Fiddle—Gimlet

The Cat and Fiddle is justly famous for its Gimlet, a refreshing drink made from Gilbey's London Dry and fresh lime juice. Close by in Wiltshire, at the Sign of the Angel, we discovered how to give a Gilbey's and orange juice a "frosty" edge. Wet a glass, then put it upside down in the freezer compartment. After half an hour it will have a sparkling "frosty" edge.

Eagle—Gilbey's Weasel

At the Eagle in London they mix a superb Gilbey's Weasel (made from Gilbey's and Bitter Lemon). They say the drink was named after a saddler's weasel (used for making holes in leather). A saddler who had premises at the rear of the Eagle enjoyed the drink so much that he would 'pop' or pledge his weasel when he was short of money.

Up and down the City Road
In and out the Eagle
That's the way the money goes
Pop goes the Weasel

You can rely on Gilbey's London Dry, a perfectly balanced gin that gives you a fresh, clean tasting drink. This gin is an international favourite, sold in 92 countries. It's been made by the Gilbey family for 109 years.

U.S. BUSINESS LOANS

Interest Rate Boosted to 6%

NEW YORK (UPI)—Banks throughout the United States today were expected to unanimously follow the lead of several large banking institutions and raise the prime interest rate on business loans to a record 6 per cent.

Although the hike only directly affects short term loans of 90 days to a year made to prime buiness customers, the move was expected to keep money tight in all borrowing transactions.

The first announcement of a raise, by First National City of New York came at 3:45 p.m. Tuesday after the close of the stock market. Several other large banks across the country quickly made similar announcements.

In Washington, the Johnson administration made a plea to keep the price of credit at the present level, which is already at a record high.

Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler said he hoped the increase in the prime rate did not offer the occasion for a general hike in lending rates.

Although he admitted a need to limit credit and thus help restrain rising prices, Fowler said "surely there is a better way to limit credit than by simply raising its price."

CUT DEMAND

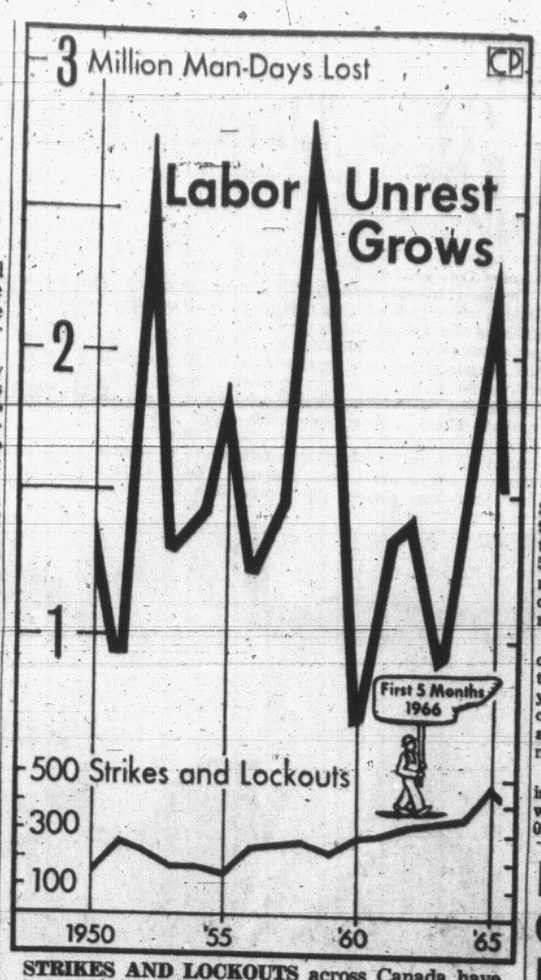

The banks announcing the increase usually accompanied the statement with an explanation that the rise would cut the demand for loans.

But some bankers privately admitted that the hike — from the 5¾ per cent set only last June 29 — was not stringent enough to cut the market on loans.

The Johnson administration, speaking through Fowler, also had little hope that the raise indeed would cut the extension of credit.

The rise in loans has been blamed in part on the need for consumers to pay high prices, hiked by manufacturers who must supply peace time domestic needs as well as overseas war demands.

If, as expected, the rise becomes general, it will increase the already large difference between the prime rate and the current 4½ per cent discount rate of the federal reserve banks.

STRIKES AND LOCKOUTS across Canada have been growing steadily in number since 1950 and already this year are well on the way to exceeding last year's record. In 1965 there were 476 strikes and lockouts, resulting in 2,323,750 man-days lost. For the first five months of this year, 435 strikes and lockouts have resulted in 1,505,200 man-days lost. Reopen Contracts

Auto Workers Demand Wage Talks

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers have demanded that the automakers give them an answer by next Monday on the union's request for re-opening current contracts to write in higher wages for skilled tradesmen.

The three-year contracts, negotiated in 1964, do not expire for more than a year, and Chairman Henry Ford II of Ford Motor Co. is on record as saying re-opening at this time would be "inadvisable."

The demand comes, however, just as the automakers are beginning to roll out 1967 models.

The union says its only weapon is "the power of persuasion." But a strong demand always raises the spectre of work stoppages, and all the manufacturers like to begin a new model year with a rush.

Skilled tradesmen within the UAW contend they are underpaid when compared with others, particularly within the building trades.

POINT TO SCALE

They point to a Detroit straight-time scale of $4.63 hourly for carpenters and $5.20 for electricians. In the Big Three auto plants they say tool and die makers average $3.87, and in job shops of the Detroit Tooling Association, $4.25. Other skilled trades are millwrights and machinists.

UAW spokesmen said Tuesday the union would ask a "substantial increase" in event of re-opening. The figure of 25 per cent, or about $1 an hour, has been tossed about by some within the skilled ranks.

Only Ford has replied publicly to contract re-opening, a subject which UAW President Walter P. Reuther broached some weeks back.

In a secret meeting Monday, however, General Motors, Chrysler and Ford, plus the Detroit Tooling Association, promised to meet a week later with the union on its "yes or no" demand for re-opening.

If the automakers are under pressure, so is the union's hierarchy. Discontent among the UAW's skilled members across the U.S. has been growing in recent weeks.

Australia Hikes Defence Outlay

CANBERRA (Reuters)—Australia boosted its defence outlay by 34 per cent to $1,000,000,000 Australian ($1,210,00000 Canadian) in a national budget announced tonight.

But there were no tax changes and the budget was regarded as unspectacular despite a general election coming up in November.

Australia's main current defence commitment is in Viet Nam where it has 4,500 troops and airmen.

Canadian Air Carriers Income Jumps

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian air carriers reported a snappy 13-per-cent increase in both passenger travel and cargo last year, running up net income 61 per cent higher than 1964.

The big six scheduled carriers continued their dominance of air transport in the country, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said Monday in a survey of 1965 operations.

More than 90 per cent of passenger travel and 69 per cent of revenue goods were accounted for by Air Canada, Canadian Pacific Air Lines, Eastern Provincial, Quebecair, Trans Air and Pacific Western Air Lines.

Foreign carriers operating scheduled services into Canada flew 28 per cent more revenue passengers and 28 per cent more goods than a year earlier.

Trail, B.C. Hydro In Water Dispute

TRAIL (CP)—Recreation and Conservation Minister Kiernan will be asked to solve a water dispute between the City of Trail and British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority.

Mines Minister Brothers, member of he legislature for Trail, told Mayor Joseph Palyga Monday he has been unable to convince Hydro to change its position and dig a third well to supply at least 5,000,000 gallons of water daily to the city.

They are Donald H. E. Carlson, public relations; Kenneth Hallsworth, industrial relations; and Sydney A. Skillman, sales. Parks, Recreation Conference Here

Commercial development in parkland will be keynote of a Canadian parks and recreation conference here Aug. 28-31.

Feature speaker of the meeting Monday, Aug. 29, will be ex-Victorian Lloyd Brooks, who is chief of the planning division for natural and historic resources in the department of northern affairs.

Until four years ago Mr. Brooks was a planner in the B.C. provincial parks and recreation department.

Mr. Brooks will speak on the title Planning Conservation with Recreation.

City parks administrator Herbert Warren said the other side of the controversy over commercial development in parks will be presented that afternoon by Harry Boothman, superintendent of parks and recreation in Calgary.

A third speaker on the same subject will be Gavin Henderson, executive director of the National and Provincial Parks Association of Canada.

Mayor A. W. Toone will welcome delegates from across the country to the 21st annual conference of Parks and Recreation Association of Canada at the Empress Hotel.

Registration will be all afternoon Sunday, when a concert will be given in Beacon Hill Park at 2:30.

A city of Victoria reception will be held at 8 p.m. in McPherson Playhouse, followed by a tour of Centennial Square and Smile Show entertainment at the playhouse.

Visitors will be taken on a guided tour of parks and scenic areas including Butchart's Gardens Monday evening.

On Tuesday Mayor Toone will give a paper on Centennial Square, civic paint-up and Bastion Square restoration as part of a panel on downtown beautification.

Mr. Warren will speak on downtown trees, planters and flower baskets and a film on downtown restoration will be shown. Ald. Hugh Stephen will be chairman.

Former civic architectural consultant and special projects director Roderick Clack will summarize discussion. He is now Canadian centennial commission project officer for community improvement and beautification.

PANEL SET

There will be a panel on community recreation and fitness programs and papers on planning conservation and recreation by naturalist Freeman King, Thetis Park Sanctuary Association member H. R. Matthews, Fish and Game Protective Association members R. D. McDougall and Howard English and park concession operator Alfred B. Pettersen.

Saanich parks superintendent Albert Richman and Victoria parks maintenance superintendent Clifford Bate will participate in a general session Wednesday.

A post-conference tour of the Island including Cowichan Valley Forest Museum at Duncan and stops at Cameron Lake and Cathedral Grove will be arranged for those travelling back to the mainland via Vancouver.

General chairman will be Ald. Cecil Parrott.

Air France Hikes Atlantic Business

PARIS (UPI) — Air France carried more passengers across the North Atlantic last month than ever before, the company has announced.

A spokesman said 57,525 passengers flew Air France across the Atlantic during the month, a 34 per cent increase over July, 1965, when 49,636 passengers used the same route.

The announcement did not specifically link the increase with the continuing U.S. airline strike, which is putting trans-Atlantic air space at a premium.

$500 MILLION FEDERAL BOND ISSUE

Investors Hesitant Report Brokers

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Sharp announced today the government's new $500,000,000 bond issue, offered Monday, has been oversubscribed.

He said, in a statement that in addition to a $75,000,000 issue of 5¾-per-cent long-term bonds being fully taken up, subscriptions to two shorter-term bonds have been allocated in this way:

—$175,000,000 of 4¼-per-cent bonds due Oct. 1, 1967.

—$250,000,000 of 5¾-per-cent bonds due Oct. 1, 1969.

The long - term bonds, due Sept. 1, 1992, were offered at 97.5 per cent of their par value, thus giving investors a yield of 5.94 per cent on their investment—the highest return at the offering price of federal government bonds in 40 years.

The shorter-term issues were offered at 98.6 per cent of par to yield about 5.6 per cent a year for 13 months and 99% per cent of par to yield 5.88 per cent a year for three years and one month.

All the new bonds are to be issued and dated Sept. 1 and were floated to refund $450,000,000 worth of government bonds falling due at the end of this month. The additional $50,000,000 is for general treasury purposes.

Announcing his intention last Friday to make the bond offering, Mr. Sharp said the Bank of Canada would buy at least $25,000,000 of the 26-year bonds and at least $150,000,000 of the other two issues, open as to maturity. Today's announcement did not say how much of the three issues the central bank did take up.

MARKET SLOW

However, bond market sources said the new issue were slow-moving.

Some investors were reported as saying that even the high yield of 5.94 per cent was insufficient to attract long-term investment funds and that the shortest-term issue—13 months—was too long to attract company treasurers with funds available for investment for less than one year.

Bond market sources in Toronto and Montreal said that for a time Monday and Tuesday, while the subscription books were open, the new bonds were being quoted at less than their offering prices and that the Bank of Canada had to step in to support the market with buying bids.

The bank's headquarters here will not comment on its day-to-day bond market activity.

Fiat, Soviet Complete Plant Deal

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Italian Fiat automobile company completed Monday an $800,000,000 deal to build a giant car factory in Russia.

The contract, biggest in Fiat's history, concluded more than four years of talks and negotiations between the Italian firm and Soviet officials.

Professor Vittorio Valletta, Fiat's honorary life president, signed the contract for the firm with Vladimir Sushkov of the Soviet ministry of foreign trade.

Fiat will supply about $300,000,000 worth of equipment, for which the firm has granted the Soviet Union a 10-year credit.

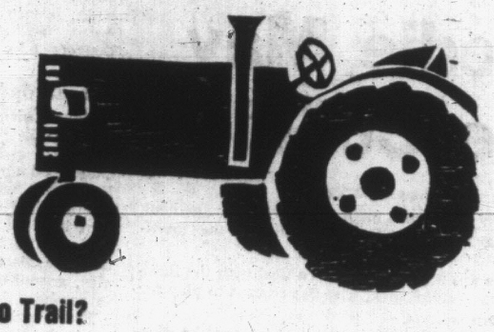

Construction of the factory in the Volga city of Togliatti is likely to begin in three or four months, Italian sources said.

When completed it will turn out 400,000 modified Fiat-124 passenger cars a year and about 200,000 others, probably new models to be designed jointly by Soviet and Italian engineers.

Hitting Long Ones Tougher for Willie

Mays Blasts 534th Homer; Ties Foxx for Second Place

By Associated Press

Willie Mays, on the threshhold of becoming the greatest right-handed home run hitter in baseball history, says the long ones don't come as easy as they once did.

Mays tied Jimmy Foxx for second place on the all-time list with his 534th Tuesday night, helping Gaylord Perry win his 19th game as San Francisco topped St. Louis 3-1.

"I think it's getting harder to hit home runs because of my age," Mays said. "I'm 35, you know. Sometimes I'm not strong enough to swing the bat good."

Mays' home run output has earned him the National League title in each of the last two years. In fact, the 52 he blasted last year marked his best one-season production ever.

Mays' 534th came leading off the third inning against left-hander Al Jackson. It was Willie's 29th this season and left him four behind Hank Aaron, the National League leader.

The only man who hit more home runs than Mays was Babe Ruth, who finished with 714. Ruth swung from the left side.

Foxx, who sent Mays a telegram congratulating him, said: "For 25 years they thought only left - handers could hit the long ones."

"I'm happy that another right-hander can prove he can hit."

Elsewhere, first place Pittsburgh Pirates blanked New York Mets 3-0 in a game called by rain in the seventh inning, Philadelphia Phillies edged Chicago Cubs 5-3, Atlanta Braves downed Houston Astros 4-2 and Los Angeles Dodgers blanked Cincinnati Reds 2-0.

CATCH WORTH $25

Mays' historic homer was worth $25, three autographed baseballs and a visit to the Giants' clubhouse to Henry Barenz, 18, who caught the ball as it sailed over the 375-foot sign in right - centre field.

Pirate pitcher Tommie Sisk held the Mets to a pair of singles, scored one run and drove in another.

Four straight walks with two out in the eighth inning gave the Phillies their victory over the Cubs.

RUINS PITCHING JOB

Bert Campaneris ruined what could have been a fine job of pitching Tuesday night and accounted for Kansas City Athletics' 4-2 American League victory over Chicago White Sox.

Campy scored all the Kansas City runs and had four of the team's hits—including three of the five given up by losing-pitcher Tommy John in the seven innings he worked.

Campaneris began the game by beating out a single to short and moving to second on a sacrifice. Then Danny Cater walked, and the routine plays ended. Campaneris and Cater pulled a double steal and when Sox third baseman Don Buford muffed the throw trying to nail Campaneris, he scored.

In the third, Campy tripled and John, perhaps worried more about him than the batter, heaved a wild pitch and Campaneris was home again.

He singled in the fifth and John, who did everything but ignore him, attempted to pick him off. The ball bounded all the way down the right-field line and by the time the Sox caught up with it, Campaneris was home again.

CAMPY HOME AGAIN

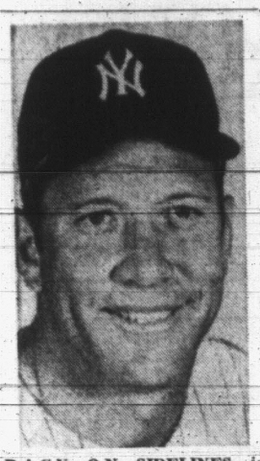

By the eighth, John was gone and Hoyt Wilhelm was facing Campy. The little speedster singled, stole second, went to third on one passed ball and scored on another one.

In other American League games, Baltimore Orioles beat Boston Red Sox 6-4, Detroit Tigers took New York Yankees 6-3, Minnesota Twins bounced California Angels 8-1 and Washington Senators edged Cleveland Indians 6-5 in 13 innings.

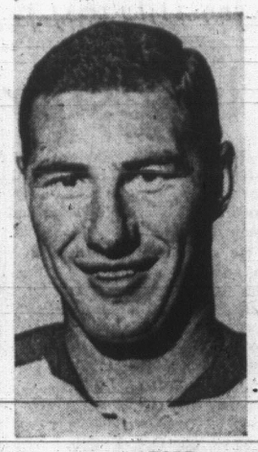

POWELL HITS 31ST

Campaneris' two stolen bases increased his league - leading total to 35.

Baltimore won its usual victory with its usual weapon, home runs. Boog Powell's 31st of the season, a three-run shot in the ninth, tied the score and, after Curt Blefary reached base on an error, Bob Johnson hit his first of the year. Earlier, Frank Robinson hit his 37th and number 361 lifetime, tying him with Joe DiMaggio at 15th on the all-time list.

BACK ON SIDELINES is Mickey Mantle, slugging outfielder of New York Yankees. Veteran Mantle pulled left hamstring muscle Monday and Tuesday received permission to go to Dallas home to rest injured leg.

BOB PULFORD
. . . ridicules charge

VETERAN LEAFS DENY . . . . . CLIQUE WITHIN CLUB

'It's Unadulterated Baloney'

TORONTO (CP) — Has Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League really got a clique within its ranks which was responsible for last year's Stanley Cup problems?

Or has manager-coach Punch Imlach merely fired the first salvo of the annual salary negotiations war by intimating that certain players are expendable.

Whatever the reasons for his remarks Monday—that three or four unnamed players might be traded for being involved in a clique which ruined the club last year—the players themselves say nuts to their leader's charges.

Captain George Armstrong said: "I think Punch is mistaken. Bob Pulford said: "Its ridiculous."

Frank Mahovlich: "I've never heard of or seen anything of the sort."

Bobby Baun, who shocked Imlach last year with a $10,000 salary increase demand: "I don't know of any clique within the club."

Said Pulford: "Sure, I've had differences of opinion with Imlach. I don't think any player who is a keen competitor can go through a 70-game schedule without getting off a beef or two.

"But if there was a clique within the club last season, I wasn't aware of it. And I think it would have been noticeable in the dressing room at one time or another.

"To me, its so much unadulterated baloney."

Imlach said Monday that Eddie Shack, demoted to Victoria Maple Leafs, could be only the first of last year's players to go.

Said Shack in reply: "I think a player should have the right to speak up for himself. That certainly doesn't mean there is a clique within the club.

"Punch is a good guy, but he must realize we are men with family responsibilities and can't be treated like boys."

Asked whether he'll report to Victoria, Shack said: "Sure I'll report to Victoria — providing the salary is right."

He said he has two jobs in Toronto which may provide more than his hockey salary.

"I'd be foolish to leave Toronto unless its practical, and I'm sure Punch realizes this."

AND MAY THE BEST ONE WIN . . .

Rival managers of teams that will campaign for the Canadian Little League baseball championship met for first time Tuesday, shook hands. Now ready to "come out fighting" are, from left, Cam Knowles of Windsor, Wilf Bosse of Edmonton, Amadee Roy of Sherbrooke and Kelowna's Gordon Smith. Play in straight knockout tournament at Hampton Park gets under way Thursday at 6 p.m., with Kelowna meeting Edmonton. Ontario and Quebec champions tangle Friday. Winners meet in title game Saturday afternoon. Champion will advance to Little League World Series. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

FOR RAIDERS

Speedie May Take Cookie

By Associated Press

Cookie Gilchrist, well-known for his tiffs with management, soon may be bucking the line for Oakland Raiders of the American Football League.

Denver Broncos are reported close to a deal with the Raiders for the rebellious star fullback, who has refused to play for the Broncos this season.

Mac Speedie, Denver coach, says the deal may not be completed "for another couple of days." A veteran lineman, whom Speedie would not identify, and several rookies reportedly will switch from Oakland to Denver.

If the deal goes through, Oakland will be the eighth club for Gilchrist. The native of Brackenridge, Pa., was with five Canadian clubs before joining Buffalo Bills in 1962 and promptly becoming leading ground-gainer in the AFL. He was traded to Denver by the Bills after the 1964 season.

★ ★ ★

Elsewhere Tuesday, many players were cut as the AFL clubs got down to the Aug. 16 limit of 48 players.

Ron Mix, a star tackle, and linebacker Frank Buncom were still absent from the camp of San Diego Chargers at Escondidi, Calif. The two players, who left Monday, want more money.

Fullback Clarence Peaks suffered a recurrence of a back injury in scrimmage and will be lost to Pittsburgh Steelers for at least three weeks. Washington got guard Mitch Johnson from Dallas Cowboys for an undisclosed draft choice.

Philadelphia Eagles released halfback Jim Brown, while New York Jets put Bob Schweickert, a defensive back, and Jim Waskiewicz, a linebacker, on waivers.

AGAINST ROUGHIES

Gloomy Jerry Expects Loss

CALGARY (CP)—Faced with injuries and a 0-3 won-lost record, the Stampeders have a slim chance of defeating Saskatchewan Roughriders in their Western Football Conference encounter here tonight, says Calgary coach Jerry Williams.

Though three new players will be trying for spots with the Stampeders, Williams is unhappy with his injuries list.

Lovell Coleman is sidelined for the season with a torn achilles tendon suffered last Saturday in a game against Hamilton. Ted Woods suffered a similar injury and Jim Furlong is out with a broken ankle suffered last Wednesday at Ottawa.

But Roughrider coach Eagle Keys isn't banking on Calgary's injuries to give his team the game.

'MAY PLAY HARDER'

"Certainly Calgary would be hurting if . . . Coleman is out along with their previous injuries, but often this is when the others come up big because they know they have to play better," he said.

As for the Roughies, they'll go into the game "as in any other."

Williams is keeping mum about who will start at quarterback but he said Lu Bain will replace Woods at offensive half.

Quarterback Eagle Day wasn't popular in the Stampeder camp after giving up 66 yards in the Hamilton game and connecting on only three of 13 pass attempts. And backup Pete Liske has only seen brief action this season.

ROSS IN LINEUP

Willie Ross is expected to dress tonight after coming up from Buffalo Bills of the American League for a crack at a fullback slot with Calgary. Bob Miranda, a newcomer from Minnesota Vikings of the National League, hopes to succeed Coleman and Mel Boehland, also up from Minnesota, apparently has overcome slight injuries suffered Saturday and will see action as defensive end and tackle.

Game time is 8 p.m. PDT and the action will be seen on CTV television in the West.

Rain Disrupts Tennis

OTTAWA (CP)—With the weatherman promising sunny, warmer weather with light winds for today, officials at the Canadian open junior tennis championship were hoping to catch up on matches rained out Tuesday.

The week-long tournament is more than a half day behind schedule going into today's competition.

If weather and schedules permit, officials hope to make a start also on the boys' and girls' doubles. A total of 13 crowns are to be decided in the Canadian open tournament by the weekend.

Les Brice is a ballplayer's ballplayer.

When the stakes are small, unassuming Les is often inconspicuous. In a crucial game when every pitch counts, the crafty lefthander glitters like gold.

Brice toed the rubber for Greaves Movers against Transport Workers Tuesday night at Hampton Park in a sudden-death playoff game for first place in the Senior Amateur Baseball League.

Cool when the tension was high, he pitched a four-hitter and Greaves gained a 5-0 victory for their second league championship in two years.

Moving a deft assortment of breaking pitches and a sneaky quick fastball inside and out, up and down against dangerous Transport swingers, Brice walked only one batter and kept the Workers' generally explosive attack muted.

SEVEN STRAIGHT

Greaves, trailing Transports late in the season, had to win seven straight games to force a first-place tie and then wrench the pennant away from the Workers.

Greaves broke out with seven hits in the playoff game.

Leftfielder Vic Skinner struck the big blow. Coming to the plate with the bases loaded and two out in the top of the third, Skinner sliced a shot down the right-field line to clear the bases with a triple.

Skinner had charged far back to haul in a towering fly ball and rob muscular Jim Heighton of a potential two-run homer in the bottom of the second.

RIVERS SPARKLES

Clutch-hitter Bob Lumley drove home Greaves' fourth run with his second single of the night.

Compact Dave Rivers singled twice, ignited the rally in the third and sparked the winners defensively.

Third-baseman Rivers ended the game with a play that typified Greaves' hustling spirit. Rivers scrambled to his left to grab John Yankoski's grounder, spun into throwing position and gunned down Yankoski at first.

In the seventh, Rivers had picked up a sharp grounder, stepped on third and fired to second for a rally-killing double play.

Greaves will try to extend their seven-game victory streak when they open the league playoffs tonight against Rawlings in the first game of a best-of-five semi-final series at 6:30 at Hampton Park.

CHEERS GREET SWIM QUEEN

VANCOUVER (CP)—Swimmer Elaine Tanner was the centre of attraction Tuesday as British Columbia athletes returned home from the British Empire Games.

A crowd of about 150 saved special cheers for the Vancouver schoolgirl who made BEG history at Kingston, Jamaica, by winning four gold medals and three silvers.

Her parents looked on proudly as Reeve Alex Forst of West Vancouver told her: "You have gained a record unequalled by anyone in this country."

McLarens Rally To Trip Luckies

McLarens are the scramblers of the Senior Men's Softball League.

Forced to finish strongly in regular season play in order to make the fourth playoff spot, McLarens followed the same pattern Tuesday night at Heywood Avenue Park.

They upset Luckies 6-2 and took a 2-1 lead in their best-of-five semi-final series.

McLarens trailed Luckies 2-0 going into the bottom of the fifth. They had collected only two hits off Luckies' Harry Scott.

Bernie Sam tied the score for McLarens in the fifth, doubling home two runs with a line shot to right-centre.

McLarens broke into the lead in the sixth. Jim Morgan clubbed a long triple that just evaded the outstretched glove of hustling outfielder Doug Couch in order to score Ron Brousseau with the tie-breaker.

Veteran pitcher Dennis Beaulac closed scoring two batters later with a three-run homer to right field.

BEAULAC WINNER

Beaulac blanked Luckies from the third inning in order to pick up the win.

Luckies, second place finishers in league play this season, must win Thursday to stay alive in the semi-final series. The winner of the series is assured of an entry in the B.C. senior "B" men's tournament on the Labour Day weekend at Central Park.

Carlings, who meet the winner of the semi-final series, will be watching closely when Luckies face McLarens on "fan appreciation night" Thursday at Heywood Avenue Park at 6:45.

TUNA TOURNEY STARTS . . . . . . WITH FISHLESS DAY

Bluefins Give Anglers Cold Shoulder

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — Some of the world's best salt water anglers were testing their skill against Nova Scotia bluefin tuna again today.

They hope to break the jinx that denied them a single fish Tuesday, the first day of this year's international tuna cup match.

The bluefins were there all night, both at Cape St. Mary, north of here, and off Wedgeport, to the south. Some anglers said the tuna made the water "boil" as they broke the surface not far from the boats.

But apparently the tuna were not interested in the anglers' herring bait. As a result, the Canadian, United States, Greek, Mexican and British Caribbean teams ended the day exactly where they started with the score at zero.

John Anderson of Detroit, U.S. team captain, hooked what seemed to be a big one off Cape St. Mary. He fought the fish for a short time but lost it when his line broke while his boat was attempting to catch up with the speeding tuna.

In a season when few fish are being caught, a tuna lost could mean the difference between victory and defeat for the U.S. team, 1965 champions. Each crew scores a point for every pound of fish caught. In addition there are 200-point match bonuses for teams catching the most fish and for the largest.

Tha anglers still hope for a repeat of last year's performance. Then, too, they drew a blank on opening day but came back to land seven in the remaining three days.

However, the weatherman has given them little encouragement. For today he forecasts more fog and rain with winds up to 30 miles an hour.

Only eight bluefins have been boated at Wedgeport since the first of the season was taken July 30. Four have been landed at Cape St. Mary. This is only the second time the tuna match has been held since 1958 when the anglers did not even get a nibble. This compares with a record 72 landed in the 1949 tournament.

The reason for fewer catches in recent years is a mystery. Despite considerable study, scientists still know little about the movements and migrations of bluefin tuna. Why they have dwindled here and swarmed, for example, in Newfoundland's Conception Bay is an unanswered question.

DEVLIN NEW MANAGER . . .

Talent's There, But League Isn't

. . . EXHIBITIONS NOT FOR CHIEFS

Victoria Haida Chiefs have the players. Now they are looking for a league.

Chiefs are the Victoria basketball club that invaded senior "A" ranks six years ago under the guidance of Neil Sprinkling.

They persuaded Vancouver teams to join them in a new Inter-City League and kept the home hoop fires burning with league battles until last season, when the mainlanders decided they were losing money on jaunts to Victoria and abandoned the Inter-City circuit.

Chiefs kept going by playing exhibition games through last season before losing to Alberni Athletics in the Vancouver Island playoff. Without league competition it was a dull season and the Haidas don't want to start another unless they are part of a league.

"We had a meeting," Ken King, coach or manager of the club since its move to senior ranks, said Tuesday, "and the players are eager to play, but only if they have a league. They are not interested in another season of exhibitions."

King was making his final official statement for the Chiefs. Business commitments have forced him to turn over the managerial reins to John Devlin, an original member of the Haidas who is retiring from the player ranks.

"We have the best player potential we have ever had," Devlin said. "We can put a solid club on the floor with players averaging six feet, five inches. There is also the possibility of finding one or two basketball stars with the Steelers (Victoria's new pro football club).

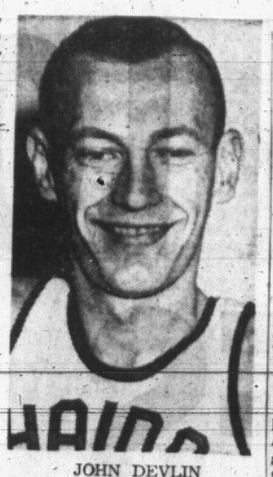

"With the players we have available," added Devlin, "I believe we can be a contender in any league in this area."

In their quest for a league affiliation, the Chiefs enlisted aid from the B.C. Amateur Basketball Association and veteran Victoria hoop official Hank Casilio, vice-president of the BCABA, has picked up the ball for the Haidas.

Casilio believes a three-team Vancouver Island senior league with teams from Alberni, Powell River and Victoria could be formed. Currently he is investigating the possibility of one or two other teams from Cumberland, Comox or Nanaimo.

Casilio hopes to have an answer to the Island league question within a couple of weeks.

While they are waiting, the Chiefs, once the "Cinderella" club of the Inter-City League, are wondering if they will wind up with a coach or a pumpkin.

HALIFAX (CP)—The Canadian Ladies' Golf Association paid homage to its best-known champion Tuesday by naming Marlene Stewart Streit of Fonthill, Ont., to the Canada's world championship team and re-naming the Canadian Close trophy after her.

Adanac Goalie Cinches Honor

VANCOUVER (CP) —Vancouver defeated Coquitlam 6-3 here Tuesday night in the final game of the Inter-City Lacrosse League regular season.

The game had no effect on the final standings.

Vancouver now meets third-place New Westminster in a best-of-five semi-final series beginning here Thursday. Second game will be played in New Westminster Saturday and the third back here Monday. Fourth and fifth games, if necessary, would be played Aug. 24 in New Westminster and Aug. 25 here.

Coquitlam used goalkeeper Merv Schweitzer only long enough to assure him the goalkeeping title. Schweitzer played the first 28 minutes and two seconds, giving up just two goals and stopping 16 shots, giving him an average of .7614. He finished ahead of Barry Forbes of Victoria, who had a record of .7608.

FLETCHER SAYS:

Championship Issue Settled

All B.C. minor lacrosse championships "are settled," and, as far as Doug Fletcher is concerned, "there will be no further playoffs."

The president of the Greater Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association made the comments this morning in replying to a report that city youngsters are being forced to play off for provincial laurels a second time.

The report inferred that Kamloops teams have challenged Victoria's peewee and bantam teams for B.C. titles won last weekend.

"It's true Kamloops issued a challenge," said Fletcher. "But as far as I'm concerned, the challenge came too late.

TOO LATE

"The challenge had to come before the B.C. championships were completed. Kamloops had two weeks in which to make its challenge. They didn't offer their challenge until Monday, so it's all over.

"Unless I'm over-ruled by the B.C. association — and that I doubt — the issue is closed."

Fletcher added that the "misunderstanding" was compounded by the fact Victoria will stage a special Centennial tournament during the Labor Day weekend.

"If the Kamloops teams are so hot to trot," he said, 'they can come down to the Centennial tournament. We'll show them how to play lacrosse."

BANTAMS WELCOME

Originally, the tournament was to include only tyke, novice and peewee teams but Fletcher said he would add the bantam division "to accomodate Kamloops."

Kamloops was unable to arrange B.C. playoff series with Vancouver-area champions, then decided to challenge the B.C. winners.

Fletcher was contacted Monday and informed of Kamloops' challenge. That's when he informed Art Daoust, president of the B.C. body, that it would be "impossible" because many players from each city team are away on holidays this week.

"The Centennial tournament," Fletcher concluded, "has nothing to do with B.C. championships. But if Kamloops is anxious to learn how to play lacrosse, then it's welcome to come down then (Labor Day)."

EMERSON ADVANCES

Crown Archers' Palmer Berquist posted a 956 score to win the men's freestyle event at a recent Victoria Bowmen invitational shoot.

Bob Innes-Ker of Seaview Archers scored 808 to win the men's instinctive.

Top archer in the women's freestyle was Lil Jones of Seaview Archers with a 852 score. Mary Jessee of Courtenay scored 585 to win the women's instinctive.

Chuvalo by KO

MONTREAL (CP) — George Chuvalo, Canadian heavyweight champion from Toronto, scored a seventh-round knockout over Mel Turnbow of Patterson, N.J., in a scheduled 10-round non-title boxing match here Tuesday night.

An estimated 3,100 fans cheered Chuvalo, as he freely punched at Turnbow before decking him for the count of nine in the seventh.

Racers to Salute Speedway Owner

More Jalopies than have ever been assembled before on Vancouver Island will be on hand at Western Speedway Saturday night to salute Speedway owner Andy Cottyn.

Entries from Nanaimo's Mid-Island Racing Association, Vancouver Island Track Racing Association and the Speedway's own Victoria Automobile Racing Association have boosted the entry total to between 60 and 70 cars for "Andy Cottyn Night."

Three main event races are scheduled and heat races are slated to feature a greater number of cars and more laps than usual. Extra trophies will be on hand.

If the night is as successful as it is hoped to be, the meet may become an annual event.

Cottyn, the original builder of Western Speedway, has owned the track for 12 years but may retire from active race promotion at the close of this season.

Several VITRA members have been given an option to purchase the speedway. Cottyn may remain a shareholder in the track, however.

Saturday's time trials will start at 7:30 p.m.

Fitness Grant For Oarsmen

OTTAWA (CP) — A Fitness and Amateur Sport Council grant of $11,000 will enable a team of Canadian rowers to compete in the world rowing championships at Bled, Yugoslavia, Sept. 7-10.

The council said Tuesday the grant covers half the travel and living costs of 16 oarsmen, two coaches and a manager and includes $2,000 for the transportation of equipment.

The backbone of the Canadian contingent is the St. Catharines Rowing Club senior heavy eights crew which captured the recent Canadian title at the Royal Canadian Henley. The St. Catharines crew is backed by a senior heavy fours crew from Burnaby Lake, B.C.

Thousands of Innocent Civilians Victims in Viet Nam War

SAIGON (AP)—There are no sanctuaries in South Viet Nam for unarmed civilians and, almost daily, guerrilla warfare takes its toll.

There are no statistics on such civilian deaths, but they run into the thousands.

Incidents last week, including the bombing of a Mekong delta village by U.S. Air Force jets with the death of 26 villagers and injury to another 124, emphasize the plight of the innocent civilian caught between the Viet Cong and forces siding with the Saigon government.

Many such bombings are unnoticed or unknown to the public. As one Vietnamese officer said: "It happens all the time."

Last September, U.S. jets dropped four bombs in the hamlet of Gia Linh in the demilitarized zone, killing 20 persons and wounding 16. The pilots apparently identified their target incorrectly.

The killing of civilians results from the way the war is conducted. U.S. and combined forces have airpower and artillery, while the Viet Cong have none.

CALL AIR STRIKE

Whereas the Viet Cong might select for assassination one or two key leaders of a government-controlled village, South Vietnamese troops might call an air strike on a village to cut down a Viet Cong platoon or two—30 to 60 men.

Whenever American troops plan a search-and-clear operation in a village, they call on the civilians to come out to a collection point where they will be protected. This is done by a helicopter flying at low level with a loudspeaker.

Civilians are often reluctant to leave their villages. Instead, they build bomb shelters near their huts.

In some cases, civilians killed in military operations are simply listed as Viet Cong...

Other civilians have been caught in the middle of civil strife, such as at Da Nang last May when rebel Buddhist troops fought government troops in the streets. Many civilians were casualties.

Civilians also face the perils of bombs accidentally released or a crippled airplane crashing into their towns.

July 1, eight Vietnamese civilians—seven of them school children—were killed and 52 persons wounded when U.S. Air Force planes jettisoned their unused explosives.

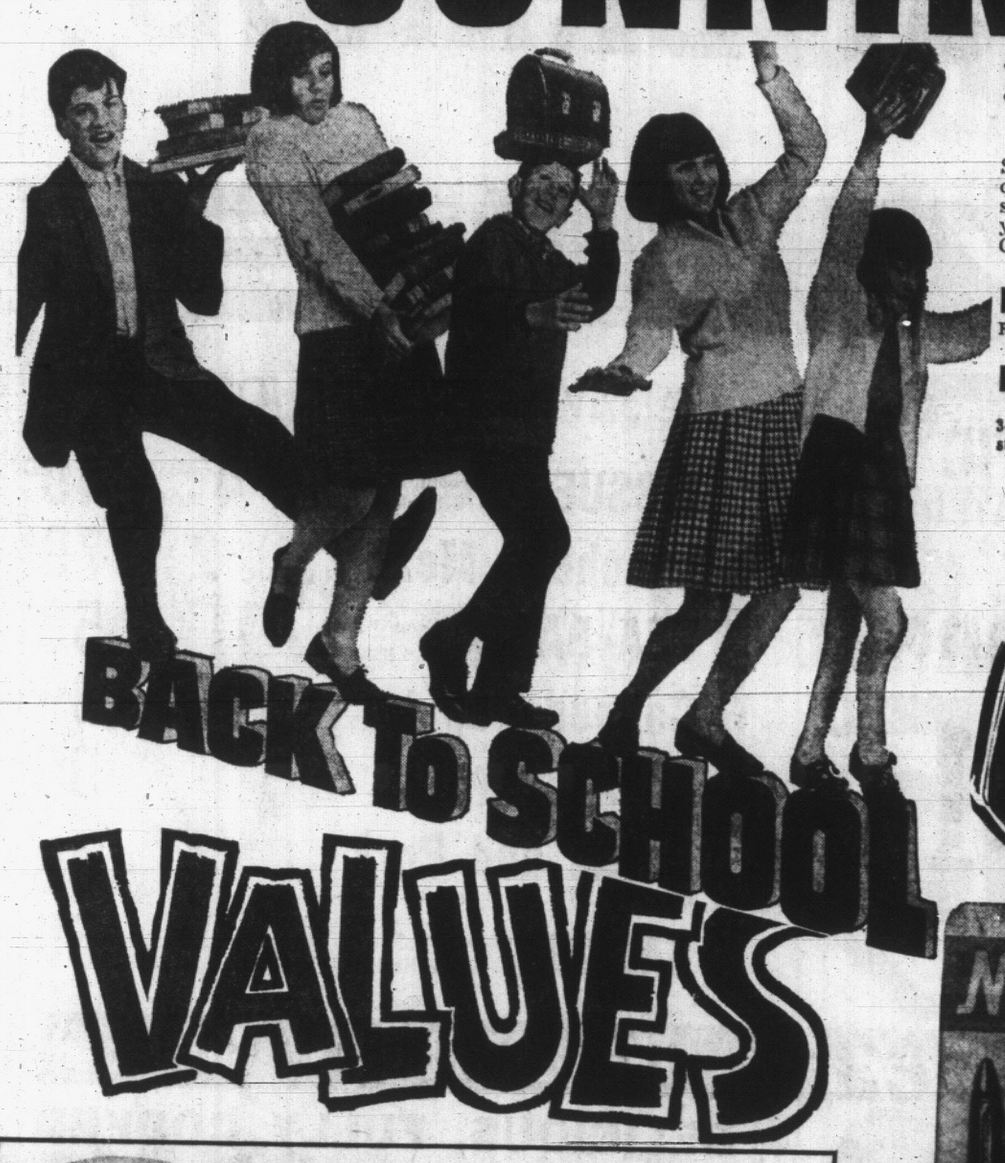

A Viet Cong attack often will precipitate a counter attack with civilians caught in the crossfire.

A Viet Cong set off a claymore mine in Saigon May 10. American military police opened up with machine-guns. Seven civilians were killed and 26 wounded.

CONDEMNS AMERICANS

Sukarno Offers to Mediate Viet Nam War

ADDRESSES 1,000,000

JAKARTA (Reuters) — President Sukarno, in an impassioned address at a big rally here today, condemned the "American war" in Viet Nam and implored the U.S. to get out of that beleaguered country.

In a speech marking Indonesia's 21st anniversary of independence from the Dutch, Sukarno said his country is willing to mediate in Viet Nam on the basis that Asian problems should be solved by Asians.

Frequently shouting, gripping the microphone and clenching his fists, he told an estimated 1,000,000 persons massed in Freedom Square and spilling into the side streets that Indonesia is executing a global strategy in its struggle against imperialism.

Sukarno said imperialism killed, burned, bombed and spread poison gas in Viet Nam.

He warned that if the peace-loving nations do not unite to oppose the crimes in Viet Nam, the world will suffer a yet more extensive and catastrophic calamity.

The president, perspiring in the dazzling morning sun, spoke for two hours. He stressed he is still prime minister and has not transferred power to Gen. Suharto.

Sukarno also said Indonesia would recognize Malaysia only after general elections in the Malaysian Borneo territories of Sarawak and Sabah.

Justifying his recent policies before executive power effectively passed into the hands of Gen. Suharto, the president said inflation was not caused by his projects but by military expenditures in the fight to liberate indonesian New Guinea from the Dutch.

LUNAR ORBITER SET FOR THURSDAY PHOTOS

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Lunar orbiter, America's first moon-girdling spacecraft, had its camera poised today for Thursday's historic picture-taking mission on the backside of the moon.

"All systems are working as planned for Thursday," a spokesman for the National Space Agency said. Scientists anticipated no problems.

U.S. REGRETS MISTAKES, TWICE

Maps Blamed in Cambodia Raids

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States acknowledged Tuesday that U.S. airplanes have twice bombed a village "under the administration of the royal government of Cambodia." The state department expressed "deep regrets."

The statement repeated formally what U.S. officials conceded Monday.

The statement said:

"The visit of representatives of the International Control Commission and other observers to Thlok Trach Aug. 2 clearly indicates the area in question is under the administration of the royal government of Cambodia. At the same time the maps available to the United States show the area in question to be on the Vietnamese side of the border and these maps include a Cambodian map of recent date.

"I would add only that the U.S. government deeply regrets any loss of life and property and any intrusion into Cambodian territory which may have occurred in connection with these incidents."

City Dancer Scores Four Firsts in U.S.

Four firsts in as many entries was the score chalked up by Victoria dancer Gail Bamford, 1080 Transit, in the recent Seattle Highland Games.

Gail, who danced home with the Pacific Coast International Championship, was aggregate winner in the under-16 division, and took top place in the Fling, Swords, Sean Truibhas and Irish Jig classes.

She was one of several dancers from Adeline Duncan Dance Studio to rank at the event.

Angus MacKenzie, 1912 Allenby, won second place in the open championship with two firsts, and one second. He also won the aggregate swords trophy.

Under-seven aggregate trophy was won by Lynnette Smith, 3439 Salsbury Way, with a first in the Swords and a second in the Fling.

Wins in the Fling and Swords earned the under-nine aggregate for David Watling, 612 Kelly Road.

A first, two thirds and a fourth were won by Cheryl Jackson, 632 Head St., in the under-13 division. Cathie Gower, 1461 Yale, won one first, two seconds and one third in the over-16 division. Both were also runners-up in the Pacific Coast International Championship.

Victoria medal-winners in the Games were Cheryl Rater, Gerri-Mae Watling, Laurie Smith and Carol Avison.

Playhouse Locked

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — U.S. internal revenue service agents have locked the doors of the Pasadena Playhouse, for 47 years a training stage for Hollywood actors and actresses. A spokesman for the service said the action was taken Monday for the theatre's failure to pay $31,000 in employee withholding taxes.

Acrobats Killed

SALTILLO, Mexico (Reuters) —Two members of the Papantla Flyers, a popular trapeze team, fell to their deaths during a performance at a fair here Sunday night. Angel Bautista, 27, and Marciano Perez, 16, died and two other team members were seriously injured when a rope parted.

Chaucer's Coarser Phrases To Be Censored From Play

LONDON (AP) — The lord chamberlain, Britain's stage censor, has suggested that a modern translation of The Miller's Tale, written by Geoffrey Chaucer 600 years ago, should not be played on the stage at the Edinburgh festival.

He advised the drama group at Keel University to drop the item from entertainment it has devised for the festival which begins next Sunday.

The Miller's Tale is one of the famous Canterbury Tales about a group of pilgrims written by Chaucer, who was born in 1340 and who died in 1400. It is a saucy story about a man and his flighty wife and daughter.

The drama students have decided to go ahead with their production — omitting four-letter words and some of the coarser phrases.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 17, 1966 --PAGE 21

Court Battle Next Month On Double-Duty Police

Arthur Mayse

The debunkers, those human termites whose joy it is to make sawdust of great reputations, seem determined to leave us no heroes. We have heard in detail from Winston Churchill's doctor about the tribulations of his patient's declining years, and last week, a former White House aide had his little say about Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The substance of his revelation is that Roosevelt, who shepherded his country through a depression and most of a world war, loved his wife's secretary. The romance, we are told, ceased to threaten the American president's marriage after he was stricken by polio in 1921. Staunch homely Eleanor stood by her husband, and the rift was bridged if not mended.

Except to cause a raising of eyebrows and provide a juicy chapter for the biographers, this piece of apocrypha carries minimum significance today.

FDR's world is not ours. The fact — if fact it is — that he may have strayed from the marital straight-and-narrow will unseat no governments and dismay no political parties. Except in a remote, posthumous sort of way, it does not qualify as news.

★

The Munsinger extravaganza with its undertones of espionage, was no long-expired scandal. Some of the men concerned in it could conceivably run for federal office in a later year; it is as well if we know their quality.

That bout of hanky-panky in high places, its principals still live and kicking, needed reporting. You had a right to know about it.

But this assiduous digging after old bones, this belated popping of intimate details by persons whose positions of trust provided opportunity to learn them, is a fish of an entirely different speckle.

Too often, the debunker crosses the borderline that separates news from backstairs gossip. I also find his expositions an indefensible prying into the private lives of men and women no longer alive to defend themselves and each other.

The only enduring portion of this life's baggage a man leaves behind him is his name, and his fame if he happens to achieve any. I do not think we should lightly diminish his sole remaining possessions.

When we do so, we not only reduce ourselves, but hurt our children by robbing them of something that is, or should be, part of their birthright.

I do not urge that we limit their perceptions or attempt to cramp their intelligence. After all, it's a long, long time since anyone except a crackpot subscribed to the flat earth theory, or insisted that the stars are holes in heaven's blue carpet.

But which Lawrence of Arabia would you have them remember—the leader of desert freedom-fighters or a warped and vaguely ridiculous little man suspected on the scantily-qualified word of the debunker to have homosexual tendencies?

And which Churchill, which Roosevelt?

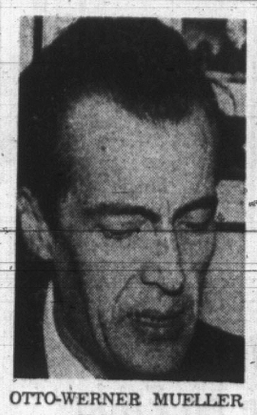

Would you give them the two mighty partners who joined hands and countries in a just cause, or an aging old gaffer plagued by aches and pains, and a future president who may or may not have loved unwisely?

It seems to me that we do not help our young or better the dubious moral climate of our era by tearing down all great examples.

If we persist in remembering every man of stature by his follies rather than his accomplishments, how may we in our turn expect to be remembered?

I do not propose a return to Victorian sham and hypocrisy; just that we leave our kids a few heroes.

And if the proven record requires that we trot out poor, loving Lady Hamilton, let us also recall Horatio Nelson dying for England at Trafalgar.

OTTO-WERNER MUELLER

Conductor Named Lecturer

Otto-Werner Mueller, conductor of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, has been appointed special lecturer in the University of Victoria's new School of Fine Arts.

He will lecture on music theory until next April when he leaves the city to accept other commitments.

Mr. Mueller has conducted the Symphony Orchestra for the past three years and was also first director of the Victoria School of Music.

A CBC-TV production of Rossini's The Barber of Seville under his musical direction won an Emmy Award last year and a prize in Switzerland following its showing in Europe.

Mr. Mueller has been a guest conductor in Spain, Germany and Sweden. In 1963 he was a guest teacher with a master class in conducting at the Moscow Conservatory.

Mr. Mueller is now in the United States filling concert engagements.

BY ECONOMIST

Victorians Under Close Scrutiny

By AB KENT

A new search has started at city hall to pin down the definitive Victoria.

London-trained graduate economist Malcolm Gould has for the last three months been looking at Victoria, its people and various facets of its economy to put community planners permanently in the picture.

The trouble with previous work in the same direction, planning department head Geoff Greenhalgh said, is that information becomes dated so quickly.

With Mr. Gould on his staff, the department will be able to provide statistical data in considerable depth at short notice.

And by studying the past and present, planners will be able to recommend appropriate steps for the future.

Mr. Greenhalgh said it will be possible to determine, for example, the actual value of the tourist industry to the community as a whole, not simply as it relates to retail trade or the service industry.

SURVEY WHOLE AREA

"We are taking a close look at the whole area to define exactly what kind of animal we are," the planner said.

And it will be a continuing process, he said.

Although the actual work so far is exploratory in nature, the output of information later will allow the department "to show how a community can respond by taking appropriate action before pressures are too great," the planning head said.

To give the information greater meaning it will be related to the other municipalities of Greater Victoria, since planners deal in terms of regions.

Ultimately the base statistics will be programmed into the city's budding data processing division so that it can be shared by other departments with equal ease.

"In our department we are interested in trends. We look back at what has happened in order to look ahead," Mr. Greenhalgh said.

"The closer you are to the data and the quicker it is available, the sooner you can make predictions."

SILVER THREADS

'Think Young' Group Filling Hobby Courses

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Membership in Victoria Silver Threads Centre topped the 4,160 mark at noon today.

And 300 early birds signed up for 26 arts and crafts classes which will begin on Tuesday, Sept. 20.

More than a dozen of the enrolling students were 80 years and over and several were in the early 90s.

"Age is no barrier where arts and crafts are concerned," said Mrs. William Logie, who is in charge of all classes.

She tactfully withheld the names of 80 and 90-year-old applicants.

"I don't think the ladies would like it," Mrs. Logie said, "but I'm really thrilled by the general enthusiasm. It shows what a great need there is for this kind of activity in Victoria."

When the first classes were started by Mrs. John Stringfellow five years ago, there were only a handful of students.

Last year the enrolment jumped to 350 a week.

Six new classes will be added this fall, making a total of 26, and there will be 45 volunteer instructors working under the supervision of Mrs. Logie.

The new classes are in rug-braiding, shellcraft, marquetry (wood inlay with a fine veneer), lapidary (polishing stone), liquid embroidery and animal stuffing.

"These classes have been added by request," Mrs. Logie said, "and they are attracting lots of interest."

PAINTING POPULAR

Of the old stand-bys, painting is still one of the most popular. Other favorites are basketry, quilting, woodwork, ceramics, needlepoint and knitting.

Also available are classes in leather work, dressmaking, wood carving, millinery, flowercraft, sewing, loom weaving and china painting.

Arts and crafts exhibitions are held periodically at which the work of students is put on display.

Happiness in old age is largely dependent on a feeling of usefulness to the community, says Mrs. Catherine Horne, director of the Silver Threads centre—at 4 Centennial Square.

"For that reason I feel this is the most important branch of our work. It is also important for the future as the population of elderly persons in Victoria is growing rapidly and people are living longer."

Man Who Called Out Fire Engines Sees Psychiatrist

A psychiatric report for a man who turned in a false alarm to the fire department Monday was ordered by Magistrate William Ostler today in central court.

Court was told that Allan Milner, Cobble Hill, pulled an alarm at Fort and Douglas at about 8:45 p.m., calling four trucks and 14 firemen to the intersection.

Milner presented himself at the city police station about a half-hour later and said he wanted to see how long it would take the engines to get there.

Pleading guilty to the charge of turning in a false alarm, he told the magistrate he "wanted to get them to build another firehall with up-to-date equipment."

He was remanded in custody to Thursday.

PONDERING SALVAGE problems today was employee of Victoria Auto Towing firm attempting to retrieve wrecked car from deep gully off road down Mount Douglas. Car tumbled end over end 135 feet down precipitous mountain side after leaving road at hairpin turn. Driver Ronald Leskun, 18, is in serious condition in hospital. Saanich police suggest four passengers may have escaped injury because car was small and "stopped them bouncing around." (Times Photo.)

Esquimalt Union To Seek Ruling

Esquimalt policemen will take their battle against doubling as firefighters to the Supreme Court in Victoria next month.

An application to the court seeks a ruling that employment of policemen as firefighters is illegal.

The notice was served Tuesday afternoon. The application will be heard Thursday, Sept. 29.

The Esquimalt Policemen's Union, Local 6, said in the notice:

- Employment by the police commission of union members as firefighters "is unlawful and-or beyond the powers" of the commission;
- The duty of policemen to the commission pursuant to the collective agreement "is to discharge the duties and responsibilities imposed by law upon police officers and no other duties or responsibilities";
- It is beyond the powers of Esquimalt Township "directly or indirectly to employ, order or require members of the applicant union to carry out the duties of firefighters."

The union contention has been that the double-duty practice is legally untenable because the police commission hires and fires constables whereas only the municipal council can deal with firefighters.

Reeve Ray Bryant, who is also chairman of the police commission, said this morning it would be "most improper for me to comment," now the issue is before the courts.

But earlier, he stated firmly that any legal moves by the police union would be opposed by Esquimalt.

UNIQUE IN B.C.

The 12-year-old policy of double duties for the 22 policemen is unique in B.C.

Two years ago a conciliation board said it had no jurisdiction over the issue.

This year's conciliation board split on the issue with chairman B. W. Dysart ruling the point is a matter of legality.

Last month, Esquimalt council decided the combined police and fire department will continue.

Fire committee chairman Coun. James Bryant said separate departments would create an "unneeded and unnecessary" tax burden. Initial cost of separate departments would be $165,000, and annual operating expenses would be $132,000, he said.

MICHAEL PUT HIS FOOT IN IT

Three-year-old Michael Little just takes a tiny tot's shoe.

But he managed to "put his foot in it" early this afternoon.

Michael, of 1555 Westall, Victoria, was playing across the road from his home when his foot slipped in a drainage tile.

Two firemen took five minutes to chip away enough tile to slide Michael's foot out.

Grant Sought For Widening McKenzie

Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich has asked Highways Minister Gaglardi for his views on declaring McKenzie Avenue a secondary highway.

His letter to the minister followed designation of almost three miles of road looping around the University of Victoria as a secondary highway, making it eligible for provincial government grants.

FIVE SURVIVE 135-FOOT MOUNTAIN PLUNGE

They Took Death Ride and Lived

By GLEN ALLEN

Near midnight Tuesday, like kings and queens of the castle, five young people looked out on a city from its highest hill.

And then quickly, brutally, their castle crumbled.

At the first tight turn in the road down Mount Douglas the car in which they were riding plunged into the dark and down the rock-scarred, wooded face of the mountain.

Miraculously when the small English car came to rest 135 feet below the road, only the driver was hurt.

In serious condition today in Royal Jubilee Hospital is Ordinary Seaman Ronald Leskun, 18, of Windsor, Ontario.

BROKEN PELVIS

The youth, on training at CFB Esquimalt from Atlantic Command in Halifax, suffered a broken pelvis and internal injuries.

His companions, two boys and two girls, escaped serious harm.

Ordinary Seaman Vasilius Lubinsky, 18, from Beamsville, Ontario, Francis Douglas, 21, of 3579 Quadra, Jo Anne Lekivetz, 17, 1040 Lyall and Jo Ann Lane, 17, 931 Forshaw were taken to Jubilee, treated and released.

Saanich police sergeant Frank Briers, one of five Saanich fire and police personnel who struggled for a half-hour to rescue the injured youth, said "it's just a miracle they're alive."

Fire department Lieutenant Jack Patterson, who rushed Leskun to hospital after toiling up the steep grade with his stretcher said "I can't see how they're with us today.

EIGHT TREES

"There were a good eight death trees in their way. Any one of them would have killed them all."

Police said the car left the road, apparently out of control, shortly before 11:30 p.m.

It landed suspended at a crazy angle, one side touching the rocky ground, the other hanging from a small tree.

The injured driver was lying underneath. The four passengers had been able to climb to the road and call help.

Policemen and firemen had to chop away underbrush around the car's final resting place to get near Leskun.

The five bore him precious feet at a time up the hill. The footing was so bad they kept slipping backwards.

The car is a wreck.

A Victoria towing firm attempting to bring the hulk back to the road with a cable line found bits of metal, a hubcap and the car's battery on the side of the hill.

The Mount Douglas Road is the only one to the top of the 728-foot high lookout.

Six months ago another car went over at precisely the same point in the road.

Police have not yet determined whether the car failed mechanically.

'LONELY AS HELL, LONELY AS HELL'

Three members of the Northwest Territories entry in the Canadian Centennial Canoe Race prefer the loneliness of the Arctic Circle to the loneliness of civilization.

Larry Sittichinli, Jim Greenland and John Blake have decided to leave the team after completion of a 600-mile canoe trip from Fort St. John to Victoria Monday.

They stood at Vancouver International Airport today and watched their teammates leave for Montreal for another test of endurance.

SAME NOTATION

"He wrote the same thing day after day—'lonely as hell, lonely as hell, lonely as hell.'

"They were happiest in their canoe; let loose at night in those big hotels, they were lost. They did not like the city life. They are all married and they just wanted to go home."

Each canoe normally carries six paddlers, three spares and a commodore.

"We will manage somehow on the reduced crew," said Adderley.

The next trip for the rest of the crew is a race from Montreal to New York in preparation for a 100-day race from Rocky Mountain House in Alberta to Montreal next summer to mark the centennial.

Victorians Going To United Church Waterloo Parley

Three Victoria men will be delegates to the 22nd General Council of the United Church of Canada at Waterloo, Ont., starting Sept. 7.

They are Rev. Robert J. D. Morris, minister of First United Church; Rev. C. Leighton Streight, minister of Cadboro Bay United and Clifford Horwood, a layman at Fairfield United.

The principles of union between the United and Anglican churches is one of the major debates on the agenda.

'Biggest Ever' Begonias Show At Saanichton

The Dominion Experimental Farm at Saanichton has become a mecca for gardeners.

The big attraction are tuberous begonias, believed to be the largest ever grown in North America.

Even director Harry Andison who is known for his understatements, admits he has never seen larger blooms in the United States and Britain.

The fame of the plants have spread far and wide, mostly by word of mouth or letter.

"You have to see it to believe it," said Mrs. Hilda Hill of Victoria, a begonia enthusiast. "They are the best I have ever seen."

They are a sight to behold — a blaze of color and hues. There are about 1,000 plants.

Grand-Scale Window-Shopping Comes Naturally on Grand Tour

By DON VIPOND

Newcomers to Victoria face a common problem. What sights to see? Which ones first? What to expect? Answers are a matter of opinion, of course. But in this series one newcomer, Times reporter Don Vipond, sketches some of the highlights he found and how he would meet Victoria if he was doing it all again.

Victoria draws the newcomer to her heart.

The ribbons of highway south from the Malahat or from Swartz Bay strike right to the core of the Garden City. But just where Victoria begins is a pleasant debate.

Maybe it's the seat of government, the sombre Legislative Buildings, trimmed with their garish necklace of lights at night.

Perhaps it's the harbor.

Some would say Beacon Hill Park, that tranquil shelter of shaded green laced with all the colors.

Or maybe the city begins where it ends at the park's bluff, the gallery above the strait where Washington's Olympics have drawn an audience since men walked on the island.

●

No matter. All these are right at hand for the newcomer's grand tour, to come upon one by one.

From the harbor and the Buildings, then swing through Beacon Hill where you'll know the Monkey Tree although you've never seen it before.

The ducks are waiting, voracious beasts keener on tourists than any chamber of commerce. They'll eat anything they can beat the gulls to.

●

Look to the east and there is the tallest of totem poles, where stern faces in red, white and black stare fixedly from the city's first space needle.

The grand tour should swing east then along the marine scenic drive skirting the water of Oak Bay, through well-bred Uplands, past the sails of Cadboro Bay to end almost full circle at Mount Douglas.

Along the way you'll learn the city's most popular if unwritten game.

Which house would be yours if any were yours for the asking?

It's no snap.

On the Oak Bay shore there are first the tidy homes with perfect rockeries, tucked neatly into the stone above the water.

Along Cadboro Bay there seems more room to stretch but perhaps not the height.

It's Uplands though that makes the game a nail-biter. Here homes become estates, gardens are show-cases, lawns are rich greens and the electric wiring hides underground in shame.

●

It's window-shopping on a grand scale and later you can try an interesting variation. Stroll the docks of the marinas and select your boat.

Try ending the grand tour your first day at the top of Mount Douglas. Perhaps this is where it should all begin because the city, the parks and forests, the straits, the islands and the mountains — they reach away on all sides.

It's a magic moment, the kind which make some of us come back to stay.

Ask The Times

Q. Where were the canoes in the recent race through B.C. made? About how much do they cost? P.S.

A. A B.C. Centennial Committee spokesman said the canoes were made by the Chestnut Canoe Co., Fredericton, N.B. Bought in quantity they cost about $1,000 apiece.

Q. When and how did Arctic explorer Sir John Franklin die? C.T.

A. On his third Arctic expedition Franklin's two ships, the Erebus and the Terror, were held up in the ice and he and his crew perished. It was later found Franklin died on June 11, 1847. He was looking for the Northwest Passage.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, August 27, at 7:30 p.m. in Metropolitan United Church. Rev. E. Laura Butler will officiate. (Dorothy E. Kennedy.)

DEAR ABBY . . .

Army Son Should See Legal Officer

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My son, who just turned 21, recently came home from two years in Germany with the army. He had some pictures of a 17-year-old German girl. He thought she was "pretty." (I thought she was fat.) Well, soon after he got home he got this letter from her written in German, which nobody around here can read, so how was he to know she was telling him she was P.G.?

He didn't find this out until yesterday when he got a letter from her which she had a friend write in English. What is he supposed to do about this? He said they were close, but not that close. Please help me. I have no husband.

SOLDIERS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If your son is still in the army, he should talk to the legal officer in his outfit. If he can prove that he wasn't that close, or that others were equally "close," he could be absolved of all responsibility for the girl's condition.

But if he is responsible, the laws are the same over there as they are here, and he may have to support the child. If your son is out of the army, he will need a civilian lawyer. Preferably one which is versed in international law.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think parents should accept collect calls from their children who work in other provinces and can well afford to pay for their own calls? These children are too lazy to write letters so they call us collect because they know we love to hear from them. It is really a hardship on us to pay for all their calls. We would like your advice.

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Remember the old days, when you "trained" your children? Well, now they're training you! Shift gears, back up, and start training them again. When the telephone operators ask if you will accept the charges, say, "No!"

DEAR ABBY: I have one daughter-in-law who insists on calling me "grandma." Now I do not object to having my grandchildren call me "grandma," but I certainly do not care to be called "grandma" by a woman who could not possibly be a granddaughter of mine.

If she doesn't wish to call me "mom" or "mother" as my other daughters-in-law call me, she may call me by my first name, or anything else that she likes. But I do wish she would quit that "grandma" business. How do I make this plain to her?

FURIOUS

DEAR FURIOUS: How about simply telling her? She probably isn't aware that you are furious.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ANDY IN CHEYENNE: Yes, a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, but it can make a man look awfully foolish if he's not in the poultry business.

DEAR ABBY: My mother says that you are the one I should write to because if you put this in your column a lot of people might see it and change their ways.

I am 12 years old. My father is a waiter in a very well-known restaurant. He has always been a waiter. Could you please tell people that when they sneak out of a restaurant without paying their check the waiter who served them has to pay it.

My father has had to pay checks for people who walked off without paying while he was in the kitchen. I think this is just terrible. Some nights my father has had to work for nothing. Thank you for printing this, if you do, and I hope you do

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Question About Lady's Age Considered Gross Intrusion

I read the other day in a newspaper about a man who would rather go to jail than tell his wife's age. He told magistrates that the question about a lady's age "is a gross intrusion into the privacy of the individual."

I thought, "Well, there's a real man for you, so loyal to his wife, so considerate of her feelings and willing to fight for a principle he believes in. What a lucky little lady she is!"

Lowman

Then some sneaky doubts assailed my mind. It occurred to me that instead of being noble the husband may have been just a plain coward. Perhaps he felt it was safer to go to jail than to return home after revealing his wife's age.

All this brings up the question of which is the more youthful attitude — to lie about one's age or to tell the truth about it? I think there are definitely things to be said for each viewpoint.

Of course, the most youthful attitude of all is to simply forget about age. A great deal of fun, real happiness, and satisfaction are bypassed because of age consciousness. Women tend to act and think like they are expected to. They allow their behavior to be set for them by group thinking. However, this youthful attitude is impossible because others are age conscious.

What to do, then? There is such a terrific difference between people of the same age. One person may actually be years younger than another the same age, physically, mentally and emotionally. The physiological age is the true one. Therefore, if a woman is young for her age, why should she damage her image for others by telling her true age?

On the other hand, she will appear foolish if she lops off too many years — more than she can get away with. She will also be most unattractive if she apes the mannerisms and postures of a woman many years younger.

The mature woman has a charm all her own, and it can be as much or more alluring, vibrant, and youthful as that of any woman in her 20s. In fact it should have added qualities which it takes years of vibrant and perceptive living to achieve.

I would like to hear from my readers. What do you think about whether to tell the truth about your age or whether not to? Do write me and I will publish some of your letters, without your real name, of course. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

SHOPPING GUIDE

First Say 'Farewell' To Bulky Suitcases

By PENNY SAVER

Being a summer "stay-at-home" has its disadvantages. First of all, I begin by kicking myself for not hoarding all year, and scrimping and saving so that I could join the ever-increasing numbers that travel abroad, or to some "lost island" somewhere in the South Seas. I can usually forget the pangs of the wanderer "tied down" for the summer when I'm busy working in the garden, or doing repair jobs that otherwise would never have been done. However, that desire to travel jumps right back when a bon voyage party appears on my agenda.

The last farewell party for one of my lucky friends was a boon to me. I was shopping for a gift, and I found hundreds of items just perfect for the traveller. One, for the man in the house, is a boot buff that sells for $1.95. These synthetic fur cloths are small enough to squeeze into any little corner of a tightly-packed suitcase. They have leather handles on each and so that the "dusty-footed" traveller needs only to swish this over his shoes for a bright shine.

Another concept of a boot buff has a leather shoe horn at one end, which serves as a handle. This two-way article is priced at $3.95 in this shop.

Night travellers need not suffer boredom because of lack of scenery. Whether you travel by plane, train or boat, a compact set of dominoes can come in handy. Each ivory piece is the size of a pair of dice placed end to end, and the complete set fits into a little leather carrying case. This set sells for $2.95.

Slippers are sometimes bulky items to squeeze into suitcases. One pair of soft leather slippers are ideal for the tourist who has spent the day visiting as many points of interest as possible in one day. These double over to fit into a leather case which has a sturdy zipper. The slippers come in all sizes in black leather. Price is $9.95.

Irish Fashions Star At This Year's CNE

TORONTO (CP) — Irish fashions will form the core of an international fashion show to be held every evening at the Canadian National Exhibition Aug. 19 to Sept. 5.

Elsa Jenkins, CNE women's activities director, predicts Canadians will be seeing more and more of Irish fashions in the future. Mrs. Jenkins chose 22 items for the show in a four-day trip to Ireland.

"The Irish are attempting to come into our market, as we're interested in selling to them.

"Their clothes have always been thought of in terms of Donegal tweeds. Now they are doing interesting things with their tweeds, in fabulous colors — bright oranges and greens — and with hand-knits and crochet-work.

"They're using weaves and crochet in evening clothes, and they're not copying. Everything you see has an Irish flavor. They haven't gone elsewhere for inspiration."

Mrs. Jenkins says much of the work is still done by hand as piece work. Women knit while they sit at home and watch television.

She says she especially enjoyed a visit to one couturier who lives about 40 miles outside Dublin on an old estate. He has turned the out-buildings into his atelier.

The hour-long show — Fashion Air Lift — will also include fashions from Spain, Portugal, France, Israel, England and Canada.

MALE EDITORS?

Women Overlooked In List of Greats?

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Suppose for the sake of argument that today's news headlined formation of a special commission or board of directors. And suppose this commission or board was composed of 23 women and two men.

Forbes

Would the male population of Victoria or any other Canadian city accept such a selection as a fair representation?

You know they would not do so — and so do I.

We'll not be able to test this theory out however. For as things stand at present it is women who find themselves in the minority on boards and commissions and who are lucky to get a toehold in any group appointed to do a particular bit of public service.

Even in the history of this country's first hundred years it appears that women have little or no place.

★ ★ ★

I'm thinking now of a recent publication — Great Canadians: A Century of Progress.

The book, one of a series in a Canadian Centennial Library, presumes to pay tribute to some of our outstanding citizens.

And it does, make no mistake about that.

What seems so unfair (and certainly would be challenged if the figures were reversed) is the fact that amongst the 25 chosen there are only two women — novelist Gabrielle Roy and artist and author Emily Carr.

I'm not quarreling with the choice. Certainly these two women should be in the book. At the same time if they are included then others should be up there with them.

★ ★ ★

Among the men honored I find Sir Sandford Fleming, inventor of Standard Time, Sir Charles Saunders who developed the Marquis strain of wheat, railroad builders Strathcona and Van Horne, Timothy Eaton, bush pilot "Punch" Dickens and 17 other who helped to make Canada great.

Faced with the task of saying who among them should be dropped I would have a difficult time.

Yet for every one of those men the name of a woman who pioneered a social reform in this country's first hundred years could be substituted.

Let me name one or two. There's Emily Murphy who was born the year after Confederation and whose life story spans its first tumultuous 60 years.

★ ★ ★

As "Janey Canuck," a writer of stories of pioneer days in Ontario and the midwest, she was known to all Canadians.

As the first woman stipendary magistrate to be appointed in the British Empire she worked for reforms in the treatment of crime, insanity and drug addiction.

As the originator and leader of the famed Appeal to the Privy Council by five Alberta women, hers was the privilege of having all Canadian women declared "persons" and thus eligible to sit in the Senate.

There is Adelaide Hoodless who crusaded for clean milk in Ontario (a reform that eventually spread across Canada), who campaigned to have home economics education for girls included in school curriculums and who was the force behind the organization of women's institutes in isolated farm communities.

This movement gradually spread to the cities and it still holds to the belief that home and family are of vital and almost universal concern to women.

★ ★ ★

There's E. Cora Hind, a woman who rose from obscurity to become a world-renowned agricultural editor in a time when women in a newsroom were almost non-existent; Helen Gregory MacGill, British Columbia's first woman jurist who fought tirelessly for better laws for women and children; Dr. Ethelwyn Trapp, a pioneer in cancer research in Canada and so many others there is not room in this column even to list them.

It's hard to accept the fact that those charged with selection for this latest centennial library effort (four men and one woman, by the way) did not see fit to include some of these proud names — not by deleting any that had been chosen but rather by increasing the size of the book.

FIRST DAY of enrollment at Greater Victoria's new Institute of Adult Studies brought 181 applications. By the end of the second day there were 277 persons registered, 68 of them for full-time grade 12 course and 37 for grade 13. The grade 13 program is equivalent to first year university but at half the price. Here was line-up outside the institute of persons to enroll. Any overflow of registrations will be accommodated in the evening program.

CENTENNIAL CAKE SALE

Aiding Others Tastes Good

By GORDON RITCHIE

When the centennial cake's all eaten the real fun is just beginning in the form of a summer holiday for handicapped children paid for by proceeds of the cake sale.

The towering two-ton cake looks like a palace. But the taste is all cake—two tons of the best eating since the last cake mother baked.

Mother may never bake another. The big cake has been cut into slices and wrapped so carefully it will stay fresh for months. Rumor has it that some families will be eating the centennial cake as far ahead as Christmas 1967.

Most people start out by buying "a tiny taste" for 35 cents. Half an hour later they come back to get a one-pound slice for just two dollars, or even a two-pound slice for four.

When that's finished, the next day, they come back to buy a few armfuls of the economy-sized six-pound packages.

And the more they buy the bigger and better the holiday the children will be able to have.

FIRST TIME

The money all goes to the George Pringle United Church Camp at Shawnigan Lake where this year the Kiwanis hope to be able for the first time to stage two one-week camps. Aug. 20-27 has been put aside for 32 physically handicapped children and the following week for 20 mentally retarded.

The camps are sponsored by the Oak Bay, Saanich, and Nanaimo Kiwanis Clubs, with the help of the Crippled Children's Clinic, the B.C. Foundation for the Handicapped and the Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded.

The real trojan work is done by the Spades, high school groups who work with the children all year round. These voluntary workers will provide the main staff—25 or 30 students—for both camps.

OPERATIONS

Their efforts will be guided by a number of adults who will supervise the operations of the camps—free of charge.

The whole operation depends on Victoria cake-eaters. The whole cake must be sold if the camp is to function.

TWO-TON CAKE being sold by Kiwanis will finance two one-week summer camps for over 50 handicapped and retarded children. Slices range from six pounds to a tiny taste.

Lawyer, Doctor Spat Aired in City Court

The benefit of the doubt is not always given to people charged with impaired driving, a defence attorney charged Monday in central court.

Robert Price told the court, "There has been, over the years, a casual approach to this responsibility. There has been a failure to allow any benefit of a doubt."

Lawyer Robert Price objected particularly to the testimony of Dr. H. L. McNiven. The doctor was testifying for the prosecution of Robert Graham of 851 Short Street on a charge of impaired driving.

Dr. McNiven several times concluded his answers to Price's questions with the words "that should be obvious even to you."

He accused Mr. Price of "twisting my statements" and of being "too smart."

Magistrate William Ostler reproved the doctor for his behavior in the witness box.

In his summation Mr. Price said "I am not concerned with Dr. McNiven's attitude on the stand toward defence counsel. But I am worried about his attitude toward his duty."

Mr. Price's client was convicted of impaired driving and was fined $300. His licence was also suspended for the Aug. 5 offence.

Black-Coated Mink No Longer a Rarity

A Fairfield housewife rushed out to catch herself a budding fur coat when she saw a black mink dart across the street in front of her home.

Shortly after noon Tuesday Mrs. J. G. Chope, 1028 Sutlej, was startled to see an unusual solid black mink in the neighborhood.

"My first reaction was to run after it and catch it, but it was too quick for me and it ran into some bushes," she said.

The highly prized creature measured about 18 inches with a long tail, Mrs. Chope said. She recognized the species from visiting fur farms and seeing them in the wild at Crescent Lake on Olympic Peninsula.

COLORS CHANGING

A provincial museum spokesman said unusual colorings are becoming more common because mutated mink escape from captivity from time to time.

They have no trouble surviving and soon begin breeding to produce a variety of colors, which have been spotted on Vancouver Island.

A true black mink mutation has been bred for the fur industry only recently. Previously, black mink fur was produced only by dyeing.

Women Seek 10,000 Books

A group of women volunteers who are collecting books for Victoria's new Institute of Adult Studies will meet in the Douglas Building cafeteria Thursday at 8 p.m.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. W. A. Toone, wife of the mayor of Victoria, and four travel films made by the B.C. department of recreation will be shown ___

The women volunteers are asking members and friends to donate books for the new students' library to be opened on the Lansdowne campus in September.

"All kinds of books are welcome," says Mrs. A. J. Temple, co-ordinator of the group. "We hope to collect about 10,000."

HOME GARDEN

Beacon Hill Inspiration To Gardener

By HILDA BEASTALL

No local gardener need hesitate to introduce his out-of-town visitors to the beauty of Beacon Hill Park as it is this summer.

This lovely city park high above the Straits of Juan de Fuca is a gem of scintillating color to delight even non-gardening friends.

Hilda

There is no need to apologize here for a cool summer, for the extensive beds of snapdragons, petunias, scarlet salvia and cinerarias lack nothing in beauty.

Borders of dahlias, perennial phloxes and other herbaceous plants are gradually increasing the areas of color.

When all this has been achieved in spite of the overcast summer skies and cool winds right off the snow-capped mountains across the straits, we can scarcely blame the weather for any of our failures in the same group of plants.

We may have to take a longer look at our watering habits and the condition of our soils, in a search for the reason.

Have we created a humus-filled soil capable of holding the moisture we know the plants require at their roots?

And have we supplied enough water to reach the roots during the dry weeks of summer?

Even though these problems do not plague you, a slow trip through Beacon Hill Park will be a pleasure and perhaps an inspiration.

Beach Boy Has Kin In District

If screaming fans mob the visiting pop group, the Beach Boys, on their arrival tonight, don't be alarmed.

It could be just a family affair.

One member of the blond, sun-tanned singers, Al Jardine of Inglewood, Calif., has relatives living in Victoria.

Mrs. Ena Young of 440 Michigan says Al is her second cousin but she has lost touch with other relatives, even those in the city, "although I still write to his grandmother."

"To us he's Ronnie. I thought it was interesting that he actually has roots in this city," although he might not know it. She says he probably changed his name "for professional reasons."

"I'd like to meet Ronnie definitely," she says, but she has made no plans to attend the Beach Boys' performance at the Memorial Arena.

"I'm really not interested in that type of music."

THREE BABIES DEAD

Bodies Placed In Deep-Freeze

TOFIELD, Alta. (CP)—Discovery of the bodies of three babies wrapped in brown paper and placed in a seldom-used freezer here has led to the arrest of a 22-year-old woman in Edmonton and shocked silence among local residents.

Patricia Florence Brown was arrested in Edmonton Tuesday and charged with disposing of a child's body in order to conceal having given birth to a baby. Maximum penalty under section 215 is two years' imprisonment. In a brief court appearance she was remanded one week in custody.

But her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brown, her teen - age brother and sister, residents of this community 35 miles southeast of Edmonton and local RCMP were tight-lipped about the discovery—made by Mrs. Brown when she started cleaning the freezer.

In answering a reporter's knock at the door of his farm house in this community of 1,025, Mr. Brown said only:

"If you're a reporter, you can keep travelling."

The local RCMP detachment was about as communicative, but a spokesman in Edmonton said one of the bodies may have been placed in the freezer in 1962, another a year later and the third in 1965.

USED SECOND FREEZER

The freezer is accessible from outside the house through a trapdoor and down a steep flight of stairs. The family usually used another freezer in the garage back of the grey-and-maroon bungalow.

Dr. M. M. Cantor, Alberta's chief coroner, said an autopsy should determine how long the babies lived after birth—if they were not stillborn — and how much time elapsed before they were put in the freezer.

The frozen condition of the bodies was slowing the autopsy at University of Alberta Hospital in Edmonton but results may be known Friday.

Another coroner said each of the bodies was still attached to the umbilical cord. Two bodies were identified as males but decomposition led to doubt about the sex of the third. However, it too was believed male.

Miss Brown was described by a Tofield businessman as a plump brunette about five-foot-three. She worked in Edmonton but often visited her parents wekends.

Fatal Flight Brings Dismissals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Air Force said Monday it is taking disciplinary action against four officials involved in the approval of a commercial picture-taking mission by the $500,000,000 XB-70 research plane which crashed in California June 8.

Air Force Secretary Harold Brown said if instructions had been followed, the picture-taking phase of the flight would not have been authorized.

He said Col. Albert W. Cate has been relieved as deputy for systems tests in the XB-70 program and assigned to other duties.

Written reprimands will be given Col. Joe Cotton, test force director; Col. James G. Smith, information director for the air force flight test centre at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., and John S. McCollom, director of research vehicles in the air force systems command at Wright Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

The XB-70 and a F104 came to grief while in a flight formation.

The photos of the formation, for General Electric, were being made from a jet, which flew a few hundred feet to the left of the XB-70.

The accident killed Joseph S. Walker, holder of the world's altitude and speed records, who was piloting the F-104, and Maj. Carl S. Cross, co-pilot of the XB-70.

Doctors Threaten To Leave Britain

LONDON (AP)—Hundreds of young hospital doctors are threatening to emigrate from Britain in disgust over the Labor government's pay freeze.

Dr. Maurice Rossen, secretary of a new organization called the Doctors Action Group, estimated Monday night that 800 are ready to leave the country in search of higher salaries and better hospital conditions.

Emigration on such a scale could deal a heavy blow to Britain's state-run national health service.

Junior doctors in the hospital service have been particularly hard hit by the freeze on pay increases and price rises, a measure which the government insists is necessary to stabilize the economy.

Before the freeze came in, the young doctors had been promised an increase of 13 per cent on annual salaries ranging between £770 ($2,310) and £940 ($2,820).

Now they must wait at least until the end of the year before getting the promised raise.

A spokesman for the British Medical Association commented: "The mood of the doctors is causing considerable alarm."

'WITNESS' SENTENCED TO DEATH

ATHENS (UPI)—A Greek military court has sentenced a 22-year-old Jehovah's Witness to death for refusing his compulsory military service.

Christos Kazanis, who had already served two years for disobeying draft orders, appealed the death sentence and higher military authorities agreed to review the sentence soon.

Another unidentified Jehovah's Witness was given the death sentence six month's ago, authorities disclosed, but it was later commuted to seven year's imprisonment.

'A' for Effort In Education For Alberta

TORONTO (CP) — A survey by the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education places Alberta first among 60 Canadian and United States areas for effort in education.

The study, by Dr. H. J. M. Andrews, head of the institute's educational administration division, and S. M. Hosein, a research assistant, says Ontario ranked eighth in effort and 37th in ability to finance education.

However, in actual expenditure, based on 1962 figures, Ontario tied for 24th place with Montana.

The study defines educational effort as the percentage of personal income spent on education.

It puts Alberta first in effort, with 31.9 per cent of personal income used for education.

Education costs in Ontario are shown as 26.7 per cent of income.

Ratings for the rest of Canada include Quebec, 11th in effort, 56th in ability and 46th in expenditure; British Columbia, 15th in effort, 40th in ability, and 34th in expenditure; Saskatchewan, 19th in effort, 44th in ability, and 40th in expenditure.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Not only will the CBC-TV National News be expanded from 15 to 20 minutes each weekday night but there will be special emphasis on original news gathering and reporting.

Stephen

It's all a part of the new look conjured up by trouble-shooter Bill Cunningham, who was given the job to brighten up the CBC-TV news face.

The visual aspects of news reporting will be emphasized and there will be increased depth of coverage, a greater variety of news and more original news gathering, particularly in increased coverage of Canadian news stories. These changes are designed to make the best possible use of CBC news facilities and of the television medium in fast, accurate news reporting.

To facilitate the application of these new techniques, senior, national affairs reporters will be stationed in such major Canadian cities as Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax. Senior reporter specialists will be assigned to cover such fields as science, women's affairs, education, labor, industry and development.

The CBC will continue to have correspondents in major spots throughout the world, including David Levy in Moscow; David Halton in Paris; Stanley Burke, Michael Maclear and Phil Calder in London; James M. Minifie and Knowlton Nash in Washington, and reporter Tim Ralfe on special assignment in Saigon.

Former Far East correspondent Tom Gould was last reported on his way to CBC headquarters in Toronto for assignment.

In the early evening, special attention will be devoted to coverage of local and regional news, plus detailed weather reports.

★ ★ ★

TWO BITS: A two-hour, wrap-up program of the Eighth Commonwealth Games will be seen on CBC Sports Presents, Sunday, Aug. 21. Alex Trebek and Lloyd Robertson will interview Canadian athletes and describe the events at the just-concluded games in Kingston, Jamaica.

What to do with unsold TV pilot films? Universal-TV, among the more prolific production centres, is converting another one into a possible theatrical film. "Stranded," with Richard Egan, was produced last season but failed to find a network space. There is more footage being added to the original 43-minute TV time to expand it for the movie trade. "Sullivan's Country" was the first unsold pilot which went the theatre route.

A WIGGLY PORCH—
AND DRY ROT IN THE UNDERPINNINGS!
THESE ARE PLAINTIVE CRYS FOR HELP . . . I LOVE CHARGING TO THE RESCUE OF LOVELY, OLDER HOMES IN NEED OF AN UNDERSTANDING, AND NEW OWNER . . .
OLDER HOMES—rural and close in are my absolute specialty—I have found satisfied purchasers for many, many, older and Hard-to-Sell properties, because I PERSONALLY LIKE OLD HOMES. I believe they have more to offer the family group, the old trees and gardens cannot be matched in a modern complex —UGH—Pardon me, but I'm really not a modern home enthusiast.
Some old properties have a magical atmosphere, which my Irish intuition quickly detects. Now I'm not saying that there's "Little PAYPH" in the garden—but there is, many times, more around than meets the casual eye—Like a Lifetime of HAPPINESS—which doesn't rub off easily—
IF YOU HAVE AN OLDER HOME FOR SALE . . . PLEASE CALL ME FOR APPRAISAL.

PROGRAM EXPANDING

Saanich Playgrounds Most Used

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Saanich parks led other municipal recreation schemes by drawing a record number of youngsters in the six-week summer playground program which ended last week.

Attendance figures for the 19 Saanich parks totalled 60,500, tallied at morning and afternoon playground sessions five days a week.

Playground attendance in Victoria's 11 city parks totalled 38,000.

Only two city parks, Beacon Hill and Central, had playground supervision both morning and afternoon. Others had games, handicrafts and other activities overseen in the afternoons only by two supervisors in each park.

Oak Bay drew about 675 children to three parks daily with a playground program centred on an "around the world in six weeks" theme.

NEW PROGRAM

A new program was started this year at Quimper Park.

Esquimalt's playground program at Bullen Park, now in its fourth year, drew from 60 to 75 children a day under the watchful eye of two supervisors.

Highest attendance is usually recorded in the first weeks when youngsters, just out of school and bursting with summer energy, invade playgrounds in force.

Attendance of about 1,000 was estimated at the city's Oaklands Park during the first week of July. Early in the summer more than 600 children per day flocked to Central Park which has a wading pool also watched by the two park supervisors.

Attendance tapers off towards the end of July in most parks as families go on holidays.

But the six-week program is generally considered lengthy enought as only three weeks separate it from the start of school.

NEED HOLIDAY

"Then the children are organized again. The kids need some holiday, too," one supervisor observed.

During the program they cram in such wide-ranging activities as handicrafts, talent contests, hobby shows and costume competitions.

The youngsters also have inter-park softball and volleyball games, and a highlight of the Oak Bay playground program was a checker tournament between rival parks.

Swim lessons were held for city, Saanich and Oak Bay youngsters who competed in a swim frolic. More inter-municipal events are hoped for in future playground programs.

The youngsters also take hikes and field trips to Thetis Lake, Francis Park, Centennial Square or just off to the beach or around the park.

Special events in the city parks program included a sandbox competition, a fishing derby off Dallas Road breakwater and appearance of hockey star Gordie Howe.

Much of the success of the playground programs depends on the park supervisors who are responsible for keeping the children occupied and happy.

Hired each summer, mostly from older high school and college students, the supervisors have usually had experience working with children, and bank largely on bright ideas and ingenuity to keep their charges happy.

Most are girls but there are a few married women, one with several young children of her own.

"But there are certain parks where you definitely need a male supervisor," says city playground organizer Gary Taylor.

"The kids do get rambunctious and let off a bit of steam once in a while. But the supervisors have got to expect this.

"We ask them to try and enforce playground regulations (like no bike riding, and no dogs) without taking a judo course."

Most discipline problems, he said, come from the older youngsters who have "no jobs, nothing to do and just drift into the parks.

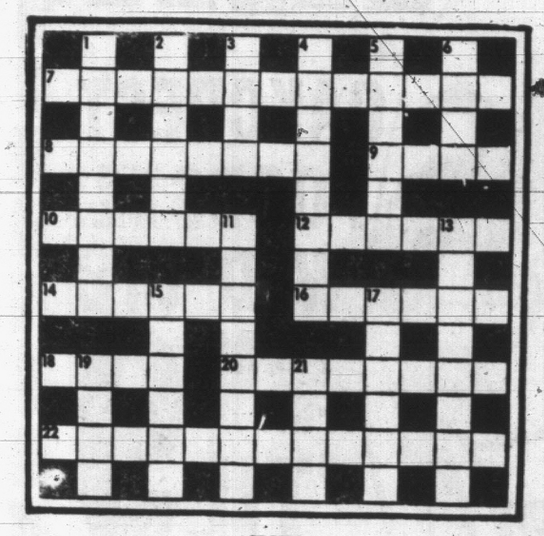

"We try and give them an outlet, but it's a problem we're going to be faced with more and more."

SOLUTION FRIDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Jean McCaslin, age 12, of Decatur, Ga., for her question:

What is biochemistry?

Although the Age of Science has hardly begun, it will play bigger and bigger roles in our future lives. Now is the time for young students to dream of careers. The future has room for thousands of biologists and chemists and squadrons of biochemists.

We know that biology is the science of living things, but we usually think of chemicals as non-living substances. The two parts of the word biochemistry seem to contradict each other. But biochemistry is the study of chemicals involved in the processes of life. This field is immense and has many sides. Many of its aspects still wait to be explored, and the world of the future will need more and more trained and qualified biochemists.

The research of the biochemist often is rewarding to the whole world. We can thank them for antibiotics and other wonder drugs, for advances in the war against disease in both plants and animals and for many astounding gains in medical science. They probed the chemical activity of living cells to find how the digestive system works, how health is affected by vitamins, foods and other chemicals.

The biological sciences cover a multitude of fields from tiny cells to vast systems of plants and animals living together. The basis of all this biology is the living cell, and this vital unit is built from a variety of complex, changeable chemicals. Biogchemistry is the branch of biology that delves into these chemical life processes. One researcher could not investigate all of its aspects in 100 lifetimes.

Wide Field of Research

Cytologists study the biochemistry of the cell; microbiologists probe the chemical effects of germs, and pharmacologists do research in the biochemical effects of drugs. Some biochemists study photosynthesis, diseases and life processes of the plant world. A promising young biochemist can choose a career from dozens of different fields.

The plans begin early with a groundwork of basic studies. Math is a must, for it is the language of science. A biochemist also needs to know something of the chemistry of atoms and the energy of physics. He or she should learn how to use micriscopes and other optical instruments and also the skills of experimental research, logical observation and accurate record-keeping.

This brief outline suggests a mammoth program of brain-straining toil. But patient study never discouraged a true scientist; in fact, it tends to challenge his built-in curiosity. He works to gratify this wonderful curiosity and his rewards are immense. If the idea of this type of study depresses you, then forget a career in the sciences and plan something more suitable. The right career for you is the job you enjoy most.

YOUR HEALTH

They Didn't Notice He Had Diabetes

By DR. ALVAREZ

I keep reading here and there that there are probably a million people scattered throughout the United States who either already have diabetes and don't know it, or won't face it.

Alvarez

Also there are hundreds of thousands of people who are carriers of diabetes—in other words they have inherited the tendency—but it hasn't yet been recognized. Many of these people are decidedly overweight and especially if they don't take off that weight they are very likely to be diabetic by the time they are 50 or 60 years of age.

Of late a number of these carries have interested me greatly because they have symptoms of diabetes without any sugar in their urine. For instance, recently there came in a man who was overweight. He was complaining bitterly of almost constant pain in his arms and legs—pain of a type that one sometimes sees in diabetics.

Soon he was complaining of great fatigue and he lost his sexual potency. Then he showed me where some of the fat under his skin was degenerating and causing trouble—as it can do in diabetes.

I am ashamed to say that he had just come from a great medical institution where the young doctor apparently hadn't recognized the resemblance of the man's pain to that of diabetes and he hadn't asked him about diabetes in the family. I asked, and the man said, "Why yes, my father and my brother both have diabetes."

I immediately sent him for a measurement of the amount of sugar in his blood and found that it was 112 milligrams, which is 12 milligrams over what is considered the upper limits of normal. Then I sent him for what we physicians call a glucose (grape sugar) tolerance test. What the laboratory man does is to give the patient, in one dose, 3 ounces of the sugar.

In the case of a normal non-diabetic person, in the next hour there is a small rise in the amount of sugar in the blood and then this amount of sugar quickly falls to normal. But, in the case of this patient, there was a tremendous rise in the blood sugar and then it went down abnormally slowly.

Obviously the man has a strong tendency to diabetes. In order to avoid serious trouble with the appearance of a frank diabetes in the next few years, he ought to be taking off about 50 pounds in weight.

What fascinates me with cases of this type is that the serious, painful and distressing symptoms of diabetes can appear in a patient long before he gets enough sugar in his blood to have it run over into his urine.

★ ★ ★

This shows that the occasional symptoms of diabetes such as difficulty with sight and difficulty with the kidneys, hardening of the arteries, a rise in blood pressure, heart attacks, and particularly overweight, are not due to a great rise in the amount of sugar in the blood, they are due to the inherited tendency which causes all the patient's troubles, including the rise in the amount of sugar in the blood.

Architects' Soliciting Irks Trustees

DUNCAN—Trustee Neil Dorning Monday night branded two firms of architects "unprofessional and unethical" for soliciting school board business.

He said it is unnecessary for architects to solicit the board by letter.

Mr. Dorning was taking exception to letters received from Peterson and Lester, Victoria, and from A. L. McDonald, Vancouver, asking for a share of work from the next district referendum.

Will Dobson, board chairman, said architects are not usually selected on a competitive basis but by appointment.

Trustee Wilf Peck said he would be surprised if either firm in question is acting outside the professional code of ethics.

Their letters may have arisen from the fact Cowichan School Board had on a previous occasion gone outside the district to engage an architect.

The two letters were received and filed.

Mr. Peterson said in Victoria Tuesday it was an accepted practice for firms "to let the school board know we are in business."

He said the only point of an objection would be if they suggested a certain building be designed by the firm.

Woman Jailed 18 Months

DUNCAN — Beverly Gail Hardy, Vancouver, was sentenced to jail Tuesday for 18 months when she pleaded guilty to 14 charges of uttering forged cheques.

Three of the offences related to Duncan where she was arrested in a local supermarket along with John Peter Henshaw, Vancouver.

Henshaw is to stand trial at the next asizes on a charge of possesing machinery for forging.

At a preliminary hearing, Magistrate Eric Winch was told Henshaw was picked up in the supermarket and found to have a cheque-writing machine, yellow sheets of safety paper and other equipment.

Henshaw was due to appear in court today to stand trial on three counts of uttering forged cheques.

Victorians Win

Two Victoria sailors won top prizes in the Nanaimo sailboat regatta at the weekend.

R. V. James, 35 Wellington, won first place in the senior sabot division and C. A. Sash, 1576 Hawthorne, placed second in the long-distance run.

Spring Start Due On Cowichan Rd.

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN—Construction of a new Cowichan Lake Road likely will begin next spring.

The highways department is negotiating with two lumber companies for the removal of timber on the proposed new route.

About nine miles of new highway will be built proceeding east from the present road west of Sahtlam railroad crossing.

It will cut through Paldi village and come east through Old Hillcrest.

The new route will eliminate Tansor railroad crossing by proceeding three-quarters of a mile to the north.

JOIN HERD ROAD

It will join up with Herd Road at a new intersection with Somenos Road and continue to the Trans-Canada Highway.

A highways department spokesman said today clearing of the new right-of-way could begin in the late fall.

He said paving would not likely start this year.

The new route will mean Cowichan Lake Road by-passing the city of Duncan.

It is understood the new highway will comprise long, straight sections and be almost as wide as the Trans-Canada Highway with wide shoulders.

Cost of the project has not been estimated and tenders will not be called until right-of-way arrangements are complete.

MAYOR HAPPY

Mayor Jack Dobson said the new road would relieve a great deal of truck traffic congestion on Government Street within Duncan.

He said council will now have to take a second look at its plans to reroute truck traffic south of Government Street.

Mayor Dobson said: "We were concerned about the narrowness of Government Street for truck traffic."

Robert Strachan, Cowichan-Malahat MLA, said he is pleased Highways Minister Gaglardi has kept his word to have the road rebuilt.

"I have been fighting for this new road for years.

"Perhaps we should have elections more often."

49-Pounder Wins Boat For Angler

CAMPBELL RIVER—Local fishermen captured all but six of the 26 prizes in the third annual salmon derby.

Winner of the main prize, a 12-foot aluminum boat, was Bob Tuberfield, Campbell River, who hooked a 49-pound, eight-ounce Tyee on a small plug in the Tyee Pool.

Despite an early morning downpour and windy weather throughout the day, the derby drew a record entry of more than 150 boats.

A total of 171 salmon weighing 1,204 pounds were weighed in.

Saanich Woman Faces Sentence For Clock Theft

A woman who shoplifted an alarm clock and returned it for a cash refund pleaded guilty to two counts of theft Tuesday.

Mrs. Sophie Salwicki, 3313 Shelbourne, will be sentenced Aug. 24 after Magistrate Ostler has studied a pre-sentence report.

RCMP Sgt. Verne Williams testified he was called to the Shop Easy store at Colwood Plaza June 30 and there saw the accused hide a loaf of bread under her jacket and put several articles in her purse before checking out other groceries in a cart.

The accused later admitted to taking and returning the alarm clock.

Sentences Suspended

Two young sailors who pleaded guilty last week to three counts of breaking and entering were given suspended sentences in central court Tuesday.

John Grigg and Raymond Scott, both of HMCS Mackenzie, were placed on $500 good behavior bonds for the next two years.

They had also pleaded guilty to two attempted break-ins.

BRIDGE RESULTS

Winners of the Monday Masters Duplicate Bridge game held at the Broughton Building were:

1. Louise Duncan and Paul Smith; 2. (tie) Lillian Goodwin and Leslie Isaacson; Fraser McColl and Jack McAvoy; 4. William Lamb and John Dimitri; 5. Dorothy and Marjorie Mulcahy.

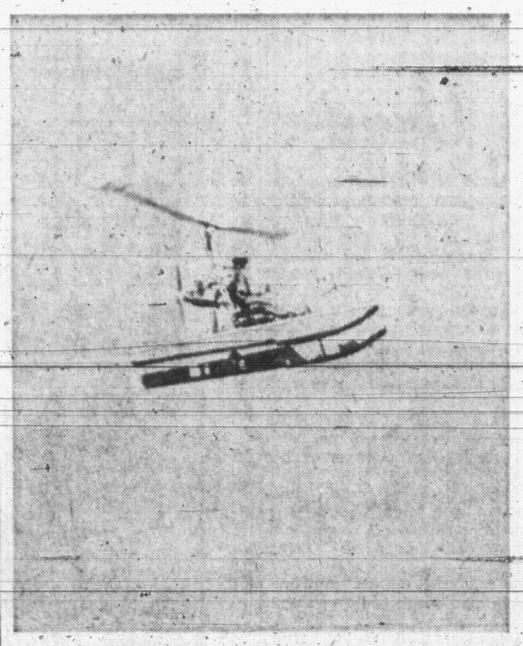

Foiled in Escape

Lance Maclean admitted to police he was "gassed" when they found him in his parked car at Goldstream campsite early Tuesday.

But the youth, who lives at 660 Admirals Rd., bolted from officers and was captured as he hid in some bushes.

Asked in court why he ran, he replied "I just didn't feel like sitting down."

He was fined $350 for impaired driving and his licence was suspended.

TAIL-END DUNCAN TORY SWITCHES TO SOCREDS

DUNCAN—A switch of political horses may make Cyril Craig the Social Credit candidate for the Cowichan-Malahat constituency in next month's provincial election.

Mr. Craig said Tuesday he will seek the Socred nomination at a meeting here Tuesday night.

A retired teacher and farmer, Mr. Craig was the Conservative candidate in the 1963 campaign and ran last in a four-way fight.

Prospects are Cowichan-Malahat will only be a three-cornered contest this time.

Prominent Conservative David R. Williams, a lawyer, said Tuesday it is unlikely the party will field a candidate.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan will launch his campaign to retain the local seat at a nominating convention here Saturday evening in the United Church Hall.

George Whittaker, president of Duncan and District Liberal Association, said Tuesday there will definitely be a Liberal candidate.

Mr. Whittaker would not say if he would again be the Liberal candidate as in 1963.

He said it is hoped to have three names before the Monday evening nominating convention in the agricultural hall.

Alan A. Macfarlane, Liberal MLA for Oak Bay, is expected to be guest speaker.

Asked about his political switch, Mr. Craig said he is an advocate of the two-party system.

The only hope in Cowichan-Malahat for the return of the two-party system is to merge the voting power of Socreds and Tories against the NDP.

Mr. Craig said: "We must return to the two-party system if we are to have politics at all in the future. "I think there is enough room in the Social Credit party for Independent thinking."

STRACHAN PLEASED

Mr. Strachan welcomed the reduction in numbers of his opponents.

He said: "The last time there was a three-cornered fight here (in 1960) I had my greatest majority ever."

In 1963 his majority over nearest rival Socred Donald Morton was 1,900.

Mr. Strachan said he will be campaigning actively in the constituency, but added: "I have obligations all over the province which have to be fulfilled."

Bomber Crashes In Village

SAIGON (AP)—A U.S. marine jet fighter-bomber, heavily loaded with bombs and fuel, crashed into a Vietnamese village shortly after takeoff from Da Nang airport today. At least 26 villagers were killed.

The pilot, identified as Lieut. Walter J. Doherty, 22, of Gold Hill, Ore., miraculously escaped serious injury. His parachute failed to open after he ejected, but the fall of his ejection seat was broken by a tree.

A spokesman said the plane was carrying two 1,000-pound bombs. One exploded as did 20-millimetre ammunition.

The crashing plane levelled a number of small Vietnamese homes. Others were set afire.

Cong Guerrillas Attack Near Saigon Airport

SAIGON (AP)—A Viet Cong guerrilla squad staged a half-hour attack with mortars and recoilless rifles tonight on a U.S. motor vehicle pool about a mile from Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport. A U.S. spokesman said they killed one South Vietnamese and wounded six others. He said he knew of no American casualties.

About 20 shells were lobbed at the installation. By the light of flares, vehicle-mounted U.S. military policemen shot back with machine-guns.

Material damage from the shelling was officially reported to be light.

The airport itself, which handles both military and civilian traffic, was the target of a Viet Cong bombardment four months ago. Seven U.S. soldiers and a South Vietnamese were killed in that raid.

●

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy pilots reported a surface-to-air missile fired at flight of A-4 Skyhawks Tuesday missed its target, reversed itself and exploded in a populated area east of Haiphong.

A spokesman for the U.S. military command said the pilots reported fires were observed after the missile detonated.

●

TOKYO (Reuters)—The North Viet Nam news agency said today 200 civilians were killed or wounded when two U.S. jets bombed and strafed the South Vietnamese hamlet of Cau Nhiem Aug. 9.

The agency said the raid could not have been a mistake since the hamlet was clearly marked on maps and was only seven miles from the big town of Can Tho.

ONE ARRESTED

Lawyers Quit U.S. Hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The lawyer who brought suit against the house committee on un-American activities was hauled out of the committee hearing room and arrested today, provoking a mass walkout by seven other attorneys.

PREMIER SMALLWOOD
. . . 6th in '66

The eviction of Atty. Arthur Kinoy on orders of acting committee chairman Joe Pool, D-Tex., highlighted another explosive day of hearings on legislation aimed at organizations which have protested the Viet Nam war.

The episode occurred as Kinoy and Pool got into a shouting match over the rights of one of his clients.

Kinoy, a principal attorney in the suit seeking to have the committee declared unconstitutional, was taken in a patrol wagon to a nearby precinct house and charged with disorderly conduct. He indicated he would decline to post collateral and go to trial on the issue.

'MANHANDLED'

His colleagues charged he had been manhandled by the U.S. marshals who evicted him, and declared the arrest was an insult to the American bar.

William Kunstler, who serves as an American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) attorney with Kinoy, declared: "Never anywhere in 18 years of experience have I ever seen a lawyer treated this way."

When Pool refused to back down on his action against Kinoy, Kunstler led a walkout of the attorneys. Two subpoenaed witnesses, Allen Krebs and Walter D. Teague III, who were represented by Kinoy, also stalked out.

Then nine spectators began shouting "end the war" from the rear of the huge hearing room and were taken out by police. Six others had been arrested prior to Kinoy's clash with Pool.

POOL RESISTS

Pool told one of the attorneys, Jeremiah Gutman: "I'm not going to stand here and let a bunch of lawyers take over this hearing and that is what you are trying to do."

Beverly Axelrod, who is also an ACLU lawyer, charged that Kinoy had been "choked and manhandled" while being dragged from the hearing room.

Pool defended the action.

"I listened to his objections patiently," the congressman said. "But he continued to object even after I had told him to sit down and so I ordered him to leave the hearing room. When he resisted, I asked that he be removed."

Smallwood Calls Vote Sept. 8

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (CP) — Premier Joseph Smallwood announced today a provincial eletion will be held Thursday, Sept. 8.

Mr. Smallwood's announcement at a news conference ended weeks of speculation that an election would be held this year.

It is the sixth provincial election since Newfoundland entered Confederation in 1949.

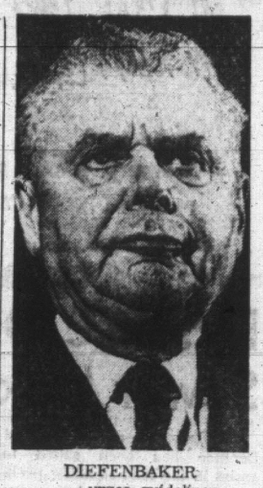

House standing after the Nov. 19, 1962, election: Liberals, 34; Progressive Conservatives, 7; independent, 1—total 42.

Russ Planes Have Missiles

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union can fire long-range nuclear missiles from airplanes, a deputy commander of the Soviet air forces said today.

He said this means Soviet bombers can sit back beyond the limits of any enemy's anti-aircraft defence zone and fire accurately a missile from a distance of many hundreds of miles.

Air Marshal V. A. Agaltsov, a specialist in long-range aviation, made the claim in an interview with the news agency Tass.

DIEFENBAKER
. . . urges guidelines

'Wage Explosion' Blamed on Gov't

OTTAWA (UPI) — Parliament should be reconvened immediately and the government should bring down a national transportation policy as soon as possible to head off Canada's impending railway strike, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said today.

Diefenbaker said at a press conferennce the government's action in giving large pay increases to Quebec dockworkers and employees on the St. Lawrence seaway had created a "wage explosion" in Canada.

If the same policy is carried over to the railways, it would result in "the most galloping inflation this country has ever known."

Diefenbaker blamed Prime Minister Pearson in particular and the government in general for the threatened rail strike which would have disastrous consequences on the national economy.

'DON'T WAIT'

He said "some recommendations" of the MacPherson report on railways should be implemented as soon as possible and warned the government against waiting until the strike was underway before taking action.

Diefenbaker said consumer prices were rising every week, that the rate of increase had never been equalled and that there was no end to spiraling costs in sight.

"The major reason is that 11 per cent sales tax on building materials," the Tory leader said.

He also blamed high interest rates which he said were affecting productivity.

Diefenbaker called on Pearson to issue a set of guidelines for the Canadian people — "a call to arms," he called it. He said the prime minister should tell Canadians temporary advantages in the economy would cause serious economic problems in the future.

Cabinet Meets, Rail Chiefs Standing By

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson today took personal charge of the government's railway strike crisis, calling a special cabinet committee to map plans for the impending emergency.

President Donald Gordon of the CNR and President Ian Sinclair of the CPR were called to the capital from Montreal but did not attend the cabinet committee session that began at 11:15 a.m.

Informants said the railway presidents were asked to stand by for cabinet-level consultations later in the day, probably with Mr. Pearson himself.

A full meeting of the cabinet was scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

The committee meeting was attended by Labor Minister Nicholson, Transport Minister Pickersgill, Health Minister MacEachen and Immigration Minister Marchand among others.

Several senior government officials were called in, among them George Haythorne, deputy labor minister, Bernard Wilson, the government's top labor relations expert, and R. B. Bryce, deputy finance minister.

Reports that some non-operating railway workers have threatened to stage an unauthorized walkout one minute after midnight tonight gave an air of emergency to the cabinet discussions.

A country-wide walkout by almost 120,000 railway workers is expected within the next three weeks.

If an unauthorized walkout can be averted, the unions plan to set a common strike date and the guessing is that it will be either Aug. 29 or Sept. 6, or some time between those two dates.

Avert Strike, Firms Urge

VANCOUVER (CP) — A foundation speaking for 25 influential British Columbia companies urged Prime Minister Pearson Tuesday night to recall Parliament immediately and enact legislation to head off a threatened railway strike.

The foundation membership includes such companies as British Columbia Telephone, the Aluminum Company of Canada, MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., Cominco Ltd., and other large companies.

FOR ALL BUT TORIES

Election Drums To Beat Louder

The Sept. 12 election campaign began throbbing today as the main party engines warmed up for a flying start tonight.

New Democratic Party leader Robert Strachan and Liberal party leader Ray Perrault were to kick off their campaigns at nominating conventions tonight in Vancouver.

Premier Bennett, just back from some unofficial but vigorous campaigning in the Kootenays, revealed his plans for making his formal campaign opening Thursday night in Campbell River.

It will be followed by a ribbon-cutting ceremony and the start of a whistlestop tour of the Peace River country next week on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

But while the other party machines roared into activity a total silence from the Progressive Conservative party has begun catching considerable attention.

Expectations mounted that a formal gathering of the party-s 18-man board of governors scheduled for Saturday in Vancouver will decide not to name a single standard-bearer in this election because the party is heavily involved in internal reorganization.

UP FOR GRABS

Mr. Perrault said that the 11 per cent of the 1963 election vote captured by the Conservatives now will be up for grabs by the other parties.

B.C. Conservative Association president Stuart Fleming told the Times from his Vernon home that the Saturday meeting will decide whether or not the party does contest any seat but he would not hint what the decision will be.

"There will be a positive statement of our decision on Saturday after the meeting. I have already made up my mind about a tentative recommendation but it is based on incomplete information which should be complete by the meeting and I cannot say any more than that."

Exactly half-way to nomination day, Aug. 29, there are 78 candidates declared in the running for the 55 seats of the enlarged legislature — 38 NDP, 20 Social Credit, 17 Liberals, two Communists and two others.

Many of the Vancouver entries have produced major surprises but the biggest question at the moment is whether This Hour Has Seven Days' co-host Laurie La Pierre will stand in one of the lower mainland ridings as a Liberal or NDP candidate.

"I have no comment to make at present about the rumors," Mr. Perrault replied this morning when asked by the Times if Mr. La Pierre would be a Liberal candidate.

"He is interested in running here but I believe it is in the federal not provincial field," said Maynard Wollard, as NDP campaign officer. "But the indications are that if he does run it would be for us rather than for the Liberals as the eastern press has speculated."

(Mr. LaPierre, who addressed an NDP meeting in Vancouver

LIONS DRAG CHILD THROUGH BARS, DIES

RENNES (Reuters)—A 19-month-old girl was dragged into a cage and killed by three lions Tuesday night as she was visiting a zoo near this French city with her parents.

The girl, Catherine Menon, wandered away from her parents and young brother and sister as they were paying the entrance fee to the park.

She wriggled through a barrier surrounding the lions' cage. One of the lions lashed out with its paw through the bars, dragged the girl into the cage and seized her in its mouth.

A keeper managed to free the girl but she died shortly after.

South Africa Hikes Taxes, Boosts Arms

CAPE TOWN (Reuters)—South Africa's Finance Minister Eben Donges announced today a five-per-cent increase in income tax on individuals and higher duties on liquor, cigarettes, cars and luxury goods.

Introducing his budget in the House of Assembly, the minister also announced a five-per-cent surcharge on gold and diamond mining company taxation.

Donges said 255,900,000 rand ($383,200,000) had been allocated for defence — 26,500,000 rand ($41,100,000) above the main estimates for last year.

Donges reported an upsurge in confidence by international capital in South Africa.

Local Threatens Wildcat Walkout

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One local of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers union voted Tuesday night to go on strike against Canadian National Railway while five others rejected a conciliation board's wage recommendation.

The 200 members of Windsor, Ont. Local 185, mostly ticket sellers and freight handlers, voted to go on strike at one minute after midnight Wednesday.

Mr. Justice J. C. A. Cameron of the Ontario Supreme Court recommended a 40-cent hourly increase over two years in the dispute between the nation's railways and their non-operating employees.

The CBRT's 21,000 members across Canada represent one-fifth of the workers involved in the dispute.

The union's Local 126 in Belleville, Ont., Local 8 in Saint John, N.B., and Locals 6, 288 and 292 in Moncton voted to reject Mr. Justice Cameron's proposal.

'Big Three' Chosen From Hundreds

Three final winners in the Times Photo Contest have been decided.

Drawn from the hundreds of photo entries that flooded the Times office during the six-week contest, they were among first-place winners in the weekly competitions.

The grand prize nets each of the winners a chance at the trip for two around the world and $50,000 in other travel and cash awards in the National Newspaper Snapshot Contest.

Each winner also receives a Times award of $25 for their photo.

Winners are:

Barry G. du Temple, whose photo of an elderly turbanned Muslim holding his grandchild was chosen best in People of the World category by Times judges Bill Halkett, staff photographer, and Audrey St. D. Johnson, drama critic.

Mr. du Temple of 814 Ardmore Drive, Sidney, took the photo in the small village of Sanderskote, outside Lahore, Pakistan, where he was spending two years teaching and studying on a Commonwealth Scholarship.

He is a former teacher at Lansdowne Junior High. The photo appeared in last Thursday's Times.

Gerald W. Bowden of Lake Oswego, Ore, snapped the winning photo in the World in Which We Live category. A former Times carrier boy, Mr. Bowden caught his two young sons, Andrew, four, and David, two, on film as they came eye to eye with a sparrow feeding in their yard.

The photo was entered in the Times contest by their grandfather, Jerry Bowden of Victoria, who thought the photo was good enough to win a prize. It appeared in the Times of Wednesday, Aug. 10.

Maurice Bombezin, of 1310 Prillaman Avenue, took grand prize in the Animals of the World category with his snap of a dog, Kiki and a Siamese cat, Patty, in a head-on encounter on a ladder.

Mr. Bombezin, a woodworker, entered his photos frequently in the contest. He keeps his camera with him almost everywhere, and credits this for the number of unusual shots he gets.

Three of his photos won firsts in the contest, and three more received honorable mention. Mr. Bombezin's winning photo appeared in the Times of Wednesday, July 27.

A Bewildered Young Man In Search of Truth

Beatles' Lennon Was Left 'Naked, Truthful, Bitten'

By LEROY F. AARONS
The Washington Post

John Lennon's remarks about Christianity, which reverberated around the world and led to mass public burnings of Beatle records, were the musings of an almost naively sincere young man going through a process of self-discovery.

Lennon, 26, left this impression in a candid 40-minute interview with The Washington Post between the afternoon and evening Beatles concert Saturday at Detroit's Olympia Stadium.

Still reeling from the shock of the violent reaction to his comments, Lennon spoke freely and at length about the events leading up to the now celebrated quote, his own newly-emerging philosophy and the impact of their meteoric careers on himself and the other Beatles.

Lennon revealed that his views on Jesus and Christianity, which he gave to a British reporter who was a close personal friend, were directly influenced by a book, "The Passover Plot" by Hugh J. Schonfield.

A premise of this study, Lennon said, is that Jesus' message had been garbled by his disciples and twisted for a variety of self-serving reasons by those who followed, to the point where it has lost validity for many in the modern age.

Concept Had Great Impact

This simple and not new concept had a great impact on Lennon, who was in the midst of reading extensively about religion and rethinking his own ideas on the subject.

He communicated this (or thought that he had) in the casual, intimate interview with reporter Maureen Cleave at Lennon's home.

When her article appeared in the London Evening Standard on March 4, 1966 (part of a series on the Beatles), Lennon was quoted as follows:

"Christianity will go. It will vanish and shrink. I needn't argue about that; I'm right and I will be proved right. We're more popular than Jesus now; I don't know which will go first — rock 'n' roll or Christianity. Jesus was all right but his disciples were thick and ordinary. It's them twisting it that ruins it for me."

Reprinted by Teen Magazine

The passage was part of a long, rambling profile. The Lennon interview and the articles on the other Beatles (which incidentally, had some even more potentially explosive quotes) were picked up and reprinted almost verbatim about three weeks ago by an American teen magazine "Datebook."

A Birmingham, Ala., disc jockey spotted the Lennon quote, announced he was banning Beatles' music from his station and called for public burnings of Beatles' records, photographs and concert tickets. The controversy spread world-wide. Other bannings followed and groups organibed album burning sessions, mostly in the United States. In Longview, Texas, 7,000 people gathered for a Beatles bonfire.

The adverse publicity, coupled with a slight decline in the Beatles' phenomenal popularity, seemed to be having its effect on the current tour. There were about 2,000 empty seats at each of the two Detroit performances.

Sunday the Rev. Thurman H. Babbs, pastor of the New Haven Baptist Church in Cleveland, threatened to expel any member of his congregation who attended the concert.

Not Glorifying The Beatles

In a self-humbling apology, at a press conference in Chicago, Lennon explained that he had been deploring the bowdlerizing of Christianity and not glorifying the Beatles. He might have used the example of television, he said, to emphasize that immediate, easy distractions were filling the vacuum left by the failure of the Christian ethic.

Lennon added: "I can't express myself very well, that's my trouble. I was just saying, in my illiterate way of speaking, what I gleaned from Schonfield's book.

"The main thing, though, is I did the article with a quite close friend who has been with us since we began and who had written some good articles in depth, you know, more than just what color corn flakes the Beatles eat for breakfast.

"I was talking to her in my own home," he said, "and we know each other so well that I was being even less expressive knowing that she would put it right. But when it was taken out of my house and into her business something happened to it. Then, the mere fact that it was in 'Datebook'—which as teen magazines go is really one of the best—changed its meaning that much more.

JOHN LENNON
. . . burning shocked

"Actually, if I'm going to blame anyone it's myself for not thinking what people a million miles away were going to say about it."

If he is prepared to eat humble pie about a mistaken impression, Lennon is by no means apologizing for having opinions. His ideas are taking new shape after a childhood of indifferent religious training, a period of cynical atheism and, over the last two year, what he calls "a reshuffling of all the things pushed into my head."

"I'm more of a Christian now than I ever was," he said. "I don't go along with organized religion and the way it has come about. I believe in God, but not as one thing, not as an old man in the sky. I believe that what people call God is something in all of us. I believe that what Jesus and Mohammed and Buddha and all the rest said was right. It's just that the translations have gone wrong.

'Clubs' Give Different Version

"Jesus says one thing and then all the clubs are formed for telling their versions and the whole thing gets twisted. It's like a game of having six people in a line and I whisper something to the guy next to me, maybe 'Love thy neighbor' or 'Everyone ought to be equal.' By the time it gets to the end of the line it's altogether something else. The things that have been said and done in the name of Christianity!"

If all this has an unsophisticated ring to it, it may be that it represents the first stirrings of a poorly-educated but intellectually hungry individual.

Lennon had what he calls a "weedy" education in his native Liverpool. He completed the British equivalent of 3½ years of high school and studied for five years in art school. But, he said, "I wasn't educated. I just gleaned a few things over the years. Nobody really tried to educate me and I never picked up much."

His religious training was "normal Church of England, Sunday school and Sunday church. But there was actually nothing going on in the church I went to. Nothing really touched us. The vicar was a fine man, always good for laughs. But I just think of all that as wasted."

By the time he reached 19, he had shed those early trappings for a smug atheism. "I shuffled it very well in those days. I was cynical about religion and never even considered about the goings on in Christianity."

Then came the phenomenal rise of the Beatles, and any tendency toward introspection was buried in the heady whirl of public adulation. It was only in the last two years, when the novelty began to tarnish, that Lennon and his co-Beatles started looking for something else.

Lennon likes to describe life as a Beatle as living in a "moving hothouse." Besides the artificiality and the constant exposure to the outside world, there is the element of forced growth.

"We've been mushroom grown, forced to grow up a bit quick, like having 30 to 40-year-old heads in 20-year-old bodies. We had to develop more sides, more attitudes. If you're a bus man, you usually have a bus man's attitude. But we had to sort of be more than four mop-heads up on a stage. We had to grow up or we'd have been swamped."

Growth Rarity In Pop World

The Beatles' growth, a rarity in the frenetic world of pop music is visible and measurable. It reveals itself in their recent music which is increasingly complex and experimental (for example, incorporating, of late, Indian instruments and techniques) and in the lyrics of Lennon and Paul McCartney which are beginning to probe layers of psychology and social consciousness.

It shows up, too, in their attitude toward their public, which has developed from a flip, comic egoism to an evolving sense of public responsibility (given a major thrust forward, no doubt, by the Christianity furor).

On a private level, the Beatles (notably John Paul and George Harrison) are reading voluminously, writing (John has two books to his credit — somewhat ingenuous but thoughtful works of poetry and short stories) and conversing with anyone willing to talk about something besides the color of corn flakes. Theirs is a search with complex roots — an amalgam perhaps of natural curiosity, compensation for easy success, and simply desire to map a future path for themselves.

Something Else He Must Do

Elsewhere in that controversial interview with Maureen Cleave, Lennon says, "You see there's something else I'm going to do, something I must do — only I don't know what it is. That's why I go round painting and taping and drawing and writing and that, because it may be one of them. All I know is, this isn't it for me."

Ironically, Lennon's statement on Christianity and his later apology are part of the same current. They are nothing so much as the surface bubblings of a deeper and more significant growing process.

His views on Jesus are more a groping than a finding. Moreover, he is convincing when he says that his decision to apologize was based partly on public relations necessity but more on an emerging committment to things outside himself.

"If I were at the same stage I was five years ago, I would have shouted that we'll never tour again and packed myself off and that would be the end of it. Lord knows, I don't need the money.

"But the record burning. That was the real shock, the physical burning. I couldn't go away knowing that I created another little piece of hate in the world. Especially with something as uncomplicated as people listening to records and dancing and playing and enjoying what the Beatles are. Not when I could do something about it.

Can't Stand Irrational Hate

"If I said tomorrow I'm not going to play again, I still couldn't live in a place with somebody hating me for something irrational.

"But that's the trouble with being truthful. You try to apply truth talk, although you have to be false sometimes because the whole thing is false in a way, like a game. But you hope sometime that if you're truthful with somebody they'll stop all the plastic reaction and be truthful back and it'll be worth it. But everybody is playing the game and sometimes I'm left naked and truthful with everybody biting me. It's disappointing."

THOUGHT OF MAO TSE-TUNG RULES, BUT DOES HE STILL WIELD POWER?

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Mao Tse-tung's "thinking" is in command in China today — but is Mao Tse-tung?

The answer may be no. China's Communists themselves nourish skepticism about Mao's health and position and speculate on the prospects of his departure from the scene.

This speculation is encouraged by:

1. A campaign to convince China and the outside world that Mao still functions as head man.

2. Strange differences in pictures of Mao released in Peking showing him alternately a sick old man and a younger, vigorous-looking leader.

3. An unexplained recall of an edition of the official party newspaper People's Daily reporting a Mao reappearance in Peking, and the subsequent deletion of the item from last Thursday's edition.

●

4. Extreme measures to demonstrate that the purge — it is called "the great cultural revolution" — is Mao's own brainchild and that Mao's "thinking" is the locomotive of the purge, and of everything else.

5. Incredible mass rallies, both to denounce those accused as "anti-party" and to whip up anti-American sentiment.

A report by the ruling Communist party central committee that Mao appeared before it in Peking for 12 days earlier this month and won complete vindication of his policies does not itself indicate he is in full control. On the contrary, it suggests that a struggle at the politburo level has been in progress for some time, reaching a peak which required a long-drawn-out session.

●

With all this, it is difficult to escape an impression that Mao no longer is in personal command, that his health is far from what the propaganda says it is.

It is not easy to draw hard conclusions from the appearance of Mao in photographs officially released by Peking. But some intelligence sources go so far as to suggest that Mao, 72, has a look-alike. They suggest a double stands in for him in public appearances such as parades, demonstrations and other functions requiring Politburo members to stand for hours, an arduous performance for any man of Mao's age.

Mao looks far younger and healthier in pictures released in May and July of this year than he did in photographs published a year ago. A picture published last October shows Mao looking 10 years younger than he looked last November.

Peking propaganda recently raised a hullaballoo about Mao swimming the Yangtse River. Its claims for his prowess and endurance went beyond bounds of credibility. Some analysts expressed conviction that pictures released in connection with the celebrated swim were faked.

Huge rallies in the last few months also raised suspicions. Obviously organized by the party, these turnouts of hundreds of thousands in city after city obviously interfered with production and the economy, just as mass turnouts of students to denounce "anti-party" elements must have interfered with the educational system.

But the rallies help deflect public attention at a time when it is possible that a struggle is in progress at the top of the power pinnacle.

Mao dropped from public view last November. The last released photograph of him then was of an aging, tired man. The next photographs — six months later — showed a younger-looking man apparently in vigorous health.

It is here that there is a curious coincidence in dates. Party propaganda has dated the current purge to November when it said a crackdown began to eliminate those who failed to abide by "Mao Tse-tung's thinking." By May, the purgers were in full cry and leaders in high places had been toppled. The purge is still going on.

Founders of B.C.

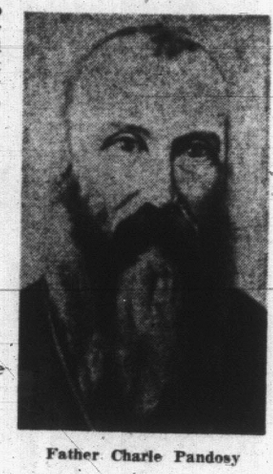

When the Catholic Archbishop of Oregon called to France for missionaries for the Pacific Norhtwest and New Caledonia, a student priest named Charles Pandosy was one of the first to answer.

He sailed form Le Havre in February, 1847, with three other students, a lay brother and a priest. It was the first step in a career that was to be important to British Columbia.

Charles John Felix Adolph Marie Pandosy was born in 1824 near Marseilles. He became a member of the Oblate Juniorat of Notre Dame de Lumineres. Oblate means one who offers himself.

The trip across the wintry Atlantic was a horror. Then came 1,300 miles by train to St. Louis and thousands of miles on horseback through a country of hostile Indians to Walla Walla on the Pacific side of the Rockies.

They were welcomed there at a Hudson's Bay Company post where Pandosy was assigned to build a mission on the Columbia River, and he was raised to full priesthood. Indian wars and unsettled conditions led to the closure of the mission and a decision to send Pandosy northward into New Caledonia. He made exploratory trips to Esquimalt and Kamloops and finally settled in 1839 on the Okanagan Lake where Kelowna now stands. With a small force of other priests he built a church and a school, working often barefoot and in rags.

Father Charle Pandosy

Both white and native children learned to read and write at his mission. The priests administered to all who needed them ranging as far as the present sites of Vernon and Keremeos. The mission's holdings prospered and became known as Priest's Ranch and the first Okanagan settlement grew around it.

Pandosy was a large powerfully built man with a booming voice, but overwork weakened him and he died in 1891 in the arms of an Indian chief. His grave has been lost to sight. But his reputation as a doctor, teacher, farmer and community leader lives on in the Okanagan and the Similkameen.

The Way to Self-Improvement ... If I Could Just Start Walking

By ART STOTT

Our copy of the adult education program from last weekend's newspaper is getting a little frayed. When she has time, Pat keeps leafing through it, having already made up her mind on the sewing course she wants but still conducting a furious debate with herself over shoe-recovering.

Stott

The main purpose of her continuing examination of the syllabus is, however, something else and quite apparent. In a subtle way she is trying to light the spark of self-improvement in the man who sits across from her at the breakfast table.

"Ballroom dancing here," she says. "Hmmm. What do you think of that?"

"Thirty years too late," I tell her.

"You're only as old as you feel," she replies.

"No," I answer. "I can't be that old. You trying to make Methuselah look like a kid?"

"There's a series on outboard motor maintenance. You interested?" she persists.

"Very," I answer. "Might look into that."

"And what about conversational French? Always, always you're talking about bilingualism. You're not even very good at pig-Latin now. And if you took this, Madame would be pleased. Or at least she might be able to follow you a bit the next time we see Paris."

★ ★ ★

"Madame" is Madame Le Prevost, who was our hostess four months ago at a splendid luncheon with magnificent Burgundy in her justly popular restaurant, "Ma Normandie," a hop-and-a-step from the Bourse in Paris. Madame returned the compliment; was our guest at home early this week.

With Gallic efficiency she recruited an interpreter when we visited her in Paris to talk about her small granddaughter, born in the Air Canada plane circling Vancouver's International Airport Christmas before last.

Her daughter, Yolande, looked after translation during their visit to our home. Still, I tried to talk French, attempting to persuade Pat that I have some linguistic talents. Pat doesn't "cor" easily.

So I should take conversational French.

I have received glowing first-hand reports on the excellence of the course. One of my colleagues enrolled last season. He is a man of considerable perspicacity and stalwart in his belief in the Canadian idea. He is also a confirmed Westerner. At the conclusion of the lecture series, plus a little home study, he proved his English-Canadianism by remaining immovably unilingual.

With his example before me and Pat's encouragement, unquestionably I should register for conversational French.

"Mais," I said to Pat, bilingually, "there is un probleme."

"What is it—if I understand your statement?" she asked.

"L' automobile," I answered.

"You mean," she queried, "you want to take motor mechanics as well as conversational French?"

★ ★ ★

"No," I explained. "I mean when you're sailing off in the car to sewing, how am I going to get up to another school for conversational French?"

"Easy," she said. "Walk. And on the way home you can practise pronunciation en Francais. I've noticed you're talking more to yourself these days, and when you're in company, nobody's listening. Might as well find some profit in the exercise."

"There's another difficulty," I ventured. "I find it hard to develop the momentum to get under way. I'm like the millions of other Canadians who aren't retraining or self-improving. Maybe I need a preliminary course in 'readying' for conversational French."

"Nothing could be simpler," she assured me. "We'll just turn the cereal box with the Canadien version facing you at breakfast time. You can puzzle out the script while you're spooning up."

"That may be French," I told her, "but I don't think it's conversational."

'It's just as conversational as you are from the time you get up to the time you leave for the office," she answered.

I closed off the discussion: "Enough! Assez! Je suis fatigue."

Just the same, I'd like to be able to talk conversational French.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 17, 1966 --PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

The debunkers, those human termites whose joy it is to make sawdust of great reputations, seem determined to leave us no heroes. We have heard in detail from Winston Churchill's doctor about the tribulations of his patient's declining years, and last week, a former White House aide had his little say about Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The substance of his revelation is that Roosevelt, who shepherded his country through a depression and most of a world war, loved his wife's secretary. The romance, we are told, ceased to threaten the American president's marriage after he was stricken by polio in 1921. Staunch homely Eleanor stood by her husband, and the rift was bridged if not mended.

Except to cause a raising of eyebrows and provide a juicy chapter for the biographers, this piece of apocrypha carries minimum significance today.

FDR's world is not ours. The fact — if fact it is — that he may have strayed from the marital straight-and-narrow will unseat no governments and dismay no political parties. Except in a remote, posthumous sort of way, it does not qualify as news.

★

The Munsinger extravaganza with its undertones of espionage, was no long-expired scandal. Some of the men concerned in it could conceivably run for federal office in a later year; it is as well if we know their quality.

That bout of hanky-panky in high places, its principals still live and kicking, needed reporting. You had a right to know about it.

But this assiduous digging after old bones, this belated popping of intimate details by persons whose positions of trust provided opportunity to learn them, is a fish of an entirely different speckle.

Too often, the debunker crosses the borderline that separates news from backstairs gossip. I also find his expositions an indefensible prying into the private lives of men and women no longer alive to defend themselves and each other.

The only enduring portion of this life's baggage a man leaves behind him is his name, and his fame if he happens to achieve any. I do not think we should lightly diminish him his sole remaining possessions.

★

When we do so, we not only reduce ourselves, but hurt our children by robbing them of something that is, or should be, part of their birthright.

I do not urge that we limit their perceptions or attempt to cramp their intelligence. After all, it's a long, long time since anyone except a crackpot subscribed to the flat earth theory, or insisted that the stars are holes in heaven's blue carpet.

But which Lawrence of Arabia would you have them remember—the leader of desert freedom-fighters or a warped and vaguely ridiculous little man suspected on the scantily-qualified word of the debunker to have homosexual tendencies?

And which Churchill, which Roosevelt?

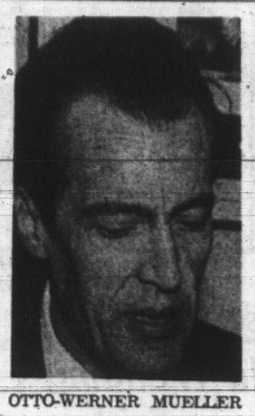

Would you give them the two mighty partners who joined hands and countries in a just cause, or an aging old gaffer plagued by aches and pains, and a future president who may or may not have loved unwisely?

It seems to me that we do not help our young or better the dubious moral climate of our era by tearing down all great examples.

If we persist in remembering every man of stature by his follies rather than his accomplishments, how may we in our turn expect to be remembered?

I do not propose a return to Victorian sham and hypocrisy; just that we leave our kids a few heroes.

And if the proven record requires that we trot out poor, loving Lady Hamilton, let us also recall Horatio Nelson dying for England at Trafalgar.

Conductor Named Lecturer

Otto-Werner Mueller, conductor of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, has been appointed special lecturer in the University of Victoria's new School of Fine Arts.

He will lecture on music theory until next April when he leaves the city to accept other commitments.

Mr. Mueller has conducted the Symphony Orchestra for the past three years and was also first director of the Victoria School of Music.

A CBC-TV production of Rossini's The Barber of Seville under his musical direction won an Emmy Award last year and a prize in Switzerland following its showing in Europe.

Mr. Mueller has been a guest conductor in Spain, Germany and Sweden. In 1963 he was a guest teacher with a master class in conducting at the Moscow Conservatory.

Mr. Mueller is now in the United States filling concert engagements.

BY ECONOMIST

Victorians Under Close Scrutiny

By AB KENT

A new search has started at city hall to pin down the definitive Victoria.

London-trained graduate economist Malcolm Gould has for the last three months been looking at Victoria, its people and various facets of its economy to put community planners permanently in the picture.

The trouble with previous work in the same direction, planning department head Geoff Greenhalgh said, is that information becomes dated so quickly.

With Mr. Gould on his staff, the department will be able to provide statistical data in considerable depth at short notice.

And by studying the past and present, planners will be able to recommend appropriate steps for the future.

Mr. Grenehalgh said it will be possible to determine, for example, the actual value of the tourist industry to the community as a whole, not simply as it relates to retail trade or the service industry.

SURVEY WHOLE AREA

"We are taking a close look at the whole area to define exactly what kind of animal we are," the planner said.

And it will be a continuing process, he said.

Although the actual work so far is exploratory in nature, the output of information later will allow the department "to show how a community can respond by taking appropriate action before pressures are too great," the planning head said.

To give the information greater meaning it will be related to the other municipalities of Greater Victoria, since planners deal in terms of regions.

Ultimately the base statistics will be programmed into the city's budding data processing division so that it can be shared by other departments with equal ease.

"In our department we are interested in trends. We look back at what has happened in order to look ahead," Mr. Greenhalgh said.

"The closer you are to the data and the quicker it is available, the sooner you can make predictions."

SILVER THREADS

'Think Young' Group Filling Hobby Courses

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Membership in Victoria Silver Threads Centre topped the 4,160 mark at noon today.

And 300 early birds signed up for 26 arts and crafts classes which will begin on Tuesday, Sept. 20.

More than a dozen of the enrolling students were 80 years and over and several were in the early 90s.

"Age is no barrier where arts and crafts are concerned," said Mrs. William Logie, who is in charge of all classes.

She tactfully withheld the names of 80 and 90-year-old applicants.

"I don't think the ladies would like it," Mrs. Logie said, "but I'm really thrilled by the general enthusiasm. It shows what a great need there is for this kind of activity in Victoria."

When the first classes were started by Mrs. John Stringfellow five years ago, there were only a handful of students.

Last year the enrolment jumped to 350 a week.

Six new classes will be added this fall, making a total of 26, and there will be 45 volunteer instructors working under the supervision of Mrs. Logie.

The new classes are in rug-braiding, shellcraft, marquetry (wood inlay with a fine veneer), lapidary (polishing stone), liquid embroidery and animal stuffing.

"These classes have been added by request," Mrs. Logie said, "and they are attracting lots of interest."

PAINTING POPULAR

Of the old stand-bys, painting is still one of the most popular. Other favorites are basketry, quilting, woodwork, ceramics, needlepoint and knitting.

Also available are classes in leather work, dressmaking, wood carving, millinery, flowercraft, sewing, loom weaving and china painting.

Arts and crafts exhibitions are held periodically at which the work of students is put on display.

Happiness in old age is largely dependent on a feeling of usefulness to the community, says Mrs. Catherine Horne, director of the Silver Threads centre—at 4 Centennial Square.

"For that reason I feel this is the most important branch of our work. It is also important for the future as the population of elderly persons in Victoria is growing rapidly and people are living longer."

Man Who Called Out Fire Engines Sees Psychiatrist

A psychiatric report for a man who turned in a false alarm to the fire department Monday was ordered by Magistrate William Ostler today in central court.

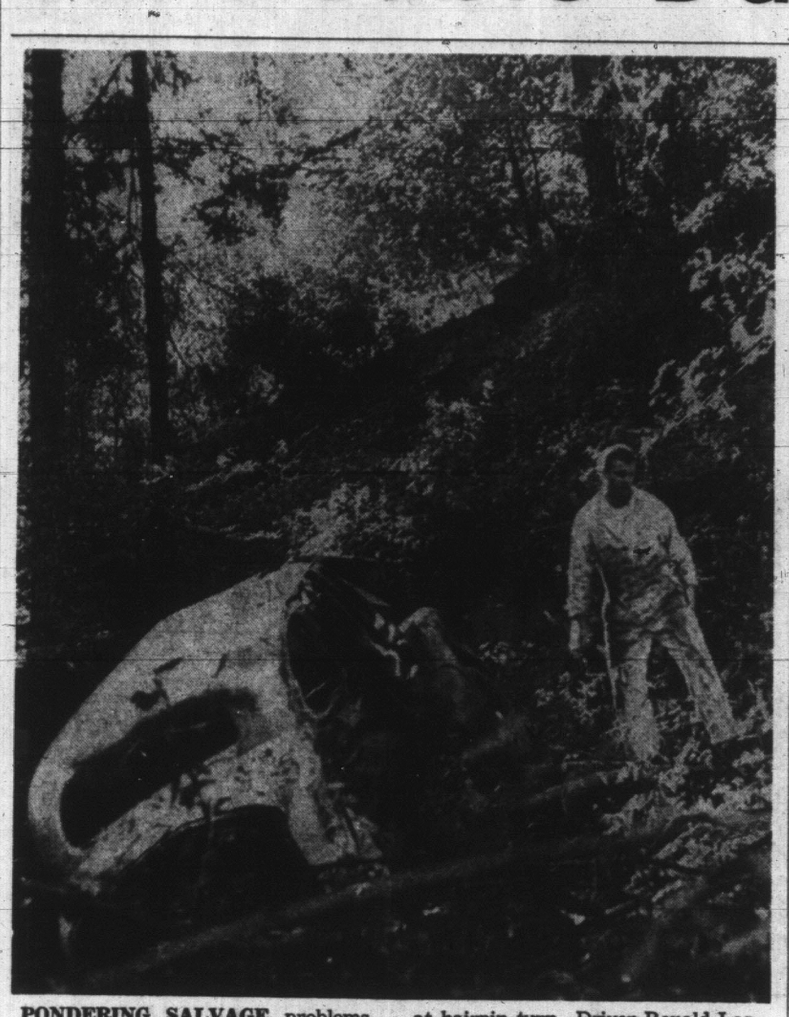

Court was told that Allan Milner, Cobble Hill, pulled an alarm at Fort and Douglas at about 8:45 p.m., calling four trucks and 14 firemen to the intersection.

Milner presented himself at the city police station about a half-hour later and said he wanted to see how long it would take the engines to get there.

Pleading guilty to the charge of turning in a false alarm, he told the magistrate he "wanted to get them to build another firehall with up-to-date equipment."

He was remanded in custody to Thursday.

Court Battle Next Month On Double-Duty Police

PONDERING SALVAGE problems today was employee of Victoria Auto Towing firm attempting to retrieve wrecked car from deep gully off road down Mount Douglas. Car tumbled end over end 135 feet down precipitous mountain side after leaving road at hairpin turn. Driver Ronald Laskun, 18, is in serious condition in hospital. Saanich police suggest four passengers may have escaped injury because car was small and "stopped them bouncing around." (Times Photo.)

Esquimalt Union To Seek Ruling

Esquimalt policemen will take their battle against doubling as firefighters to the Supreme Court in Victoria next month.

An application to the court seeks a ruling that employment of policemen as firefighters is illegal.

The notice was served Tuesday afternoon. The application will be heard Thursday, Sept. 29.

The Esquimalt Policemen's Union, Local 6, said in the notice:

- Employment by the police commission of union members as firefighters "is unlawful and-or beyond the powers" of the commission;
- The duty of policemen to the commission pursuant to the collective agreement "is to discharge the duties and responsibilities imposed by law upon police officers and no other duties or responsibilities";
- It is beyond the powers of Esquimalt Township "directly or indirectly to employ, order or require members of the applicant union to carry out the duties of firefighters."

The union contention has been that the double-duty practice is legally untenable because the police commission hires and fires constables whereas only the municipal council can deal with firefighters.

Reeve Ray Bryant, who is also chairman of the police commission, said this morning it would be "most improper for me to comment," now the issue is before the courts.

But earlier, he stated firmly that any legal moves by the police union would be opposed by Esquimalt.

UNIQUE IN B.C.

The 12-year-old policy of double duties for the 22 policemen is unique in B.C.

Two years ago a conciliation board said it had no jurisdiction over the issue.

This year's conciliation board split on the issue with chairman B. W. Dysart ruling the point is a matter of legality.

Last month, Esquimalt council decided the combined police and fire department will continue.

Fire committee chairman Coun. James Bryant said separate departments would create an "unneeded and unnecessary" tax burden. Initial cost of separate departments would be $165,000, and annual operating expenses would be $132,000, he said.

MICHAEL PUT HIS FOOT IN IT

Three-year-old Michael Little just takes a tiny tot's shoe.

But he managed to "put his foot in it" early this afternoon.

And it took a fireman's crowbar to prie it loose.

Michael, of 1555 Westall, Victoria, was playing across the road from his home when his foot slipped in a drainage tile.

Two firemen took five minutes to chip away enough tile to slide Michael's foot out.

Grant Sought For Widening McKenzie

Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich has asked Highways Minister Gaglardi for this views on declaring McKenzie Avenue a secondary highway.

His letter to the minister followed designation of almost three miles of road looping around the University of Victoria as a secondary highway, making it eligible for provincial government grants.

FIVE SURVIVE 135-FOOT MOUNTAIN PLUNGE

They Took Death Ride and Lived

By GLEN ALLEN

Near midnight Tuesday, like kings and queens of the castle, five young people looked out on a city from its highest hill.

And then quickly, brutally, their castle crumbled.

At the first tight turn in the road down Mount Douglas the car in which they were riding plunged into the dark and down the rock-scarred, wooded face of the mountain.

Miraculously when the small English car came to rest 135 feet below the road, only the driver was hurt.

In serious condition today in Royal Jubilee Hospital is Ordinary Seaman Ronald Leskun, 18, of Windsor, Ontario.

BROKEN PELVIS

The youth, on training at CFB Esquimalt here from Atlantic Command in Halifax, suffered a broken pelvis and internal injuries.

His companions, two boys and two girls, escaped serious harm.

Ordinary Seaman Vasilius Lubinsky, 18, from Beamsville, Ontario, Francis Douglas, 21, of 3579 Quadra, Jo Anne Lekivetz, 17, 1040 Lyall and Jo Ann Lane, 17, 931 Forshaw were taken to Jubilee, treated and released.

Saanich police sergeant Frank Briers, one of five Saanich fire and police personnel who struggled for a half-hour to rescue the injured youth, said "it's just a miracle they're alive."

Fire department Lieutenant Jack Patterson, who rushed Leskun to hospital after tolling up the steep grade with his stretcher said "I can't see how they're with us today.

EIGHT TREES

"There were a good eight death trees in their way. Any one of them would have killed them all."

Police said the car left the road, apparently out of control, shortly before 11:30 p.m.

It landed suspended at a crazy angle, one side touching the rocky ground, the other hanging from a small tree.

The injured driver was lying underneath. The four passengers had been able to climb to the road and call help.

Policemen and firemen had to chop away underbrush around the car's final resting place to get near Leskun.

The five bore him precious feet at a time up the hill. The footing was so bad they kept slipping backwards.

The car is a total wreck.

A Victoria towing firm attempting to bring the hulk back to the road with a cable line found bits of metal, a hubcap and the car's battery on the side of the hill.

The Mount Douglas Road is the only one to the top of the 728-foot high lookout.

Six months ago another car went over at precisely the same point in the road.

Police have not yet determined whether the car failed mechanically.

'LONELY AS HELL, LONELY AS HELL'

Three members of the Northwest Territories entry in the Canadian Centennial Canoe Race prefer the loneliness of the Arctic Circle to the loneliness of civilization.

Larry Sittichinli, Jim Greenland and John Blake have decided to leave the team after completion of a 600-mile canoe trip from Fort St. John to Victoria Monday.

They stood at Vancouver International Airport today and watched their teammates leave for Montreal for another test of endurance.

SAME NOTATION

"He wrote the same thing day after day—'lonely as hell, lonely as hell, lonely as hell.'

"They were happiest in their canoe; let loose at night in those big hotels, they were lost. They did not like the city life. They are all married and they just wanted to go home."

Each canoe normally carries six paddlers, three spares and a commodore.

"We will manage somehow on the reduced crew," said Adderley.

The next trip for the rest of the crew is a race from Montreal to New York in preparation for a 100-day race from Rocky Mountain House in Alberta to Montreal next summer to mark the centennial.

Victorians Going To United Church Waterloo Parley

Three Victoria men will be delegates to the 22nd General Council of the United Church of Canada at Waterloo, Ont., starting Sept. 7.

They are Rev. Robert J. D. Morris, minister of First United Church; Rev. C. Leighton Streight, minister of Cadboro Bay United and Clifford Horwood, a layman at Fairfield United.

The principles of union between the United and Anglican churches is one of the major debates on the agenda.

'Biggest Ever' Begonias Show At Saanichton

The Dominion Experimental Farm at Saanichton has become a mecca for gardeners.

The big attraction are tuberous begonias, believed to be the largest ever grown in North America.

Even director Harry Andison who is known for his understatements, admits he has never seen larger blooms in the United States and Britain.

The fame of the plants have spread far and wide, mostly by word of mouth or letter.

"You have to see it to believe it," said Mrs. Hilda Hill of Victoria, a begonia enthusiast. "They are the best I have ever seen."

They are a sight to behold — a blaze of color and hues. There are about 1,000 plants.

Jack Crossley, horticulturist in charge of ornamentals and his assistant Sam Arrowsmith, are responsible for growing the jumbo begonias.

Grand-Scale Window-Shopping Comes Naturally on Grand Tour

By DON VIPOND

Newcomers to Victoria face a common problem. What sights to see? Which ones first? What to expect? Answers are a matter of opinion, of course. But in this series one newcomer, Times reporter Don Vipond, sketches some of the highlights he found and how he would meet Victoria if he was doing it all again.

Victoria draws the newcomer to her heart.

The ribbons of highway south from the Malahat or from Swartz Bay strike right to the core of the Garden City. But just where Victoria begins is a pleasant debate.

Maybe it's the seat of government, the sombre Legislative Buildings, trimmed with their garish necklace of lights at night.

Perhaps it's the harbor.

Some would say Beacon Hill Park, that tranquil shelter of shaded green laced with all the colors.

Or maybe the city begins where it ends at the park's bluff, the gallery above the strait where Washington's Olympics have drawn an audience since men walked on the island.

●

No matter. All these are right at hand for the newcomer's grand tour, to come upon one by one.

From the harbor and the Buildings, then, swing through Beacon Hill where you'll know the Monkey Tree although you've never seen it before.

The ducks are waiting, voracious beasts keener on tourists than any chamber of commerce. They'll eat anything they can beat the gulls to.

●

Look to the east and there is the tallest of totem poles, where stern faces in red, white and black stare fixedly from the city's first space needle.

The grand tour should swing east then along the marine scenic drive skirting the water of Oak Bay, through well-bred Uplands, past the sails of Cadboro Bay to end almost full circle at Mount Douglas.

Along the way you'll learn the city's most popular if unwritten game.

Which house would be yours if any were yours for the asking?

It's no snap.

On the Oak Bay shore there are first the tidy homes with perfect rockeries, tucked neatly into the stone above the water.

Along Cadboro Bay there seems more room to stretch but perhaps not the height.

It's Uplands though that makes the game a nail-biter. Here homes become estates, gardens are show-cases lawns are gold greens and the electric wiring hides underground in shame.

●

It's window-shopping on a grand scale and later you can try an interesting variation. Stroll the docks of the marinas and select your boat.

Try ending the grand tour your first day at the top of Mount Douglas. Perhaps this is where it should all begin because the city, the parks and forests, the straits, the islands and the mountains — they reach away on all sides.

It's a magic moment, the kind which make some of us come back to stay.

Ask The Times

Q. Where were the canoes in the recent race through B.C. made? About how much do they cost? P.S.

A. A B.C. Centennial Committee spokesman said the canoes were made by the Chestnut Canoe Co., Fredericton, N.B. Bought in quantity they cost about $1,000 apiece.

Q. When and how did Arctic explorer Sir John Franklin die? C.T.

Pearson Takes Charge In Railroad Crisis

Cabinet Group Maps Strategy

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson today took personal charge of the government's railway strike crisis, calling a special cabinet committee to map plans for the impending emergency.

President Donald Gordon of the CNR and President Ian Sinclair of the CPR were called to the capital from Montreal but did not attend the cabinet committee session that began at 11:15 a.m.

Informants said the railway presidents were asked to stand by for cabinet-level consultations later in the day, probably with Mr. Pearson himself.

A full meeting of the cabinet began at 2:30 p.m.

The committee meeting was attended by Labor Minister Nicholson, Transport Minister Pickersgill, Health Minister MacEachen and Immigration Minister Marchand among others.

Several senior government officials were called in, among them George Haythorne, deputy labor minister, Bernard Wilson, the government's top labor relations expert, and R. B. Bryce, deputy finance minister.

Reports that some non-operating railway workers have threatened to stage an unauthorized walkout one minute after midnight tonight gave an air of emergency to the cabinet discussions.

A country-wide walkout by almost 120,000 railway workers is expected within the next three weeks.

If an unauthorized walkout can be averted, the unions plan to set a common strike date and the guessing is that it will be either Aug. 29 or Sept. 6, or some time between those two dates.

Call Parliament Now, Urges Dief

OTTAWA (UPI) — Parliament should be reconvened immediately and the government should bring down a national transportation policy as soon as possible to head off Canada's impending railway strike, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said today.

Diefenbaker said at a press conference the government's action in giving large pay increases to Quebec dockworkers and employees on the St. Lawrence seaway had created a "wage explosion" in Canada.

If the same policy is carried over to the railways, it would result in "the most galloping inflation this country has ever known."

Diefenbaker blamed Prime Minister Pearson in particular and the government in general for the threatened rail strike which would have disastrous consequences on the national economy.

'DON'T WAIT'

He said "some recommendations" of the MacPherson report on railways should be implemented as soon as possible and warned the government against waiting until the strike was underway before taking action.

Diefenbaker said consumer prices were rising every week, that the rate of increase had never been equalled and that there was no end to spiraling costs in sight.

"The major reason is that 11 per cent sales tax on building materials," the Tory leader said.

He also blamed high interest rates which he said were affecting productivity.

Diefenbaker called on Pearson to issue a set of guidelines for the Canadian people — "a call to arms," he called it. He said the prime minister should tell Canadians temporary advantages in the economy would cause serious economic problems in the future.

Local Threatens Wildcat Walkout

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One local of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers union voted Tuesday night to go on strike against Canadian National Railway while five others rejected a conciliation board's wage recommendation.

The 200 members of Windsor, Ont. Local 185, mostly ticket sellers and freight handlers, voted to go on strike at one minute after midnight Wednesday.

Mr. Justice J. C. A. Cameron of the Ontario Supreme Court recommended a 40-cent hourly increase over two years in the dispute between the nation's railways and their non-operating employees.

The CBRT's 21,000 members across Canada represent one-fifth of the workers involved in the dispute.

The union's Local 126 in Belleville, Ont., Local 8 in Saint John, N.B., and Locals 6, 288 and 292 in Moncton voted to reject Mr. Justice Cameron's proposal.

ATHENS (CP) — Government efforts to end the strike of Greece's Olympic Airways failed today.

ONE ARRESTED

Lawyers Quit U.S. Hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The lawyer who brought suit against the house committee on un-American activities was hauled out of the committee hearing room and arrested today, provoking a mass walkout by seven other attorneys.

The eviction of Atty. Arthur Kinoy on orders of acting committee chairman Joe Pool, D-Tex., highlighted another explosive day of hearings on legislation aimed at organizations which have protested the Viet Nam war.

The episode occurred as Kinoy and Pool got into a shouting match over the rights of one of his clients.

Kinoy, a principal attorney in the suit seeking to have the committee declared unconstitutional, was taken in a patrol wagon to a nearby precinct house and charged with disorderly conduct. He indicated he would decline to post collateral and go to trial on the issue.

'MANHANDLED'

His colleagues charged he had been manhandled by the U.S. marshals who evicted him, and declared the arrest was an insult to the American bar.

William Kunstler, who serves as an American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) attorney with Kinoy, declared: "Never anywhere in 18 years of experience have I ever seen a lawyer treated this way."

When Pool refused to back down on his action against Kinoy, Kunstler led a walkout of the attorneys. Two subpoenaed witnesses, Allen Krebs and Walter D. Teague III, who were represented by Kinoy, also stalked out.

Then nine spectators began shouting "end the war" from the rear of the huge hearing room and were taken out by police. Six others had been arrested prior to Kinoy's clash with Pool.

POOL RESISTS

Pool told one of the attorneys, Jeremiah Gutman: "I'm not going to stand here and let a bunch of lawyers take over this hearing and that is what you are trying to do."

Beverly Axelrod, who is also an ACLU lawyer, charged that Kinoy had been "choked and manhandled" while being dragged from the hearing room.

Pool defended the action.

"I listened to his objections patiently," the congressman said. "But he continued to object even after I had told him to sit down and so I ordered him to leave the hearing room. When he resisted, I asked that he be removed."

Bomber Crashes In Village

SAIGON (AP)—A U.S. marine jet fighter-bomber, heavily loaded with bombs and fuel, crashed into a Vietnamese village shortly after takeoff from Da Nang airport today. At least 26 villagers were killed.

The pilot, identified as Lieut. Walter J. Doherty, 22, of Gold Hill, Ore., miraculously escaped serious injury. His parachute failed to open after he ejected, but the fall of his ejection seat was broken by a tree.

A spokesman said the plane was carrying two 1,000-pound bombs. One exploded as did 20-millimetre ammunition.

The crashing plane levelled a number of small Vietnamese homes. Others were set afire.

Cong Guerrillas Attack Near Saigon Airport

SAIGON (AP)—A Viet Cong guerrilla squad staged a half-hour attack with mortars and recoilless rifles tonight on a U.S. motor vehicle pool about a mile from Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport. A U.S. spokesman said they killed one South Vietnamese and wounded six others. He said he knew of no American casualties.

About 20 shells were lobbed at the installation. By the light of flares, vehicle-mounted U.S. military policemen shot back with machine-guns.

Material damage from the shelling was officially reported to be light.

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy pilots reported a surface-to-air missile fired at flight of A-4 Skyhawks Tuesday missed its target, reversed itself and exploded in a populated area east of Haiphong.

A spokesman for the U.S. military command said the pilots reported fires were observed after the missile detonated.

FOR ALL BUT TORIES

Election Drums To Beat Louder

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

The Sept. 12 election campaign began throbbing today as the main party engines warmed up for a flying start tonight.

New Democratic Party leader Robert Strachan and Liberal party leader Ray Perrault were to kick off their campaigns at nominating conventions tonight in Vancouver.

Premier Bennett, just back from some unofficial but vigorous campaigning in the Kootenays, revealed his plans for making his formal campaign opening Thursday night in Campbell River.

It will be followed by a ribbon-cutting ceremony and the start of a whistlestop tour of the Peace River country next week on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

But while the other party machines roared into activity a total silence from the Progressive Conservative party has begun catching considerable attention.

Expectations mounted that a formal gathering of the party's 18-man board of governors scheduled for Saturday in Vancouver will decide not to name a single standard-bearer in this election because the party is heavily involved in internal reorganization.

UP FOR GRABS

Mr. Perrault said that the 11 per cent of the 1963 election vote captured by the Conservatives now will be up for grabs by the other parties.

B.C. Conservative Association president Stuart Fleming told the Times from his Vernon home that the Saturday meeting will decide whether or not the party does contest any seat but he would not hint what the decision will be.

"There will be a positive statement of our decision on Saturday after the meeting. I have already made up my mind about a tentative recommendation but it is based on incomplete information which should be complete by the meeting and I cannot say any more than that."

Exactly half-way to nomination day, Aug. 29, there are 78 candidates declared in the running for the 55 seats of the enlarged legislature — 38 NDP, 20 Social Credit, 17 Liberals, two Communists and two others.

Many of the Vancouver entries have produced major surprises but the biggest question at the moment is whether This Hour Has Seven Days' co-host Laurie LaPierre will stand in one of the lower mainland ridings as a Liberal or NDP candidate.

"I have no comment to make at present about the rumors," Mr. Perrault replied this morning when asked by the Times if Mr. LaPierre would be a Liberal candidate.

"He is interested in running here but I believe it is in the federal not provincial field," said Maynard Wollard, as NDP campaign officer. "But the indications are that if he does run it would be for us rather than for the Liberals as the eastern press has speculated."

Russ Planes Have Missiles

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union can fire long-range nuclear missiles from airplanes, a deputy commander of the Soviet air forces said today.

He said this means Soviet bombers can sit back beyond the limits of any enemy's anti-aircraft defence zone and fire accurately a missile from a distance of many hundreds of miles.

Air Marshal V. A. Agalfsov, a specialist in long-range aviation, made the claim in an interview with the news agency Tass.

'Big Three' Chosen From Hundreds

Three final winners in the Times Photo Contest have been decided.

Drawn from the hundreds of photo entries that flooded the Times office during the six-week contest, they were among first-place winners in the weekly competitions.

The grand prize nets each of the winners a chance at the trip for two around the world and $50,000 in other travel and cash awards in the National Newspaper Snapshot Contest.

Winners are:

Barry G. du Temple, whose photo of an elderly turbanned Muslim holding his grandchild was chosen best in People of the World category by Times judges Bill Halkett, staff photographer, and Audrey St. D. Johnson, drama critic.

Mr. du Temple of 814 Ardmore Drive, Sidney, took the photo in the small village of Sanderskote, outside Lahore, Pakistan, where he was spending two years teaching and studying on a Commonwealth Scholarship.

He is a former teacher at Lansdowne Junior High. The photo appeared in last Thursday's Times.

Gerald W. Bowden of Lake Oswego, Ore, snapped the winning photo in the World in Which We Live category. A former Times carrier boy, Mr. Bowden caught his two young sons, Andrew, four, and David, two, on film as they came eye to eye with a sparrow feeding in their yard.

The photo was entered in the Times contest by their grandfather, Jerry Bowden of Victoria, who thought the photo was good enough to win a prize. It appeared in the Times of Wednesday, Aug. 10.

Maurice Bombezin, of 1310 Prillaman Avenue, took grand prize in the Animals of the World category with his snap of a dog, Kiki and a Siamese cat, Patty, in a head-on encounter on a ladder.

Mr. Bombezin, a woodworker, entered his photos frequently in the contest. He keeps his camera with him almost everywhere, and credits this for the number of unusual shots he gets.

Three of his photos won firsts in the contest, and three more received honorable mention. Mr. Bombezin's winning photo appeared in the Times of Wednesday, July 27.

Quebec Scout Caravan Leaves for Island

JOLIETTE, Que. (CP)—Facing a trip of 3,000 miles, 250 Boy Scouts from Quebec province set out Tuesday for Parksville, V.I., where they will take part in the fifth Canadian (Pacific) Rover Moat.

The caravan was made up of four school buses, five trucks and four trailers—and one airplane.

The trip will take seven days, with stops at Sudbury, Kenora, Ont., Winnipeg, Swift Current, Sask., Lake Louise, Alta., Kamloops, B.C., and Vancouver.

Most of the time on the long trip the scouts' meals will be open-air snacks and at night tents will be pitched at preselected places.

The moat opens Aug. 24 and ends Aug. 31.

Rites Thursday For Well-Known Dairy Farmer

DUNCAN—Paul Lewis Chapman, a dairy farmer in this district for almost 50 years, died at his Lakes Road home Monday.

He was 69.

Besides farming, Mr. Chapman kept a collection of exotic birds and his home was a gathering place for visitors from many parts of the world.

He came to B.C. from Manitoba in 1897.

He is survived by his wife, Dorothy, and a brother, Daniel, at Morro Bay, Calif.

Funeral service wil be at St. Peter's Church, Quamichan, Thursday at 2 p.m., with Rev. W. R. Jefcott officiating.

Spring Start Due On Cowichan Rd.

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN—Construction of a new Cowichan Lake Road likely will begin next spring.

The highways department is negotiating with two lumber companies for the removal of timber on the proposed new route.

About nine miles of new highway will be built proceeding east from the present road west of Sahtlam railroad crossing.

It will cut through Paldi village and come east through Old Hillcrest.

The new route will eliminate Tansor railroad crossing by proceeding three-quarters of a mile to the north.

JOIN HERD ROAD

It will join up with Herd Road at a new intersection with Somenos Road and continue to the Trans-Canada Highway.

A highways department spokesman said today clearing of the new right-of-way could begin in the late fall.

He said paving would not likely start this year.

The new route will mean Cowichan Lake Road by-passing the city of Duncan.

It is understood the new highway will comprise long, straight sections and be almost as wide as the Trans-Canada Highway with wide shoulders.

Cost of the project has not been estimated and tenders will not be called until right-of-way arrangements are complete.

MAYOR HAPPY

Mayor Jack Dobson said the new road would relieve a great deal of truck traffic congestion on Government Street within Duncan.

He said council will now have to take a second look at its plans to reroute truck traffic south of Government Street.

Mayor Dobson said: "We were concerned about the narrowness of Government Street for truck traffic."

Robert Strachan, Cowichan-Malahat MLA, said he is pleased Highways Minister Gaglardi has kept his word to have the road rebuilt.

"I have been fighting for this new road for years.

"Perhaps we should have elections more often."

49-Pounder Wins Boat For Angler

CAMPBELL RIVER—Local fishermen captured all but six of the 26 prizes in the third annual salmon derby.

Winner of the main prize, a 12-foot aluminum boat, was Bob Tuberfield, Campbell River, who hooked a 49-pound, eight-ounce Tyee on a small plug in the Tyee Pool.

Despite an early morning downpour and windy weather throughout the day, the derby drew a record entry of more than 150 boats.

A total of 171 salmon weighing 1,204 pounds were weighed in.

Saanich Woman Faces Sentence For Clock Theft

A woman who shoplifted an alarm clock and returned it for a cash refund pleaded guilty to two counts of theft Tuesday.

Mrs. Sophie Salwicki, 3313 Shelbourne, will be sentenced Aug. 24 after Magistrate Ostler has studied a pre-sentence report.

RCMP Sgt. Verne Williams testified he was called to the Shop Easy store at Colwood Plaza June 30 and there saw the accused hide a loaf of bread under her jacket and put several articles in her purse before checking out other groceries in a cart.

The accused later admitted to taking and returning the alarm clock.

Sentences Suspended

Two young sailors who pleaded guilty last week to three counts of breaking and entering were given suspended sentences in central court Tuesday.

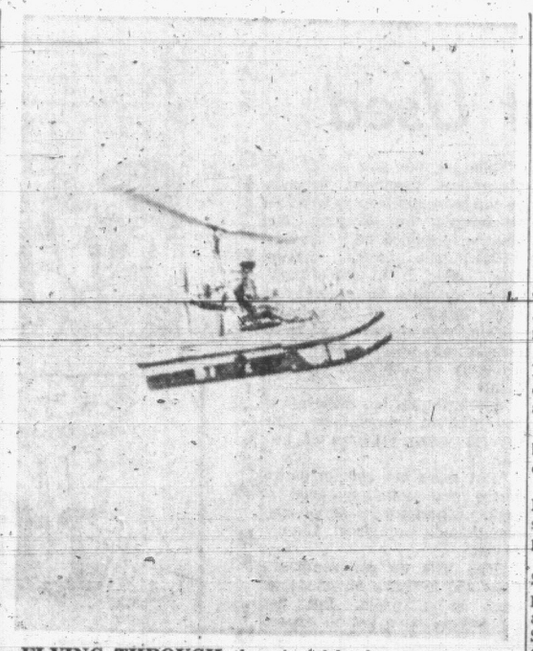

John Grigg and Raymond Scott, both of HMCS Mackenzie, were placed on $500 good behavior bonds for the next two years.

They had also pleaded guilty to two attempted break-ins.

FLYING THROUGH the air with the greatest of ease in his home-made helicopter is Bob Bambrick of Galiano Island. He built the auto-gyro at home from a kit. It cruises at about 200 feet and carries enough gasoline for one hour flying time. On his last test flight it took him six minutes to fly from Montague Harbor to the south end of Prevost Island.

Lance Maclean admitted to police he was "gassed" when they found him in his parked car at Goldstream campsite early Tuesday.

But the youth, who lives at 660 Admirals Rd., bolted from officers and was captured as he hid in some bushes.

Asked in court why he ran, he replied "I just didn't feel like sitting down."

He was fined $350 for impaired driving and his licence was suspended.

TAIL-END DUNCAN TORY SWITCHES TO SOCREDS

DUNCAN—A switch of political horses may make Cyril Craig the Social Credit candidate for the Cowichan-Malahat constituency in next month's provincial election.

Mr. Craig said Tuesday he will seek the Socred nomination at a meeting here Tuesday night.

A retired teacher and farmer, Mr. Craig was the Conservative candidate in the 1963 campaign and ran last in a four-way fight.

Prospects are Cowichan-Malahat will only be a three-cornered contest this time.

Prominent Conservative David R. Williams, a lawyer, said Tuesday it is unlikely the party will field a candidate.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan will launch his campaign to retain the local seat at a nominating convention here Saturday evening in the United Church Hall.

George Whittaker, president of Duncan and District Liberal Association, said Tuesday there will definitely be a Liberal candidate.

Mr. Whittaker would not say if he would again be the Liberal candidate as in 1963.

He said it is hoped to have three names before the Monday evening nominating convention in the agricultural hall.

Alan A. Macfarlane, Liberal MLA for Oak Bay, is expected to be guest speaker.

Asked about his political switch, Mr. Craig said he is an advocate of the two-party system.

The only hope in Cowichan-Malahat for the return of the two-party system is to merge the voting power of Socreds and Tories against the NDP.

Mr. Craig said: "We must return to the two-party system if we are to have politics at all in the future. "I think there is enough room in the Social Credit party for independent thinking."

STRACHAN PLEASED

Mr. Strachan welcomed the reduction in numbers of his opponents.

He said: "The last time there was a three-cornered fight here (in 1960) I had my greatest majority ever."

In 1963 his majority over nearest rival Socred Donald Morton was 1,900.

Mr. Strachan said he will be campaigning actively in the constituency, but added: "I have obligations all over the province which have to be fulfilled."
